Johnson Drafts Plan to Loosen Banking Credit

Seeks More Funds for Use of Business in Recovery Drive.

Administrator to Issue Own Interpretation of Labor Terms.

The country's commercial banking system was put on the recovery "spot" yesterday by Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

He is preparing a plan, he revealed, to pry loose the lagging bankers and assure more expansive credits for the recovery war.

Negotiations also have been started to enlist the aid of the Federal Reserve Board and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he said.

The recovery administrator was asked whether the slowness of banking to come forward with easier credits to aid in the recovery program was due to deliberate intent.

Delay Blamed on Timidity.

'No," he replied. "It is a holdover of the timidity induced by the last few years of downward spiraling prices. I don't believe you can expand commercial credit by fiat. But I do believe that something can be done to expand commercial credits immediately in view of the upward spiraling of prices and the returning confidence in business.

"I am working on a plan to pry the thing loose and expect to have it ready in a few days, as soon as I can get the coal and automobile codes out of the way."

Gen. Johnson also announced he intends to issue in a day or two a statement "clarifying" the collective bargaining provisions of the recovery act.

This dictum has been one of the most contested points in developing codes for industry.

Donald Richberg, general counsel of the Recovery Administration, has insisted that the collective bargaining provisions must not be thrown out of codes.

"There has been so much confusion caused by use of the terms open shop and closed shop that something has to be done to clarify things," Gen. Johnson said. "This statement is going to be my statement. I am not going to let other people interpret this administration."

Earlier in the day he had issued a statement deprecating talk that delay in completing a coal code was caused by opposition of the operators. It was simply due to difficulty in reconciling the problems of such a diversified industry, he said.

Union and antiunion forces sought to move into position to safeguard their principles. Union supporters were fearful of Mr. Richberg's interpretation.

Chiselers" Threatened.

Completion of codes for the coal and automobile industries is expected this wee'.

Hearings on the retail code were launched with an address by Gen. Johnson denouncing unwarranted price increases and repeating his declaration that punitive action would be taken against "chiselers and cheaters."

Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside, in charge of the hearings, pushed them forward, continuing them last night and announcing sessions for tonight.

Recovery officials discussed with representatives of the leather industry revisions of a code for that industry and awaited a compromise proposal by the boot and shoe makers.

5 Die As Mail Train Strikes Automobile

3 Women and 2 Children From Canada Killed in Indiana.

Chesterton, Ind., Aug. 22 (AP).—Three women and two children were killed today when a New York Central mail train, speeding at 75 miles an hour, struck their automobile at a crossing 2 miles west of here.

The women were identified as Miss Christine Macdonald, Mary MacDonald, and Magdeline MacDonald, believed to be sisters from McGrath, Alberta.

The children killed were a boy of about 8 and a girl about 10. Authorities said they believed they were from Edson, Alberta.

Investigators said the automobile apparently had halted near the crossing, double track, for a freight train to pass; then had driven into the path of the mail train.

Nazi Apology Given For Beating American

Berlin, Aug. 22 (U.P.).—An apology for the beating administered Dr. Daniel Mulvihill, of New York, by a Nazi during a parade here recently was tendered by Commander Ernst, of the Brandenburg Storm Troop Corps, to United States Ambassador William E. Dodd today.

The afternoon edition of the Berliner Zeitung publishes a photograph of Dr. Mulvihill, with the caption, "Renowned United States surgeon arrived Berlin."

ALFRED E. SMITH, former Governor of New York, who made an appeal over the radio last night for a fair trial for the national recovery act.

Al Smith Asks Fair Trial for Recovery Drive

Holds President Entitled To Loyal Cooperation; Raps Some Methods.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Alfred E. Smith in a plea tonight for "universal cooperation in a fair trial" of the national recovery movement asserted its failure would mean digging in for a "long seige" with "slow and painful" rehabilitation.

"The plan must not fail," the former Governor of New York added, "through lack of individual cooperation.

"Support of the President's plan is the only course for good citizens in a democracy when there is sickness in the body politic.

Deserves Cooperation.

"The President has frankly stated that this is an experiment and that he will be the first to acknowledge its failure if it does not work. He asks only for loyal cooperation in trying out a plan which gives reasonable promise of success. This cooperation he certainly should receive."

In a recent issue of his magazine, the New Outlook, Smith wrote that while he might be "old-fashioned," he felt he could not understand how the NRA "can possibly work."

In his address tonight, the former governor declared:

"There are many who honestly believe in other remedies. That is not the point. There can be only one cure at a time and the President must, like Luke in the Bible, be the great physician."

Objectionable Methods.

Support of the recovery program, Smith said, "commits no one to a blanket approval of objectionable methods employed here and there in this campaign."

"Do not take too seriously the excessive enthusiasm of some of those supporting the national industrial recovery act," he warned.

"Threats, intimidation, compulsion, boycotts, blacklists and suppression of opinion," he declared, "were never contemplated by the

Four Natural Children Seek Yrigoyen Money

Buenos Aires, Aug. 22 (AP).—Former President Hipolito Yrigoyen of Argentina, who died last July 3 in his eighty-second year, left an estate valued above 1,000,000 pesos (nearly $800,000), an appraisal officially filed today showed.

Four natural children claim a share in the estate of the bachelor statesman, who did not leave a will.

Democracy Defended At Socialist Congress

Paris, Aug. 22 (AP).—Jacob Panken, former New York judge, tonight defended the methods of democracy before the International Socialist Congress here. At the same time he warned the Socialists against believing that President Roosevelt was actuated by Socialistic ideas.

Blue Eagle Is Banned As Private Trade Mark

Oklahoma City, Aug. 22 (AP).—The Blue Eagle may not be used by a private firm as a trade name, the Oklahoma attorney general's office ruled today.

Miss Una Lee Roberts, assistant secretary of state, was advised to refuse a charter to a concern seeking to incorporate under the name, "Blue Eagle Oil & Refining Co., Inc."

Move to 'Fix' Price of Milk Laid to King

Dairyman Says Expert Now U. S. Adviser Made Threats.

Supply Withheld After Refusal, He Tells Senate Group.

A direct accusation that Dr. Clyde L. King, milk adviser to the agricultural adjustment administration, had tried to "fix" prices in the District was made yesterday before the Senate Milk Investigating committee.

His accuser, Robert L. Dickson, secretary of the Independent Arlington-Green Meadows-Fairfax Farm Dairy, added that his milk supply was diverted when he refused to enter the proposed price-fixing pact between distributors and the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association. The hearings are the result of a series of articles in The Post showing a wide disparity in retail price in the District, compared with other cities.

"You'll do as I say or else . . . I have a method to force you," Dickson quoted Dr. King as threatening him.

Charges Milk Withheld.

Subsequently, Dickson continued, 1,800 gallons of milk were withheld from him. When he protested to John Magill, jr., of the producers' association, Dickson said, he was informed the diversion was made on the orders of Dr. King. At that time Dr. King had no connection with the Department of Agriculture.

A reduction of the retail price of milk and a curtailment of production were recommended yesterday by Senator William H. King, chairman of the committee. His remark came when profits of the Thompson Dairy were disclosed.

The Chestnut Farms Dairy desires to reduce milk to 12 cents a quart, according to Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the committee. He was so informed by J. W. McCarthy, secretary of the dairy, he says. But McCarthy, according to Mr. Seal, explained that the producers' association refused to permit the reduction.

McCarthy in Denial.

When asked by Seal if he remembered this statement, McCarthy denied he had made it.

An affidavit charging Dr. King with the price-fixing attempt was made by Mr. Dickson and intro-

Cotton Trades Inquiry Asked

Senator Thomas Reveals "Bureau's" Attempt to Depress Prices.

(Associated Press.)

An investigation by Attorney General Cummings of what he termed a campaign to drive down the price of cotton through short-selling was asked yesterday by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma.

Thomas sent copies of telegrams from New York signed "International Market Forecast Bureau," and addressed to Fenner & Beane, cotton brokerage house, advising short sales. The telegrams dealt specifically with December futures, asserting cotton "is heading for 8 cent level."

One of the messages to Fenner & Beane, dated August 17, said:

"Buying power has spent its force. Another good break coming. Sell December short. Post on bulletin board."

Thomas said a hasty check by him had failed to disclose the existence or address of the organization whose name was signed to the telegrams.

Stockyards Getting First Wave of Pigs

Parade of Thousands Is Started by Production Control Program.

Kansas City, Aug. 22 (AP).—By truck and train, the pigs began going to market here tonight in a big way.

The parade of porkers organized by farmers in response to the opening of the administration production control plan was expected to total 10,000 by tomorrow, when the Government starts buying them.

Because of indications that there will be a big run of pigs weighing less than 80 pounds and brood sows, unsuitable for anything except tankage and meat scraps, prices for those products dropped $5 a ton here today.

Wired Truck Ransom Demand Gets Action

Morris, Ill., Aug. 22 (AP). Frank Hesett, of Chicago, was incensed when his motor truck was stolen, but that does not fairly describe his state of mind when he received a collect telegram asking $10 for its return.

He dispatched a telegram (paid) to Sheriff John Perucca, at Morris, who called at the telegraph office and arrested three men.

Base in Capital Expected From 'Dry' Shake-up

Regional Prohibition Office May Be Shifted Here From Richmond.

A shake-up in the national prohibition enforcement organization, which will make Washington the headquarters for Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, is expected to be announced tomorrow.

Plans by which the office will be shifted from Richmond were learned yesterday by the Associated Press and The Post. For the last decade enforcement activities in West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and the District have centered in Richmond.

It was reported that W. H. Pennington, prohibition investigator for eastern and central Pennsylvania and Delaware, will take charge here.

West Virginia will be transferred to Pittsburgh headquarters for the western Pennsylvania district North and South Carolina will form a new district with offices at Charlotte.

S. R. Brame has been in charge of the Richmond district since July 1. He said last night, over long distance telephone, that he knew no details of the proposed change.

The force working out of Richmond was curtailed recently, leaving only two field men in Virginia.

Neither J. Edgar Hoover, director of the new division of investigation, which handles the intelligence functions in prohibition enforcement, nor John S. Hurley, director of the reorganized prohibition unit, could be reached last night for comment.

Interior Office Fires Burrows

Geological Survey Worker Charged with Changing Efficiency Scores.

Charged with changing efficiency ratings so as to influence furloughing and dismissal of workers, F. J. Burrows, assistant chief of the engraving division of the Geological Survey, was discharged yesterday from the Interior Department.

Seventy-five persons were discharged or furloughed under the ratings which, it is alleged, were altered. All have been restored to duty until new ratings can be made.

Secretary Ickes also said he would "make a change in the position of chief clerk of the survey." John J. Madigan now holds that post.

Emergency Bank Measure Extended

President Roosevelt has extended for another six months a joint resolution empowering the Comptroller of the Currency to put national banks in any State on the same basis as State banks.

This was one of the first measures enacted by the special session after the bank holiday last March. It was passed so that any action by a State banking commissioner might be matched by the comptroller. Both agencies, under this resolution, can cooperate in banking emergencies.

Roosevelt to Be Speaker on Bryan Shaft Program

President Roosevelt has accepted the invitation of the William Jennings Bryan Memorial Association to deliver the principal address at the unveiling of the statue to Bryan, sometime in October. Josephus Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, is president of the Association, but the announcement was made by Manton M. Wyvell, executive vice chairman.

The statue was cast from a model made by Gutzon Borglum. A site approved by Congress has been selected near Lincoln Memorial Bridge.

War Menace Again Hangs Over Austria

Armed Exiles Wander Threateningly Along German Border.

Dollfuss Authorized by France to Increase Army Strength.

Paris, Aug. 22 (AP).—Renewed fear of armed conflict along the Austro-German border today became one of the dangers complicating Austria's political and economic plight.

Reports from Austria said several thousand armed exiles were wandering along the frontier, creating a menace of guerilla warfare.

When the fast-growing Austrian Nazi party, agitating for union with Germany and declaring allegiance to Chancellor Hitler, was ordered outlawed by the Dollfuss government, many were exiled or fled to Germany.

Will Increase Army.

To meet this crisis, France has approved Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' plan to increase the army of 22,000 to 30,000, the limit authorized by the St. Germain Peace Treaty. It is believed Great Britain and Italy will sanction the increase.

If Austria is guarded against such a threat as is reported on the frontier, the French believe the recent loan to Austria of $47,400,000 from the League of Nations and the lifting of French quota restrictions on Austrian exports will revive commerce in that country.

It is believed this will at least help Austria pending the discussions of a proposed economic union or commercial alliance among Austria, Hungary and the little entent—Yugoslavia, Roumania and Czechoslovakia.

French Oppose Union.

A French spokesman said this country is unalterably opposed to any sort of political union for Austria and sees no danger of the already outlawed "Anschluss" since the present regime in Vienna would fight to the death any Nazi movement that seeks delivery of the country to Germany. (The "Anschluss," or Austro-German Union, is outlawed by post-war treaties as well as the league loan to Austria.)

Regardless of whether there is a possibility of the "Anschluss" being realized, such a movement would be vigorously fought by France, Great Britain and Italy as formerly.

Pact Not Applicable.

It was learned on high authority that Great Britain, also, is considering aiding Austria by lifting tariff restrictions and that Italy may take similar action. The French consider the league loan useless unless Austrian economic conditions are improved simultaneously by facilitating the nation's trade abroad.

The recently signed four-power peace pact is not likely to be invoked in the present difficulty. This pact applied only to the signatories, France, England, Italy and Germany.

Allied Agreement Denied.

Rome, Aug. 22 (AP).—Existence of any agreement among Great Britain, France and Italy to back the economic rehabilitation of Austria was denied semiofficially today, but it was pointed out that Premier Mussolini often has stressed the need of helping Austria economically.

Mussolini's views were known to be based on his opposition to any possible union of Austria and Germany and his desire to prevent a Nazi revolution in Austria.

Guard's Discharge Averts Prison Riot

Oklahoma Warden Bows to Demand in Case of Slain Convict.

McAlester, Okla., Aug. 22 (AP).—Order was restored at the State Penitentiary here this afternoon, and Warden Sam Brown announced a threatened convict strike had been averted.

The warden yielded to demands of prisoners and discharged R. J. Ritchie, veteran guard, who yesterday killed a convict accidentally in attempting to enforce a command upon another.

Immediately upon returning from Oklahoma City, where he was reported to have gone to seek machine guns in preparedness against possible convict violence, Warden Brown called prisoners together and announced his decision.

The prisoners cheered and the warden ordered a holiday for the rest of the day for a band concert and athletic contests.

Capper, Caulfield Urge Support for President

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 22 (AP).—Two Republicans, United States Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, and Henry S. Caufield, former Governor of Missouri, asked the Missouri Farmers Association, in convention here today, to back President Roosevelt in his national recovery program.

Capper said organization was the only solution to the farmers' problems.

"Our people have chosen a new leader with power to lead," Caulfield said. "None can doubt our President's sincerity or Americanism."

Hoover Declines Call To Bank Quiz, Ready To Send 'Proper' Data

Detailed and Competent Story Available From Others, He Says.

His Information Mainly Hearsay

Couzens Renews Charge, Denounces Mellon's Rebates on Taxes.

Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 22 (AP).—Former President Herbert Hoover today declined an invitation to appear personally at Detroit and testify regarding the attitude of his administration toward the closing there last winter of two national banks.

In a telegram to Harry S. Toy, Detroit prosecutor, Hoover said:

"Detailed and competent information as to the relation of Federal authorities to the events leading to the closing of these banks can be obtained only from the former officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Federal Reserve Board, the then Comptroller of the Currency, and from the record."

Sees Trip Unwarranted.

Hoover told how the Detroit banking situation had been placed before him "on a Thursday evening in February" and said he received the "impression" that except for the Guardian Trust Co., the Detroit banks "were able to meet their deposit responsibilities if there was no general panic."

He understood the administration was expected to try to bring about cooperation of other banks and outside institutions to reorganize the trust company "and thus prevent a crisis." He concluded:

"I have no objection to furnishing any information which I properly can, but such information as I can give is only general and is mostly second-hand, and is insufficient to warrant a journey to Detroit, and can be more effectively given by the officials mentioned.

"I am sure it is fully available to you."

Prosecutor Sees Judge.

Detroit, Aug. 22 (AP).—Officials of Detroit's one-man bank investigation jury announced tonight they would issue a statement tomorrow regarding what further action they would take as a result of Herbert Hoover's statement that he had insufficient information to justify his coming to the city as a witness in the inquiry into the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Apprised of the former President's decision a few hours after they had sent him an "earnest request" for his testimony, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy and Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan, who constitutes the one-man grand jury, went into conference.

"I have nothing to say tonight in connection with Mr. Hoover's message," said Judge Keidan.

"I will make no decision until I have conferred with Judge Keidan," said Prosecutor Toy.

Couzens Ends Story.

Hoover telegraphed his refusal to Toy, explaining that, while he had Nanchang, China (Wednesday), Aug. 23 (AP).—Kiangsi provincial authorities officially announced today that six persons were killed and 35 injured in the derailment of a train running between this town and Kiukiang Sunday. Earlier reports had placed the death toll much higher. Two coaches left the rails.

Billy Sunday Sees Doom Of Prohibition Nearing

Omaha, Aug. 22 (AP).—Billy Sunday, long a fiery dry orator, will give up preaching of prohibition, he said today as he went through Omaha, bound for his ranch at Hood River, Ore. He was stricken with hay fever recently.

Sunday is still a firm prohibitionist, but he said he believed the eighteenth amendment would soon be repealed.

Rush Is on for Reserved Seats At Firemen's Labor Day Fete

Hundreds Ask Tickets; 12,000 Expected to Go Before Parade.

Hundreds of reservations have been made for grandstand seats for the National Firemen's Labor Day parade.

The printer yesterday was unable to deliver the first batch of tickets, but promised them this morning. However, reservations are being taken and will be filled upon receipt of the tickets.

First come, first served, is the fire fighters' motto. Paradegoers seemed to sense this from the way they poured into The Post yesterday.

Negotiations are under way to have seats sold at various stores. Until then they can be had at the office on the first floor of The Post.

Price 35 to 75 Cents.

The seats will retail from 35 cents to 75 cents, including tax.

Upward of 12,000 seats are available, but at the rate reservations came in yesterday, they will be taken well before the beginning of the parade.

Last year more than 150,000 persons viewed the great parade along Pennsylvania avenue. This year, with a bigger event planned, a larger turnout is expected.

Tabs Good for Other Events.

Each ticket entitles the holder to the bicycle and roller skating sweepstakes as well as the parade. The first of the events begins at 10:30 a. m. Labor Day morning. They should last until 1 p. m., with the end of the parade.

Persons who can not come down town for reservations may make them by telephone or by mail to The Post, or through Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, at the Fire Department Training School, North Carolina avenue.

Floats Being Constructed.

Six well-known establishments yesterday began work on commercial floats for the National Firemen's Labor Day parade.

They are Try-Me Bottling Co., John H. Wilkins Coffee Co., Chevy Chase Dairies, Abner Drury Brewing Co., Pioneer Laundry Co., and Standard Oil Co.

These six are being built by the District Hargrove Co., 500 H street northwest, which is working with the committee. All concerns which plan to enter floats in the commercial division are urged to send in their entry blanks at once, as this division is limited in number.

An entrance fee of $15, payable to the Firemen's Parade Fund, should accompany the entrance blank.

Racing Prizes Offered.

Prizes for the bicycle and roller skating sweepstakes along Pennsylvania avenue just before the Firemen's Labor Day parade are as follows:

Open mile race for the District championship: First, gold medal; second, silver medal; third, bronze medal.

Novice race: First, Colson tandem bicycle; second, electric horn; third, mudguards; fourth, tires; fifth, pedals.

Race for boys 16 years and under: First, gold medal; second silver; third bronze; fourth, tires; fifth, scout knife and chain.

Girls' race: First, bicycle; second, lantern; third, cyclometer; fourth, bicycle basket.

Messengers' race: Gold medals for each winner.

Tandem race: Gold medals.

Army Officers, Divorced, Just Trade Wives

Leavenworth Women Get Decrees Together; All Friends.

Fort Leavenworth, Kans., Aug. 22 (AP).—Capt. William B. Bradford, Cavalry, U. S. A., introduced to associates here today a new Mrs. Bradford, whom they had known until now as Mrs. Katherine McDonald, wife of Maj. Stuart C. McDonald, Infantry, U. S. A.

It developed that the first Mrs. Bradford, who had gone "vacationing" in Arkansas several months ago with Mrs. McDonald, is now the second Mrs. McDonald.

So a double triangle, which had Army post tongues wagging early this year, had become just two pairs of honeymooners.

In other words, two wives had traded husbands on a perfectly friendly basis and their "vacation" turned out to have been a matter of establishing residence.

Maj. McDonald and his new bride did not return to Fort Leavenworth. The major has been assigned to Conservation Corps work in Pennsylvania. The major and captain were fellow students in the command and general staff school last year when the dual romances began.

Their wives went to Bentonville, Ark., rented a house and lived there until granted their divorces on the ground of incompatibility.

Seven in Truck Killed by Train

Five Other Farmers Riding On Load of Tobacco Also Seriously Hurt.

Lumberton, N. C., Aug. 22 (U.P.).—A speeding passenger train dealt death to seven men and boys, probably fatal injury to an eighth, and serious injuries to four others today when a truck carrying 12 farmers and loaded with tobacco was driven into the side of the train.

The entire group was from Deep Run, near Kinston, and was en route to the tobacco market at Fairmont.

The driver of the truck said his view was obstructed by houses.

The dead:

Jesse Davenport, 24; Louis Davenport, 32, and Wesley Davenport, 14, sons of Furnine Davenport.

Walter Smith, 20, and Burchard Smith, 23, brothers of the truck driver.

Dick Harper, 19.

Clyde Taylor, 22.

The injured:

Furnine Davenport, 58, father of the three dead boys, was not expected to live early tonight.

Haywood Smith, the truck driver; Millard Davenport, 61; Woodrow Taylor, 20, and Zeb Brown, 28.

Capital Man Victim Of Mystery Attack

J. C. Schrower in Hospital; Found Unconscious From Beating.

Battered into insensibility and near death, a man identified tentatively as John C. Schrower, 40, of 1430 W street northwest, was found late last night lying in an areaway near Sixth and C streets northeast.

He was taken to Casualty Hospital and treated for a fractured skull and other injuries.

Schrower was found by a taxicab driver, Thomas Crabtree, of 703 N street northwest, police said. He was identified by a paper physicians found in his pocket.

Havana Street Named Sumner Welles Avenue

Havana, Aug. 22 (AP).—Cardboard signs appeared today along Monserrate street reading, "Avenida Sumner Welles" (Sumner Welles avenue). The Embassy of United States Ambassador Welles is at Monserrate No. 1.

Welles initiated political mediation efforts which had been in progress some time before the overthrow of President Gerardo Machado.

Ramos said he will remain in Panama a month and then return to Cuba.

Retailers' Code Hearing Brings NRA Warning

Johnson Says Steps Will Be Taken to Prevent Skyrocket Prices.

(Associated Press)

Retail merchants were told plainly yesterday by Hugh S. Johnson that the recovery administration would see to it that President Roosevelt's reemployment program did not send prices shooting skyward without justification. He said the administration considered its duty in preventing a "run-away market" as much the object "of our concern as any other phase of this law."

Retailers here for code hearings were urged to resist unreasonable prices quoted them by jobbers and manufacturers, with the recovery chief asserting that "we will support you within the limits of the ruling that is stated in the President's reemployment agreement."

At the same time, Johnson told the merchants that in carrying the reemployment program forward there would be no attempts at violence or "manhunting," but that if cheaters behind the Blue Eagle were found "we are going to move in there and take that eagle off that window, we are going to do it under circumstances that the whole world will know why we have taken it off, and that we have taken it off fairly."

Five Million Affected.

A. D. Whiteside, deputy administrator, who presided over the hearing, said that in all, 1,499,720 retail concerns and more than 5,000,000 employes would be affected by the code.

It was presented by the National Retail Furniture Association, the National Retail Hardware Association, the National Retail Dry Goods Association, the Mail Order Association, the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers and the National Shoe Retailers Association.

It provided for a 44-hour work week, with 48 hours during rush seasons, for those earning less than $30 a week, excepting registered pharmacists, professionals, outside salesmen and delivery employes. Maximum hours in cities and towns under 10,000 (except where they are not a part of a larger trade area) were fixed at 48 hours.

Minimum Wage Scale.

Minimum wages would be: Cities over 500,000, $14 a week; 100,000 to 500,000, $13; 10,000 to 100,000, $12, with a dollar differential in all classes for Southern cities. In towns between 2,500 and 10,000 wages would be increased 20 per cent, except that wages need not exceed $11 but must be over $10.

The code would embrace virtually all stores and shops in the country with the exception of food and drug stores.

"The national industrial recovery act," Johnson told the merchants, "will increase the cost of manufacturing and distribution, but simply because there is an upward tendency in the increase of costs does not mean that everybody is going to mark up their goods in anticipation of cost increase for the purpose of reaping an expedient profit by a sort of speculative pricing of goods.

Knows of "Trifling" Now.

"We have simply asked the people to cover themselves by the cost of complying with this law, and we ask that they do not go beyond that and start in running an upward price movement because if you do do that you just kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

"We can disseminate the purchasing power among the many and distribute it among the people to enable them to purchase goods, but to run up the price, regardless of slight increases in wages, prevents the purchasing power and forces them to purchase less, and then this thing will collapse like a house of cards. * * *

"We have appealed to the people of this country to patronize those people who are cooperating and we have asked them to buy under the Blue Eagle. That is not boycotting."

Johnson said he knew there was a "lot" of trifling with the Blue Eagle now, but that as soon as his administration had obtained the widest cooperation possible, "we will attend to the cases of people who put the Blue Eagle in their windows and cheat behind it."

Hit-Run Auto Kills Wife of College Head

West Hampton, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP). Mrs. Harvey N. Davis, 45, wife of the president of the Stevens Institute of Technology at Hoboken, N. J., was killed when struck by an automobile, while riding a bicycle tonight. The driver of the car that struck Mrs. Davis did not stop.

Convict Code

Darrow Pleads for Market for Prison Goods at NRA Hearing.

The Nation's most famous criminal lawyer was in the Capital yesterday long enough to defend the rights of 400,000 convicts to work.

At the request of the Federal Pardon and Parole Board, Clarence Darrow went to the retail code hearing in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building and pleaded for removal of a clause in the tentative code which would prevent merchants from purchasing convict-made goods.

"A man must do something but pound rocks if our penitentiaries are ever to be more than crime factories," Darrow said. "What he does must be useful."

Darrow said convict-made goods must find a market if the system is to be maintained. Employment facilities in Federal prisons are paid for by taxation, he explained.

"Some day," he declared, "I hope to live in a civilized world."

With Roosevelt at Hyde Park

Dutchess County Citizens to Give First Formal Reception Next Saturday for Their Distinguished Neighbor; Scouts Make Big NRA Emblem.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Citizens of Dutchess County will tender neighbor Franklin D. Roosevelt their first formal community reception next Saturday, on Vassar College campus. It will be an all-county celebration arranged under the joint auspices of half a dozen commercial and civic organizations of Hyde Park and Poughkeepsie.

Although Mr. Roosevelt was born here and has been influential in the civic affairs of the community for more than a quarter-century, he always has been too occupied in the past with the business of his State or Nation to participate in anything savoring of an official home-coming celebration. Not since he was formally notified of his nomination for the Vice Presidency, with James M. Cox, in 1920, has he appeared at anything approaching a prearranged public assemblage in his honor. Upon the insistence of the committee, however, he now has consented to be present at next Saturday's celebration, and to make a brief address in response to the official welcome. The Vassar campus was selected by the committee after Mr. Roosevelt had rejected summarily the suggestion that a "President's Day" be set aside at the county fair.

* * * *

Before another year passes, if the President's suggestion is followed, the annual convention of the New York Democratic Union will gather in Poughkeepsie. This historic political pow-wow, which brings together party leaders from every county, met in another traditionally Republican stronghold at Elmira last Saturday for an old-fashioned preprimary rally. In his capacity of party generalissimo in New York State, Postmaster General James A. Farley was present to help whoop it up for a Democratic majority in the lower house of the Assembly next year. After a plea for a militant State-wide offensive in the fall, Farley presented a brief greeting from President Roosevelt.

"I wish all my friends the best of luck," the President wrote, "and I am looking forward to this time next year, when, I understand, that this gathering will take place in my own home county of Dutchess."

The largest NRA emblem in the Empire State awaits President Roosevelt's inspection during his visit on Wednesday to the New York City Boy Scouts' camp at Narrowsburg, on the Delaware River. The unique bunting, more than 50 feet long, was fashioned by the young campers to form an entrance arch for the President's motor. It bears the Scout emblem, the Blue Eagle and the pledge, "Mr. President, we will do our part." Some 2,500 Scouts from the metropolitan area contributed time or labor to the preparation of the banner. Mr. Roosevelt was largely responsible for the establishment of the Narrowsburg camp six years ago, when he obtained the site from New York City. An all-day program of special Scout entertainment has been arranged in honor of the camp's distinguished visitor. Scout contingents from several adjacent States will form the Presidential guard or honor along the camp roadways.

The intensive Nation-wide manhunt for the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., still is on, according to the postoffice bulletin board in Poughkeepsie, county seat of Dutchess. Prominently displayed beside the window which now clears the White House mail twice daily is a copy of the proclamation issued by Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey offering $25,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of anyone involved in the crime. The postoffice is directly across Market street from the executive offices of the summer white house. Dated May 26, 1932, the appeal is signed by H. Norman Schwarzkopf, who, as superintendent of the New Jersey State Police, was a central figure in the futile effort to bring the kidnapers to justice.

Like most notices and proclamations which hang in postoffices, the Lindbergh poster is yellowing and cracking at the edges. Here and there the type has faded. But Postmaster Harry Conklin never has been notified of the withdrawal of New Jersey's offer.

President Roosevelt often is interested, and frequently amused, by characterizations or "interpretations" of himself in the news. Among a pile of clippings placed before him for leisurely perusal this week was an account of a sermon last Sunday in New York City which described the irrepressible Roosevelt smile as the key to the President's success. Many great men, runs the thesis of the Rev. Philip Cowell Jones, associate minister of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, fail to enlist popular support because they are too intense and serious. "At any rate, we welcome heartily a President who can laugh in the midst of tense and urgent days." The sermon then quoted Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, on what was described as the Chief Executive's will-to-be-lighthearted.

"The ready laughter of Roosevelt is not the reckless rollicking of an irresponsible mind," said Dr. Frank. "It is rather the tonic relaxation of a mind that knows instinctively that unnecessary tension is the enemy of clear thought. I submit the will-to-be-light-hearted as an important plank in national recovery."

* * * *

Dr. Frank's observations coincide with those of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. "Franklin Roosevelt is one of the most relaxed human beings I ever knew," Secretary Perkins wrote several weeks ago. "No matter how hard he works or how terrific his problem, he is never tense."

Cabinet Studies Building Plans

Program of Local Public Works to Give Jobs Is Ready for Action.

(Associated Press.)

The first batch of local public works projects approved by State advisory boards was awaiting action yesterday by the Cabinet board in charge of the $3,300,000,000 job-giving program.

State engineers and State advisory boards, established to pass on non-Federal projects being sought under the public works fund, have forwarded 21 of these to Washington. Secretary Ickes disclosed that they came from Georgia, Idaho, Maine, Florida, Maryland, Illinois, California, Michigan and Colorado. They are being examined to determine if their qualifications justify allotments.

The larger part of the nearly $1,200,000,000 allotted by the Public Works Administration has been for Federal projects, because it was felt these could be set in motion more rapidly than non-Federal ones, but the bulk of the balance of the fund is expected to be used for the latter.

Non-Federal projects submitted with applications for funds are examined by the Public Works Administration's legal, financial and engineering divisions. Any of these can disqualify a project.

River Yields Body; Gives Murder Hint

Maryland Officials Probe Death of Victim Whose Skull Was Crushed.

The body of a man, bearing marks which point to murder, was found last night in the Potomac off Marshall Hall, Maryland amusement park. An autopsy was ordered following preliminary investigation by Deputy Sheriff John Sprague and Judge Francis Mattingly, acting coroner for Charles County.

Still unidentified, the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Hunt & Ryan at Waldorf.

The floating corpse was found by two boys, who were fishing from a boat about 20 yards off shore. Condition of the body indicated it had been in the water two or three days.

There was a 2¼-inch gash in the man's head and his skull was believed fractured. One ear was missing. The man was about 35 years old, 5 feet 10, tattooed on both arms and fully dressed.

Hammond Hits NRA Abuses

Anxious to Check Them, But Censures Shops Punishing Rivals.

(Associated Press.)

Although no one outside of Washington has authority to take an NRA Blue Eagle away from a merchant, even if he is violating the Presidential agreement, officials here are anxious that local agencies should act to correct abuses without reference to Washington.

This was made clear last night by Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the NRA's Blue Eagle division, in an official statement which also censured groups of merchants that try to punish competitors for keeping their stores open longer hours than most of them do.

Hammond emphasized the NRA agreement sets no maximum limits on hours of store operation and the whole spirit is "to increase employment by shortening hours of individual employes without reducing number of hours of store or service operation."

The division director issued his statement after receiving reports that local NRA boards have been assuming judicial functions, threatening to take away the Blue Eagle from merchants, or actually doing so, in cases of violations. Repeatedly the administration has emphasized its power in this respect is not to be delegated outside the Capital.

Class I Roads Add One Locomotive in '33

(United Press.)

On all the Class I railroads of the United States, only one new locomotive was put in service in the first seven months of 1933, and only one more had been ordered on August 1, the American Railway Association revealed last night.

In the corresponding period last year, 34 new locomotives were put in use and on August 1, 1932, six were on order.

The roads put 1,391 new freight cars in service up to August 1 this year, compared with 2,251 last year, and had 1,187 on order August 1, compared with 1,646 last year.

Oil Prosecutor Named in Step To Curb Wells

J. Howard Marshall to Move Against Texas Violators of Orders.

(Associated Press.)

J. Howard Marshall, of the Interior Department, yesterday was appointed a special assistant to the Attorney General in charge of oil cases as part of the Federal Government's mighty effort to control petroleum production.

Marshall was named as the Interior Department prepared to bring action in the Federal Court, in East Texas, against some operators believed to have violated recent Federal orders prohibiting interstate shipment of crude oil or its products produced in violation of State laws and regulations.

For some weeks Marshall has been in the East Texas and Oklahoma City oil fields surveying conditions and compiling information for use in prosecuting violators. The recent oil shipment prohibitory order provides a $1,000 fine and six months in jail for each violation.

Recently Ickes' order prohibiting interstate shipment of illegally produced oil was sustained in a test in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Marshall, formerly attached to the Yale School of Law, was appointed in the solicitors' department of the Interior Department on June 26 as a special oil expert. He will engage in production control work under the petroleum industry code.

60,000 End Strike In Garment Trade

NRA Agreement Ratified In New York; All Back to Work.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The strike of 60,000 workers in the dressmaking industry was broken today when the United Dress Manufacturers Association, the last to sign, ratified the NRA agreement on wages and working conditions.

At headquarters of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union it was announced that union workers had begun to return to the shops.

Workers in Connecticut and New Jersey who joined in the stoppage last Thursday will return to work as soon as the agreement can be put into effect, probably before the end of the week.

St. Louis, Aug. 22 (AP).—Members of the St. Louis Union of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America today instructed union officials to call a strike in all factories here. Hyman Schneid, organizer, estimated 2,500 garment workers would be affected.

Louisiana Vote Errors Mount

Discrepancies Discovered In 8 More Precincts of New Orleans.

New Orleans, Aug. 22 (AP).—Intent upon completion of his investigation of ballot boxes in the constitutional amendment election of last November, District Attorney Eugene Stanley announced that ballots will be recounted daily until all New Orleans precincts have been checked.

The recount resumed today showed totals at a variance with the tabulations of election officials. Two previous recount sessions resulted in charges against 51 election commissioners.

The recounts today were in eight precincts on an amendment authorizing a $5,000,000 bond issue to pay indebtedness incurred during the administration of former Gov. Huey P. Long.

The recount total showed 1,910 votes for the amendment and 539 against it, as compared with the official tabulation of 2,324 for and 329 against.

NRA Seeks Peace In Screen Walkout

(Associated Press.)

A proposal by the National Labor Board of the NRA to arbitrate the Hollywood moving picture strike will be presented today to producers and representatives of the striking union.

The plan, under which strikers would return to work "without prejudice" pending arbitration of the dispute, was broached yesterday by Walter Teagle, a member of the NRA Industrial Advisory Board, at a conference between the labor board and spokesmen for the workers.

Members of the board are hopeful that the plan will bring peace in the strike, which has threatened to spread to movie theaters throughout the land.

Plane Amuck!

Pilot Lands in Chute as His Ship Terrorizes Throng, Crashes.

San Gabriel, Calif., Aug. 22 (AP). A pilotless airplane roared over rooftops and terrorized hundreds here today before it crashed in a back yard without injuring anyone.

The plane was flown to Los Angeles from San Diego by Kenneth Chastain and A. Saul Alpert. Soon after they landed, the ship was taken up by Morrie Gordon for a pleasure ride. At a height of 3,000 feet a rudder cable broke and Gordon bailed out in his parachute.

Then the plane went into a steep dive, leveled off and headed for the business district. Finally zigzagging it turned over and crashed.

Beauty Code

Cosmetologists to Offer Their Ideas Today to Gen. Johnson.

The permanent wave and the close shave have been divorced by the NRA.

The beauty makers wanted a code of their own. Today a provisionally approved code will be officially presented to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson by Emile Beauvais, president of the National Cosmetologists Association.

The shaving mug made the first bull's-eye when Gen. Johnson approved a blanket code drafted by the master barbers for both industries. Monday 3,000 delegates representing 35 States held a tumultuous meeting at the Hotel Astor in New York and drafted a code for the beautifying industry.

A definite price scale was adopted that will dispose of the unfair competition by apprentice schools and diploma mills. A minimum age of 16 has been fixed.

This code affects 300,000 actual workers in 70,000 beauty shops. Last year the aggregate business of this industry ran well over $400,000,000.

Safety Record Of Passenger Planes Is Set

38,321,196 Miles Flown Per Fatality in First 6 Months of Year.

Commercial airlines in America flew 38,321,196 passenger miles per passenger fatality during the first six months of 1933, a record never before equaled.

American-operated passenger lines had a total of 48 accidents, including five fatal accidents, in only one of which were passengers killed. Two passengers, four pilots, one ground crew man and ten persons who were not passengers and were not in any way connected with the operation of the aircraft, represent the fatalities.

During the first six months of 1928 and the first six months of 1930 also there were two passengers killed, but in each period the miles flown by the airlines were much less than the mileage during 1933. In the first six months of 1928, all airlines flew about 4,500,000 miles, and in the same period of 1930, 20,000,000 miles. During the same period this year, the lines have flown 25,862,120 actual miles. Thus the miles flown per accident were 538,794.

According to the detailed report of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, through its accident board, causes of accidents were divided as follows: Personnel errors, 15.61 per cent; power plant failures, 21.88 per cent; airplane failures, 12.5 per cent; weather, 27.09 per cent; airport and terrain, 14.59 per cent, and other causes, 8.33 per cent. This board consists of two pilots, a flight surgeon, an aeronautical engineer, a lawyer versed in air law, and a statistician. The board investigates and determines the causes of all civil aircraft accidents by analyzing reports from the field and reducing them to their causation factors, expressed in percentages.

Of the 48 accidents so far this year, 32 occurred in the daytime and 16 at night.

4-Alarm Fire Razes Mill in Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 22 (AP).—Flames, which resulted in the sounding of four alarms, tonight destroyed a paper mill supply warehouse here and menaced an adjoining warehouse in which a quantity of turpentine and baled paper and rags were stored.

The building, in which the blaze occurred, was filled with burlap bags, rags and baled rope. It was the property of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and leased to William A. Cohen Co. A small boy discovered the flames and ran to a nearby firehouse to give the alarm.

U. S. Takes Up Closer Trade With Colombia

Phillips, Lozano Talk on Proposed Pact; Bid to Portugal Next.

President Roosevelt's campaign for closer trade relations with Latin America opened yesterday with a conference between Colombian Minister Fabio Lozano and Acting Secretary of State William Phillips.

The conference was called to determine whether a new trade agreement between the two countries could be reached.

President Olaya Herrara of Colombia has notified the Department of State he is sending Arturo Hernandez and Francisco Restrepo Plata to assist Minister Lozano.

Portugal Also Invited.

The projected trade agreement is the first of a series the United States will undertake soon to replace present treaties by reciprocal tariff pacts. Portugal is the second country invited to the trade talks. The newly appointed Minister, Joao Antonio de Bianchi, will begin negotiations on his arrival here in September.

Of yesterday's trade talk, Acting Secretary Phillips said:

"Preliminary conversations were initiated with the Colombian minister to determine whether it will be mutually advantageous to negotiate a trade agreement. These discussions are informal since they are of an exploratory nature.

American Ambassador Hugh Gibson, at Rio de Janeiro, announced that the Brazilian government was awaiting definite date for beginning the Brazilian-American trade conversations.

Espil Asks About Date.

Brazil and Argentina's trade balances include a large proportion of American commerce in imports and exports.

Argentine Ambassador Felipe Espil called at the State Department to inquire the probable date for the trade discussions.

New trade agreements were originally planned for six countries: Colombia, Portugal, Brazil, Argentina, Sweden and Cuba.

Balky Cotton Men Face Federal Ire

U. S. Will Plow Up Crops, If Growers Renege, Davis Declares.

(Associated Press.)

If the farmers who agreed to cut their acreage this year won't plow up their cotton, the Government will.

The Farm Administration announced yesterday it would insist on the fulfillment of contracts by those who signed reduction agreements, with no ifs, ands and buts about it.

The time for the farmer to plow up his cotton expires today at midnight. If the staple has not been destroyed then, the county agent, as the representative of the Government, will take steps to have it done. The added expenses will be deducted from the grower's benefit payments, given him for his agreement to curtail acreage.

Chester C. Davis, the Farm Administration's director of production, said the decision to see that the cotton is destroyed was not made because of widespread refusals to plow under.

"Only a few isolated cases have come to our attention, but in fairness to all producers and in fairness to the Government," he said, "it will be the policy to require performance of every offer that has been accepted."

Famous Police Chief Dies.

Hull, Mass., Aug. 22 (AP).—Michael H. Crowley, 67, superintendent of Boston police and former president of the International Order of Police Chiefs, died today from a heart attack.

Virginia, Mother of Police

Largest Quota of Members of Washington Force Come From Old Dominion and Not From Ireland, as Once Popularly Supposed.

Once, according to popular notion, all policemen came from Ireland. Nowadays, according to a check-up at police headquarters, hardly any policemen come from Ireland.

Rated as the most cosmopolitan police force in America, with personnel from 44 States, the District of Columbia and 15 foreign countries, only 20 members on the Metropolitan Police Department come from Ireland—out of a total of 1,300 good men and true.

Lieut. Arthur E. Miller, in the personnel division, looking over this record, sat back in his chair and sighed: "Arrah, me bye, Ireland isn't what it used to be."

Virginia leads the list—a total of 260 sons walking the District beats. The District of Columbia comes next, with 237 residents on the force. Maryland contributes 134.

There are just four States missing on the list, not one of them sending a man to keep everything quiet along the Potomac. They are New Mexico, Wyoming, Montana and Vermont.

Of foreign nations, England is next to Ireland in supplying police force material here. Four members of the force come from the mother country. Italy sends two. The same number is supplied by Austria, Russia and Norway. The following nations are represented by one son apeice: France, Poland, Canada, Denmark, Greece, Holland, Syria, Sweden and Brazil.

Only one woman on the force is of foreign birth. She is Miss Nanette K. Adams, daughter of an American father who was attached to the embassy in Brazil when his daughter was born in that nation's capital.

So far as the American States are concerned with their relationship to the Metropolitan police force, the record follows:

District of Columbia, 237; Alabama, 14; Arizona, 3; Arkansas, 6; California, 4; Colorado, 5; Connecticut, 7; Delaware, 3; Florida, 2; Georgia, 33; Idaho, 3; Illinois, 19; Indiana, 16; Iowa, 16; Kansas, 7; Kentucky, 20; Louisiana, 2; Maine, 3; Maryland, 134; Massachusetts, 20; Michigan, 10; Minnesota, 16; Mississippi, 10; Missouri, 22; Nebraska, 4; Nevada, 2; New Jersey, 6; New Hampshire, 13; New York, 39.

North Carolina, 44; North Dakota, 1; Ohio, 26; Oklahoma, 5; Oregon, 1; Pennsylvania, 55; Rhode Island, 6; South Carolina, 20; South Dakota, 1; Tennessee, 38; Texas, 17; Utah, 3; Virginia, 260; Washington, 1; West Virginia, 39; Wisconsin, 2.

Importers Quote Stein Song In Plea for Lower Beer Duty

Also Cite Pathos of Man Who Needs English Ale for Stomach's Sake.

(Associated Press.)

Importers cited the poetry of the stein song of old Heidelberg and the pathos of the man who wants English ale for his stomach's sake, in pleas before the tariff commission yesterday for a 50 per cent cut in the duty on foreign brew.

They noted many a statistic, too, to prove the way of the beer and ale importer is unduly difficult.

Then they asked that the United States make a "friendly gesture toward 25 beer-producing nations" by reducing the tariff on imported beer from $1 to 50 cents per gallon, or from $31 to $15.50 per barrel.

Goes to Roosevelt.

The commission, which had ordered the inquiry, gravely received the testimony, which eventually will go before President Roosevelt for final decision under the flexible provision of the 1930 tariff act.

Harry S. Radcliffe, young New York expert on the beer tariff, waxed lyrical on what a man quaffs from his stein.

"To one who has tasted Pilsen beer in Bohemia, nothing else appeals," he said. "Or a man may have had the sentimental experience of drinking beer at Heidelberg."

Ale Claimed to Be Tonic.

According to "the mood of the moment," he contended, the "beer-quaffer" should be allowed his drink. Neither should he have to pay, Radcliffe said, "the present intolerable rate" for his imported brew.

Silvery-haired and stocky Charles H. Taylor, New York, painted the pre-prohibition glories of his English ale importing firm.

"In all the years previous to prohibition," he said, "the medicinal value of ale and stout as a tonic was recognized. The high rate prevents many people using it for a tonic."

George R. Beneman and George P. McCabe, representing domestic producers, opposed reduction of the tariff.

Girls Dress Up

Campers Don More Clothes After Quebec Protests Scanty Garments.

Quebec, Aug. 22 (AP).—A party of girl campers from a summer resort in Maine apparently took the hint Chief of Police Emile Trudel dropped to them yesterday about their clothing, for no girls in shorts and tunics were to seen on Quebec streets today.

Citizens complained yesterday when the girl campers appeared on a visit here wearing their camp costumes of short trunks and very little else.

Police asked the girls and their accompanying supervisor to call on the chief, who gravely suggested their costumes were more suitable for the bathing beach than for the city streets. Chief Trudel told the girls they must not appear that way in the streets.

Banks Insurance Abroad Is Rapped

Kennedy Would Force All To Patronize American Companies Only.

President Roosevelt will be asked to instruct the Comptroller of the Treasury to compel all national banks to carry their insurance with American companies, it was announced last night by Representative Martin J. Kennedy, Democrat, New York.

Representative Kennedy claimed that more than $50,000,000 in premiums is paid annually by national banks to foreign insurance companies, chiefly Lloyd's, of London.

"American companies, paying a considerable portion of the Nation's taxes each year, are entitled to this business," the Congress member, one-time member of the Insurance committee of the New York State Senate, declared.

U. S. Milk Price Pact Drawn to Limit 'Spreads'

Dairymen and Federal Officials Would Fix Scale Everywhere.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

A proposed national marketing agreement for fluid milk is being drafted by Farm Administration officials and dairymen. It would fix minimum and maximum prices for milk and place definite limits on price spreads.

The tentative pact contemplates the establishment of prices to be paid in virtually every milkshed. Some of the smaller towns, where the producer is also the distributor, may be excluded.

A maximum price spread of between 5 and 6 cents from the time milk leaves the farmer's hands until it is sold to the consumer, is expected to be laid down. Farm Administration officials feel the increase to the consumer should not average more than 1 cent a quart.

Huge Income Involved.

The blanket agreement would increase the largest single source of farm income by millions of dollars. Out of the approximately $5,000,000,000 in agricultural income in 1932, about $1,250,000,000 came from milk and its products.

Under the plan, there would be one general blanket agreement. It would outline general policies and fair trade practices. Supplementary codes would be written by Farm Administration officials in cooperation with the milk men involved for all the larger milk-producing areas. These would fix the farm, wholesale and retail prices of milk.

Subject to Changes.

The arbitrary prices which would be fixed for the various areas, however, would be subject to change if proof were produced that adjustments were necessary because of conditions in a particular section.

The plan is an outgrowth of emergency conditions. Producers complain to the Farm Administration that the price for their products has declined while other costs have increased. Part of this increased cost they attribute to the National Recovery Administration.

Unless the blanket and supplemental agreements contain effective production control features, farm officials agree the plan will fail.

Move to "Fix" Milk Prices Laid to King

duced in evidence. Dickson said the distributors and producers held the "price-fixing" meeting in the offices of the producers' association in 1929.

At the meeting, Dickson said, Dr. King proposed that the retail price of milk be "fixed" at 15 cents a quart. Dickson suggested any such agreement would be illegal. Then King said he had "powers" from the Government to "fix" prices, Dickson charged. The Government had no such "power" prior to the recent enactment of the agricultural adjustment act.

Says Brawner Walked Out.

Henry N. Brawner, head of the Chestnut Farms Dairy, an independent, then walked out of the meeting, according to Dickson. This has been corroborated by Brawner, whose holdings are now part of the National Dairy Products Corporation.

"When no agreement was made," Dickson continued, "Dr. King said he would see the distributors individually."

After an appeal to the Department of Justice, Dickson's supply was restored, he said. The testimoney has shown that both Dr. King and the producers received a warning from the Justice Department against their alleged price-fixing attempt.

Dickson's dairy, he said, made a profit of about $8,000 a year. An increase of two-tenths of 1 per cent in the butter-fat content of the milk would wipe out these profits, he said.

Nothing to Prevent Switch.

"There is nothing to prevent the producers' association, or those who control it, from switching high-grade milk from one dairy to a more favored one, is there?" asked Senator McCarran.

"No," replied Dickson, "that's what happened to us."

The adjustment fund of the producers' association, which accrues to the benefit of the distributors, drew from Senator McCarran the criticism that officials of the producers' association seem to be more interested in the distributor than the producer.

Holds Distributors Get All.

Senator McCarran is of the opinion that the producers and consumers get "no break" in Washington's milk distribution set-up, while the distributors get all the profits.

"The profits are too large—outrageous," he said. "The idea of giving $23,000 a year to a sales agent, who sits as czar to the consuming public, also is outrageous."

It is presumed he referred to I. W. Heeps, who receives a salary of $18,000 a year from the Eastern States Marketing Association and $5,000 from the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association. Both are producers' organizations.

Emil Hurja Gets New Plum, And Farley Triumphs Again

Campaign Aid Finally "Crashes" Office of Secretary Ickes.

"Jim" Farley's ships are coming in.

Yesterday one of his political aids of the campaign, Emil Hurja, was named by the Secretary of the Interior as administrative assistant for public works.

Hurja's appointment by Secretary Ickes, who fights shy of politics in the appointment of men to administrate the $3,300,000,000 fund in his hands, is a second example of the Postmaster General's success in placing his men in the parts of the Cabinet where politics play a small part.

Last week, Farley's long but patient wait was rewarded when Miss Francis Perkins, Secretary of Labor, made Edward McGrady an Assistant Secretary.

She had refused to comply with suggestions that an American Federation of Labor man be her aid. McGrady has been a lobbyist of the A. F. of L. for years.

But Farley waited, and McGrady went to work with Hugh Johnson in the National Recovery Administration. There Miss Perkins saw his work and decided he would be an able aid. That was agreeable to Farley.

In the announcement of Hurja's appointment yesterday, Secretary Ickes said that he had not applied for the job and that "he was not suggested by any one."

Hurja had been acting as a personnel officer at the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He wanted to be Minister to Finland, but Secretary of State Cordell Hull had reserved that for a Tennessee man.

Jesuits Debate Four Points in Science Talks

70 Delegates Attending Meeting Being Held At Georgetown U.

Four main fields of science—biology, chemistry, physics and mathematics—are being approached by prominent Jesuit teachers at the twelfth annual meeting of the Eastern States Division of the American Association of Jesuit Scientists, which is being held at Georgetown University.

About 70 delegates, representing various Jesuit universities in the New England and the New York-Maryland provinces, as well as the houses of study in these sections, are attending the convention, which opened Monday night and concludes this morning with a general session and election of officers. About 20 members of the faculty of Woodstock College, the Jesuit house of studies at Woodstock, Md., also are in attendance.

The Rev. Joseph J. Sullivan, S. J., of Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., opened the convention with a lecture on "The Disintegration of the Atom," a subject now being widely discussed in scientific circles, and the Rev. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown, made a brief address of welcome. Father Sullivan is president of the association.

After convening, the meeting organized into four sections with the following chairmen: The Rev. Charles A. Berger, of Loyola College, Baltimore, chairman of the biology section; the Rev. Francis W. "White Collar" Help Promised Hopkins Says U. S. Policy Of Funds for Teachers Will Be Expanded.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 22 (A.P.).—The new policy of permitting use of Federal relief funds to give employment to teachers will be extended to other "white collar workers," Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said here today.

Suffering slightly from air sickness, the Federal administrator stopped here about an hour en route to Little Rock, Ark., from Frankfort, Ky., where he addressed the Legislature. When Tennessee relief officials expressed approval of the teachers' ruling, Mr. Hopkins said he planned to "broaden that out" to include other professions and vocations.

The teacher ruling authorized use of relief money in paying "needy unemployed teachers" in rural elementary schools that have been ordered closed for lack of funds. In addition, such funds could be used to pay instructors in cities or rural communities to each adult to read and write.

law and, therefore, have no rightful place in this picture."

Following is the complete text of the address:

"I speak to you in an hour of bewilderment and in a great national emergency. I plead for the loyal cooperation of every man, woman and child in an effort of our President to lead us out of the wilderness of economic disaster into the bright sunlight of prosperity. I ask for universal cooperation in a fair trial for an acknowledged experiment, an experiment certainly much nobler and more sincere than others which the American people have cheerfully undergone.

"There are many who honestly believe in other remedies. That is not the point. There can be only one cure tried at a time and the President must, like Luke in the Bible, be the great physician. He has prescribed a remedy which is embodied in the National Industrial Recovery act. Support of the President's plan is the only course for good citizens in a democracy when there is sickness in the body politic. The President has frankly stated that this is an experiment and that he will be the first to acknowledge its failure if it does not work. He asks only for loyal cooperation in trying out a plan which gives reasonable promise of success. This cooperation he certainly should receive.

Hypocrisy Warning Given.

"Support of the President in this course of action commits no one to a blanket approval of objectionable methods employed here and there in this campaign. Do not take too seriously the excessive enthusiasm of some of those supporting the National Industrial Recovery act.

"Threats, intimidation, compulsion, boycotts, black lists and suppression of opinion were never contemplated by the national industrial recovery act and therefore have no rightful place in this picture. The American people can be persuaded by a patriotic appeal; they can be led so long as it is clear that those who lead them are in the last analysis public servants and not dictators; but they can not be driven. After all, this is not the first time our people have responded to a national appeal for concerted voluntary action. The Nation responded to the last man to the appeal of the National Food Administration for pledges of cooperation at the time of the great war, and the fact that this appeal was to cut down consumption, while the present one is to increase it, has nothing to do with the case. The American people should respond as patriotically to the appeal for the Blue Eagle as they did to the appeal of the Federal food administrator.

Fearful Folk Encouraged.

"To those who fear the experiment, I have this to say. Do not forget that the President has only a limited congressional mandate, that the whole machinery of the national recovery act has less than two years to operate under the law, that the licensing power has less than a year of life before it, and, as a matter of fact, up to this time, has not been used at all, and that the blanket code, which is known as the President's reemployment agreement, has no statutory authority, but only the sanction of an Executive appeal to the generous instincts of a free people, an appeal which no decent, fair-minded person has a right to ignore.

"The slightest reflection on these facts should dispose of the claim, from whatever source it may come, that the national industrial recovery act shakes the firm foundations of our Constitution, or marks a revolution in our Government and in the conduct of our everyday life.

"Let us see whether, by shorter hours, higher wages and increased employment, we can avoid the dole, called home relief, and the disguised dole popularly known as relief work, the evil consequences of which we all know. It is infinitely better to pay the bill by the methods proposed in the national industrial recovery act than to pay it in the form of public or private charitable relief.

Fair Trial of Plan Urged.

"Let us see whether by a combination of public works, vigorously put, and voluntary and private initiative, stimulated and led by the President, we can get out of this business depression. The plan must not fail through lack of individual cooperation, but if it should fail, then we must dig in for a long seige and make up our minds that recovery will be slow and painful. We can do this, too, like good citizens, but before we settle down to a long seige, in which nothing but individual and national character will save us, let us try every reasonable plan proposed by those into whose hands we must put the responsibility of high office.

"There are those who may challenge some of the claims of publicity agents as to accomplishments of the National Recovery Administration, but when all is said and done, no one can deny the generous impulse which guides the National Recovery Administration in this battle nor the immense good of focusing the attention of an aroused public on wage and working conditions of which we should all be ashamed.

Wage Increase Is Cited.

"If the National Recovery Administration has not accomplished and can not in the nature of things accomplish the millennium, it has unquestionably resulted to date in the increasing of wages in many callings and in the employment of a large number of those who had become or were about to become, through no fault of their own, public charges. This accomplishment alone entitles the plan to further trial and full cooperation.

"No matter how much we may differ in principle and detail with those who are responsible for the recovery program, we must recognize that they have no other object and purpose than the restoration of the happiness and welfare of the American people, who are always in my thought. For this reason I ask all those within the sound of my voice and all who may read or otherwise hear what I say and who look to me for advice and guidance to support the President in this campaign."

Colored Elks Ask New Deal For Negroes

98 Per Cent of NRA Jobs Go to Whites, Session Told.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 22 (Spl.). Immediately following report of the credentials committee seating 863 delegates from 641 lodges of Colored Elks today, the grand lodge recessed and resolved itself into the Colored Voters League, nonpartisan, with J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler, as its head.

Negroes from all parts of the country discussed the status of the Negro worker in the NRA.

H. C. Richardson, Democrat, colored member of the Indiana Legislature, was named chairman of a special committee to deliver an address to the country tomorrow.

Other committeemen are Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman from Mississippi; William J. Thompkins, Missouri Democrat; George W. Millner, head of the Longshoreman's Union; Walter Land, attorney, Norfolk; Charles P. Howard, Des Moines; Hudson J. Oliver, New York; William C. Hueston, Indianapolis; John Marquess, Pennsylvania; Truly Hatchett, Maryland; Lethia Fleming, Ohio, and Grace Bryant, Michigan.

C. H. Douglass, Philadelphia, colored pastor of a church which fed 35,000 unemployed last winter, only 6 per cent of whom were Negroes, expressed the opinion that so far the New Deal has not given the Negro a square deal and that 98 per cent of jobs issued under the NRA are to members of the white race. His suggestion that the Negro merely wanted his old job back met with vigorous disapproval.

Harris B. Gaines, colored member of the Illinois Legislature, urged organization of the Negro voter for better placement than ever before and a better distribution of wealth, and asked the league to ask President Roosevelt to issue a new emancipation proclamation.

A special report on NRA code hearings was made by John P. Davis, Washington, who has participated in all of them as a representative of the Industrial League, sponsored by the Elks Grand Lodge. Other speakers were George E. Bates, Newark, N. J.; John Marquess, Philadelphia; Lethia Fleming, head of the executive committee of the National Association of Colored Women, and Hobson Reynolds, Philadelphia.

"Detailed and Competent Information" About U. S. Relations With Detroit Banks Best Told by Others, He Says.

Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 22 (A.P.).—The text of former President Hoover's telegram today to Harry S. Toy, prosecutor at Detroit, follows:

"I have received from the press a copy of a letter addressed to me by yourself requesting that I should come to Detroit as a witness in the inquiry you are conducting in respect to the closing of the Michigan banks last February.

"Detailed and competent information as to the relation of Federal authorities to the events leading to the closing of these banks can be obtained only from the former officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Federal Reserve Board, the then Comptroller of the Currency and from the record.

Told of Bank Situation.

"My recollection of my own connection is that on a Thursday evening in February the officials informed me that the Guardian Trust Co. of Detroit was in difficulties, was undergoing a run by its depositors and that should it close it would precipitate a panic run on other Detroit and Michigan banks.

"The impression I had received from them was that the other leading banks of Detroit had not been subject to runs and were able to meet their deposit responsibilities if there was no general panic in the city, although they necessarily had a number of slow assets in Detroit real estate mortgages.

"I was informed the Guardian Trust situation was such that even with the utmost of Government assistance possible under the law it would be insufficient without outside help and reorganization internally.

"The request of these gentlemen, and I understood, of leading men in Detroit was that I should endeavor to bring about cooperation of outside banks, private interests, and leading depositors to reorganize the trust company, and thus prevent a crisis in that city.

"We had successfully secured such action on similar occasions in other cities and prevented enormous losses.

"I and the other officials devoted ourselves unceasingly during the following 48 hours in many directions to building up the cooperation necessary to save the situation and it was continued until it was brought to a halt by the determination of the governor that it was wise to close the whole of the Michigan banks.

Suggests Others Talk.

"As I have said, the details of these plans and negotiations and those subsequently developed by officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Federal Reserve and the Treasury for reopening of the Michigan banks can only be had from the then officials of those organizations.

"I have no objection to furnishing any information which I properly can, but such information as I can give is only general and is mostly second-hand, and is insufficient to warrant a journey to Detriot, and can be more effectively given by the officials mentioned. I am sure it is fully available to you."

Bad Temper

Couzens Says He Has It, Too, Relating Break With Henry Ford.

Detroit, Aug. 22 (A.P.).—United States Senator James Couzens "perhaps showed a bad temper" when he broke with his old business partner, Henry Ford, in 1915, he said today.

Discussing before the one-man bank jury here his split with the motor manufacturer over business policies, Couzens said:

"That was 18 years ago, and Mr. Ford has said publicly there is no disharmony between us. He has shown no evidence of antagonism toward me, although I was terribly angry when we had our split, and perhaps showed a bad temper—as I do on occasions."

Hoover Declines Bid to Bank Quiz

no objection to furnishing any information which he properly could, such information would only be general and was "mostly second hand." He believed it insufficient to warrant a trip to Detroit.

Senator James Couzens, Republican, who yesterday urged that Hoover testify, had no comment to make on the former President's message. Couzens today concluded his own "inside story" of administration policies.

The senior Michigan senator charged that most of the fault for the bank closings here was due to actions of bankers; but an administration which "did not want to see an epidemic of bank failures during a political year" ordered only a moderate write-down of losses in the two banks, although they knew them to be in unsound condition nearly a year before the bank holiday.

Couzens referred yesterday to a director of a Detroit bank whose name he did not mention as saying he "was told by President Hoover that I was a very bad and dangerous man."

Hoover Approached Earlier.

"Now I earnestly urge you," said the senator on the witness stand, "to invite Mr. Hoover to come here and tell what a bad man I am. That will give me an opportunity to explain to the jury why I am such a bad man."

Court officials said, however, that Hoover had been approached on the matter of testifying several weeks ago, and although he declined to give any definite answer, "was inclined to favor the suggestion."

Ending his testimony, Couzens repeated his charge that "an attempt to make millions, without really earning them, by a consolidation and pyramiding of banks without the depositors' consent" was the specific cause of the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Today, as in the past, the senator spoke of national affairs, bluntly informing the jury that "both political parties have favorites and do not enforce the law with equal justice." He made the statement after reporting that his criticism of the Federal Treasury Department under Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, "would take volumes to relate." He denounced Mellon's tax-rebate system.

2,000 Miners Quit Work in Virginia

Row on Union Movement Blamed for Strike In St. Charles.

Norton, Va., Aug. 22 (A.P.).—More than 2,000 miners in Lee County walked out on strike today as a result of differences growing out of the new unionization movement in the St. Charles field.

Virtually the entire St. Charles field was on strike, but some 9,000 miners in the Virginia field remained at their work, although they claimed to be strongly unionized for the first time in their history as the result of the national recovery legislation.

The walkout was reported to be the first in the history of the southwest Virginia coal fields.

Mrs. Harriman Tells President District Views

Roosevelt Has Not Made Final Decision Upon New City Heads.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 22.—President Roosevelt surveyed a wide range of District of Columbia patronage appointments today in a two-hour conference with Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, but authoritative word from the summer White House later was to the effect that no final decision had been reached on any major assignments.

Mrs. Harriman, Democratic national committeewoman for the District, had been invited by President Roosevelt specifically to discuss District affairs. Afterward she made it clear, however, that she had not been asked to offer specific recommendations for either the commissioners or the district attorney.

"We discussed District of Columbia affairs at length," Mrs. Harriman said, "but there were no positive decisions indicated by the President. Mr. Roosevelt said he had not yet had opportunity to study the situation as thoroughly as he wished."

White House officials indicated there probably will be no developments on District of Columbia patronage until after the President returns to Washington, after Labor Day.

Although some of the President's advisers have opposed the suggestion that a woman be appointed to the District Commission, authoritative word from today's conference was to the effect that Mrs. Harriman herself has not been wholly eliminated.

Neither was there any positive indication whether President Roosevelt has finally abandoned as yet the suggestion that he reorganize the District government under a one-man administrative arrangement. The President clings to the hope that such a reorganization might be accomplished without additional legislation. Informal opinions from some legal advisers have hinted that ample authority was granted the President under the blanket provisions of the economy act last March. Others have suggested that no reorganization of the District government can be accomplished without specific authority from Congress.

Mrs. Harriman said she was happy to be able to report to the President that in her recent travels about the country she has encountered widespread evidence of a steady economic improvement.

Beer, Repeal Bills Up This Fall in Kansas

Approval of Vote on Dry Law Requested By Legislators.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 22 (AP).—The Kansas legislative council voted today to present to the special session of the Legislature this fall proposals for legalization of 3.2 beer and submission to a popular vote of both the State's 52-year-old prohibition amendment and the proposition to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

The proposal for submission of the State's prohibition amendment and the measure to legalize 3.2 beer will go the Legislature without recommendation by reason of not receiving the two-thirds vote of the council.

A recommendation for passage will accompany the proposal for submission of the twenty-first amendment to the Federal Constitution, the council having voted, 18 to 1, for the measure.

Denver, Aug. 22 (AP).—A bill passed by the recent special session of the Colorado Assembly permitting the sale of 3.2 beer and wine 24 hours a day and on Sunday was signed today by Gov. Edwin G. Johnson. It became effective immediately.

The executive also approved a measure creating a liquor-control code contingent upon repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It provides for the sale of whisky in retail liquor stores only for consumption off the premises.

Pay Checks Locked Up.

Payless pay day was the experience of the Sixth Reserve Brigade, U. S. M. C., recently, at Quantico, Va. Pay Clerk James Foley put the checks in a field safe, then placed the detachable handle inside the safe. Pay Clerk Harry Vaughn came along and closed the safe. Hence, no pay for the officers until they could find a capable yegg. Nice work, someone said. They couldn't spend it anyhow.

Another Badly Burned in Gas Explosion Caused by Spark.

Logan, W. Va., Aug. 22 (AP).—Two miners were killed today and another was burned seriously in an explosion of a gas pocket in the Dabney Mine of the Hutchinson Coal Co., on Rum Creek.

Only a few men were in the workings when a spark from a mine trolley wire ignited the gas pocket about 3,000 feet from the mine mouth.

Denny Brumfield, 32, coal loader, and Sterling Edmonds, 22, Negro brakeman, were buried beneath slate. George Vernatte, 22, motorman on the mine train was burned seriously but escaped death beneath the crashing roof.

Two other miners only a few feet away escaped uninjured from the flare of burning gas and the shower of coal, slate and timber.

3,000 Relief Job Men Go on Strike

Pickets Demand $4 Pay For 6-Hour Day on Welfare Projects.

Los Angeles, Aug. 22 (AP). Spurred on by 300 pickets, 3,000 workmen employed on Federal and county relief projects struck today for a minimum wage of $4 a day for six hours' work.

Earl E. Jensen, superintendent of the county welfare department, said 27,000 remained at their jobs. They now receive 40 cents an hour, but had been cut from an eight to a four-hour day. Jensen had offered a compromise of six hours at the same rate of pay.

The pickets, claiming to be members of the Relief Workers' Protective Union, concentrated at Griffith Park and passed out handbills calling for a one-day strike. There was no disorder.

Codes Useless For Farmers, Says Georgian

Governor Talmadge Tells Dixie Needs on State Day in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, speaking today on the Georgia Day program at a Century of Progress International Exposition, urged widespread cooperation to pull out of "an economic situation such as this United States has never seen before."

"We are going to come out," he told his audience, including a thousand Georgians. "Let's all try to pull through. We have a President in Washington who is trying to work his way out."

He said he was living in a section where the farmers cannot work on a code, and that they are now selling their crops at lowest prices in 50 years.

"The national recovery act won't succeed," he warned, "until prices of raw products go up in proportion with wages."

The governor praised the fair, the growth of Chicago and the Midwest, adding:

"I would like to remind you that while you folks were running around in the wilderness, Georgia was a hundred years old, for this year we are celebrating the 200th anniversary of the settlement of Georgia by Gen. James E. Oglethorpe in 1733."

Newport, R. I., Aug. 22 (U.P.).—The Breakers, the Ochre Point home of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and the outstanding show place of Newport, was broken into and robbed during last night, it was revealed late today.

Two daughters, Countess Laszlo Szechenyi, wife of the Hungarian Minister to the Court of St. James, and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, were there at the time.

Several years ago the mansion was robbed of jewels valued at $750,000.

This was the second robbery in Newport during the past few weeks, bandits having recently secured jewelry having a retail value of $100,000 in a daylight holdup of the Kirkpatrick jewelry shop on Bellevue avenue.

Oil Heiress and Prince Part After Five-Day Honeymoon

Married for Spite, Says Former Janet Snowden In Explanation.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The New York American says the five-day-old honeymoon of the former Janet Snowden, heiress to oil millions, and Prince Don Caravita, of Italy, has ended in a separation.

The newspaper quotes the princess as saying she married the nobleman "for spite, not for love." The couple eloped recently.

"I surely did as foolish an act as a girl could do. I'm heartbroken with grief. I am preparing to consult my attorneys so I can obtain an annulment.

"If that is impossible, I will seek a divorce. The prince is a nice enough fellow, but I do not love him and can not learn. I am through with him forever."

Prince Don Caravita said he was confident his wife would return to him. He said they had not quarreled.

The American quotes the princess as saying she was only 19 years old and not 25 as stated in her marriage license.

Asked to explain her reference to the "spite" marriage, she is quoted as replying:

"The truth is I love another man. I have loved him for years. He is older than I am and last week I learned his affections have turned toward another woman."

The young couple met two weeks ago for the first time, the American says, when the prince arrived from Italy on the liner Rex.

"The day of the lickety-split dance step is done," he said. "The jazz age is definitely over. We are returning to the essential quality of dancing—that of grace. The American people are beginning again to think in terms of gentle and decorus entertainment."

State Prefers Feminine Jury To Try Lamson

Counsel Battle Over Panel As Prisoner Looks On Anxiously.

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 22 (AP).—The battle for the selection of the jury to try David A. Lamson on charges of slaying his pretty wife, a Y. W. C. A. secretary, continued today with each side putting up a wary contest.

The gayly decorated, black and gold box containing the names of the prospective jurors whirled repeatedly as the talesmen paraded to and from the jury box. To Lamson, 31-year-old representative of the Stanford University Publishing House, the whirling of the box held a fascination. In it were the names of those persons who would be called upon to decide whether he crushed the skull of Allene Thorpe Lamson in the bathroom of their campus home.

Six men and six women sat in the jury box as the session opened, but the ratio changed rapidly. There were five men and seven women, four men and eight women, then only three men were left. The defense then used two of its challenges in an endeavor to bring the ratio back. So far the State has indicated its preference for a jury with a preponderance of women. The exact opposite was true of the defense.

A flare over the questioning of jurors on their belief in the inflicting of the death penalty opened the session, but Defense Attorney E. M. Rea's objection to the interrogation by Assistant District Attorney A. P. Lindsay was overruled by the court.

U. S. Will Keep Present Arms Slash Policy

Davis Gives President Report on Prospects at Geneva.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Assurance that the United States Government will continue its policy of whole-hearted cooperation in Europe's disarmament efforts were given at the summer White House today.

Following a long conference between President Roosevelt and Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large in Europe, officials presented an informal resume of the American program. The United States will have no new plans or suggestions when the World Disarmament Conference reassembles at Geneva October 16. But if the principal powers can come to agreement the United States will stand ready to lend strong moral support in enforcement of the covenant.

Picture Not Encouraging.

Ambassador Davis presented to the President a none too encouraging picture of the prevailing European political situation. The attempt of Germany to consolidate a new middle Europe alliance with Austria presents a difficult obstacle. The recent Japanese attitude toward all disarmament proposals appears virtually to have eliminated that nation, for the time being at least, as a moral authority in the proposed control plan. On the other hand, the French government now is reported to be more inclined to effective international cooperation.

Davis' New Role.

Although there has been no change in American policy since the Geneva Conference recessed, there likely will be a notable shift in emphasis. Heretofore the United States delegation has been in the vanguard of those seeking effective reduction agreements. Under his new instructions, Mr. Davis will move more in the role of arbiter, adjuster and conciliator.

America wishes the conference to succeed. But the complex political questions which have frustrated all such efforts since 1920 are essentially European problems. If the principal powers of Europe can not come into a real working agreement on fundamentals, then there is nothing the United States can contribute, it is felt.

Husband Sleeps After Killing Wife

Idle Baltimore Man Tells of Failing to Die From Slashes.

Baltimore, Aug. 22 (AP).—James E. Gibson, 52, unemployed laborer, today stopped a policeman and said he had ended a five-hour argument with his wife, Loulu, by choking her to death.

He then tried to commit suicide by slashing his wrists, Gibson told the startled officer, who accompanied the man to his apartment, where he found the body of the woman.

Gibson said he slept for five hours after his suicide attempt.

"She always wanted to stand by the windows without any clothes on," he said. "Last night I got mad and the argument started. Finally I grabbed her around the neck and she fell over the bed. I cut my wrists and lay down to die. When I woke up the bleeding had stopped and I told the first officer I saw."

The cars were damaged to the extent of $220 in a collision. Keese had his car towed to a Mercersburg garage for repairs and continued to Chicago. Mrs. Gale was the only other person injured. She had a lacerated arm.

Sleep Epidemic Deaths Reach 17 in St. Louis

Doctors Try to Innoculate Monkeys in Effort to Find Cause.

St. Louis, Aug. 22 (AP).—The death of an elderly woman, reported late today, sent the total for the epidemic of "sleeping sickness" to 17—about 1 out of every 11 cases.

Mrs. Fidelia Walker, 78, of St. Louis, died in the Missouri Baptist Hospital, but her illness was not diagnosed as encephalitis until an autopsy was performed.

Raymond Picquet, 65, of suburban Kirkwood, was the latest victim.

The illness of 11-year-old Charles Strong, at Maryville, Mo., was diagnosed today as sleeping sickness. His case was regarded as mild, but the family has been quarantined.

The number of reported cases rose to 182 today, including 145 from St. Louis County and 37 from the City of St. Louis.

Dr. Ralph Muckenfuss, of Washington University, in an effort to produce an immunizing serum, has been inoculating monkeys with various materials from patients but has encountered difficulty in finding an animal susceptible to the disease. Twenty-four monkeys have been ordered for further experiments under the direction of Dr. J. P. Leake, senior surgeon, and Dr. Charles Armstrong, pathologist, both of the United States Public Health Service.

Another U. S. Expert Sent.

(Associated Press.)

Further to aid St. Louis in what now is recognized as "the largest outbreak of sleeping sickness ever reported in the world in any one given place," the Public Health Service yesterday dispatched a third scientific expert there.

Dr. L. L. Williams, jr., medical entomologist, was sent to St. Louis to join Dr. J. P. Leake and Dr. Charles Armstrong.

Leake, reporting to headquarters here that he felt sure the epidemic spread was not due to water, but that he was not sure he could exclude insects as a cause, asked for Williams, whose specialty is insects as disseminators of disease.

The Public Health Service also sent 16 monkeys from its National Institute of Health. Eight more will be sent from New York.

Stevenson Pleads For Home Owners

Says Sale of Millions of Mortgaged Homes Will Stop Recovery.

(Associated Press.)

William F. Stevenson, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, pleaded last night for support of financiers and investors in aiding the Government to make a success of the administration's plan to save homes threatened with foreclosure.

"The holders of mortgages," Stevenson said, "the great bankers and investors, should remember that if this fails and the millions of homes in the country are sold under the hammer, the value of their billions of home mortgages will be destroyed and one of the major units of the recovery program will fail and after that what can we expect?"

The chairman said the home loan system had authorized $75,287,039 in loans to its member building and loan institutions.

Wife Divorces Whitehead, And Tells of 'Other Women'

Sportsman Satisfies Her Creditors, She Says of Settlement.

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—The romance of Conkey Pate Whitehead, 35, millionaire sportsman of Atlanta, and Mrs. Marion Hughes Whitehead, 22, was terminated today by a decree granting a divorce to Mrs. Whitehead on a charge of desertion. Whitehead did not contest the suit.

Mrs. Whitehead, daughter of a New York broker, charged her husband with drinking and associating with other women. An argument over this led up to the desertion, which occurred November 21, 1930, when the couple lived in Chicago, she said.

They were married in New York, November 14, 1929.

Mrs. Whitehead said her husband made a cash settlement which was large enough to "satisfy her creditors." She will depart tomorrow for New York.

Former "Secret 6" Spy Kills Gambler

Asserts He Beat Victim to Draw; Wounded Man Contradicts Him.

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—An erstwhile sleuth fired on four men today, killing one and wounding another. A few hours later he was in custody, had confessed, and police were confronted with finding the motive.

James Spencer was the victim, reputedly a gambler. George Redston, nicknamed "The Chief" and once an informer for the "Secret Six," was the killer. He admitted it, insisting he had beaten Spencer to the draw when the latter and his friends were about to kidnap or kill him.

Danny Wagner, alias Westcott, found in his room nursing a wounded arm, acknowledged the bullet came from Redston's pistol and asserted Redston had walked up to the four and fired without warning. A police captain said he was informed Redston was discharged from the Secret Six pay roll for trying to "shake down" gamblers.

Suspect Grilled In Fiend Killings

Vagrant "Explains" How Woman Was Slain on Campus.

Police said the man attempted to explain how two slain women had their shoes tied and to tell how he scratched his hands in the thicket where the Cleveland girl was attacked and stabbed to death.

Officials of Elmira, N. Y., also questioned the man. They hoped to identify him as the perpetrator of a similar slaying of Mrs. Pearl Robinson, 34, at Elmira early in July.

This action followed parades throughout the Saorstat last Sunday. President Eamon de Valera declared Sunday that if demonstrations were made by uniformed men an outlawing proclamation would follow.

O'Duffy said: "I have nothing to say except that the national guard awaits the verdict of the people."

Members of the national guard will be liable to arraignment before the tribunal unless they resign. The tribunal may assess any sentence, including death.

Thousand Battle in Vain to Halt Advance; Loss Reaches Millions.

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 22 (AP).—Great forest fires spread over the Oregon Coast country tonight, causing devastation estimated in the millions.

As smoke screened large areas, preventing accurate estimations of destruction, the extensive Stimson logging operations in the Scroggins Valley faced virtual extermination. Flames advanced on a stand of timber which would have lasted the mill a generation.

Nearly 2,000 men battled the Wilson River fire, described by State Forester Lynn Cronemiller as the worst in Oregon's history. Several hundred others attempted to control three incendiary fires as the blazes raced into the mountains, borne along by a gale.

The high winds carried a spot fire several miles toward the coast, taking it to within 18 miles of the City of Tillamook.

The fire fighters were mostly young members of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Much wild life has perished.

Waynesboro Council Takes Action to Prevent Sale for Humans.

Waynesboro, Pa., Aug. 22 (U.P.). Bootlegging of dog and cat milk into Waynesboro for human consumption is causing borough council no end of worry.

Councilmen have each been given a copy of an ordinance from Borough Chemist John J. Shank for study relative to further control of the milk situation in Waynesboro.

H. E. Shroat, of the Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, has informed the council there is no way to regulate at present the sale of "dog and cat" milk in the State, but Waynesboro is considering making an ordinance specifying such sale as illegal.

Airmen to Help U. S. Save Air Mail Funds

Representatives of all contractors flying the U. S. mail will convene in Washington Thursday to discuss ways and means of decreasing costs so that the Postoffice Department can stay within its appropriations.

First there will be a general conference headed jointly by W. W. Howes, Second Assistant Postmaster General in charge of air mail, and Stephen Cisler, superintendent of air mail. Individual contractors then will present their own problems in separate conferences.

The department has remained within its decrased appropriation since July 1, because of an arbitrary cut of 25 per cent imposed on the contractors by the department. The reduction in the appropriation gives the air mail service $15,000,000 for the coming year, instead of $19,460,000. This decrease must be met by economies which officials hope will not impair the service.

Thieves Write Cash Demand For Paintings

Newspapers in Montreal Get Notes With Slashed Picture.

Montreal, Aug. 22 (AP).—Owners of $15,000 worth of oil paintings stolen from the gallery of the Art Association of Montreal at the close of the spring exhibition will have to pay 25 per cent of their estimated value if they want to recover them, said notes received from the thieves by two Montreal newspapers today.

Accompanying each note was half of a pastoral scene by Marc Aurele Fortin, Montreal artist. The painting was 1 of 16 cut from their frames the night of April 17.

The notes warned that if the terms were not met the paintings would be cut in bits and returned by mail to the owners.

League's Peace Move For Gran Chaco Loses

Buenos Aires, Aug. 22 (U.P.).—Brazil is expected shortly to notify the League of Nations that the ABCP powers (Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru) reject the league mandate of conciliation in the Gran Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay.

The rejection, the league will be notified, is based upon Bolivia's refusal to accept a suspension of hostilities prior to arbitration.

Curb-parking, rounding sharp turns, braking at sudden stops, constant gearshifting on hills and in traffic—these are hard, exhausting work for anyone with cars built in the old fashioned way.

But never with a Terraplane.

Watch a woman the first time she drives a Terraplane. Watch her face light up with pleasure at the ease with which she steers it, the slight pressure she needs to stop it, the small amount of effort required for smooth safe turns around street corners, the complete freedom from gearshifting on hills.

Demands for More Money.

Senator Thomas says that the Reserve Banks are pursuing a policy of credit and currency contraction which is likely to retard the administration's recovery program. Hence he advocates an expansion of open market purchases of government securities by the Reserve Banks or, as an alternative, resort to issues of greenbacks. Governor Black, however, regards the recent contraction in the volume of money in circulation as gratifying evidence that hoarded funds are being returned to the banks in such large volume as more than to offset the increase in currency requirements made necessary by greater business activity. As he explains in a reply to Senator Thomas, this return flow of currency has materially strengthened the position of member banks by enabling them to retire a large volume of discounts and to add to their excess reserves.

Between January 11 and March 13, the amount of money in circulation—that is outside the Reserve Banks and the Treasury—increased about $2,000,000,000, reaching the extraordinarily high figure of $7,581,000,000 on the latter date. The fact that this record total was attained at a time when business activity was close to the lowest level of the depression period ought to convince even Senator Thomas that prosperity can not be assured by trying to force greenbacks or other forms of money into circulation. The senator apparently does not understand that the adequacy of a country's currency to perform a given amount of money work depends not only upon volume but upon the velocity of circulation of both cash and credit. In the United States, where the great proportion of payments is made by checks, the velocity of bank credit reflects with especial sensitivity the changes in the amount of money work that is being performed. Obviously, inactive deposits and hoarded currency have no influence in reviving business and raising prices.

The Reserve Board stated a short time ago that declines in the volume of the available means of payment, including both money outside the banks held by the public, and funds on deposit in banks, had declined about 23 per cent between 1929 and 1932, while the estimated concurrent decline in payments made was believed to be "proportionally nearly three times as large." This shrinkage in payments was reflected in a marked drop in the rate of turnover of bank deposits, which fell from about 45 per annum in the fall of 1929 to 16 per annum during the last quarter of 1932. The velocity of circulation of both cash and deposit currency which is the most unmanageable factor in the currency equation is the one most consistently ignored by Senator Thomas and those who believe with him that more money and more credit spell better business.

The only safe and sure way to make money and credit circulate rapidly and effectively is to pursue policies that inspire confidence in the stability of the country's financial structure and institutions. In that case, the amount of money in circulation will be readily adjusted to the needs of trade without reliance upon any of the artificial expedients advocated by Senator Thomas.

District Sewer Work.

An allotment of $1,759,500 for sewer construction in the District of Columbia has been made by the Public Works Administration, in accordance with recommendations made by the District Commissioners. The allotment covers the following items: Northeast boundary sewer, $353,000; Piney Branch relief sewer, $400,000; outfall sewer extension, $220,500; Upper Potomac Park interceptor, $15,000; Anacostia interceptor and pumping station, $231,000; study and design for sewage disposal plant, $40,000.

The Piney Branch relief sewer will eliminate rainfall floods and sewage overflows at Fifth and Ingraham streets, Seventh and Hamilton streets, and Arkansas avenue and Delafield place. The interceptors will take up raw sewage now flowing into the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers.

By providing for the study of sewage disposal for the District the way is opened for eventual construction of a model system to replace the present inadequate and unsatisfactory method. The National Capital ought to be placed on a civilized plane in the matter of sewage disposal, instead of polluting the Potomac along a stretch of many miles below the city. Science has demonstrated in Europe and in certain American communities that sewage disposal can be made an asset rather than a liability. A little long-range planning, however, is necessary, and a capital investment must be made. Congress has neglected this subject in dealing with the District of Columbia, but it may be that when a comprehensive and feasible plan has been prepared it will be adopted. The pollution of the Potomac by sewage is a constant menace to the public health and an offense to hygiene.

The plans now set on foot do not include prevention of pollution of Rock Creek. This situation demands a remedy also, and it is to be hoped that the Commissioners will ask for additional public funds with which to start the work of preserving the beauty and healthfulness of the creek which runs through the heart of Washington.

Price Fixing Under Codes.

General Johnson's antagonism to price fixing has not prevented inclusion in the lumber code of a section authorizing a central agency to establish and revise minimum prices for lumber and timber products based on cost of production estimates. The steel code likewise provides for a considerable measure of price-fixing, while the controversy over price policies within the oil industry had to be settled finally through governmental intervention. As a result the President has been given power to control oil prices for an experimental period of 90 days.

Problems connected with price-fixing doubtless will receive an increasing amount of attention as industrial codification progresses, since agreements banning unfair trade practices, forbidding sales below cost of production, and fixing terms of sale necessitate a certain amount of control over prices. As a matter of fact, the passage of the national recovery act was welcomed by many industrialists, before they had become fully acquainted with the labor provisions of the law, because they thought it offered them a long desired opportunity to enter into agreements prohibiting price-cutting. Many small and relatively weak concerns also maintain that a schedule of minimum prices is required to protect them from extinction under a regime of regulated production which will increase their labor and other costs. Certainly mere limitations upon output without price control may lead to a more intense struggle among competitors to obtain a larger share of a reduced volume of business.

It is comparatively easy to adopt resolutions concerning price policies but decidedly difficult to give effect to the decisions reached. Prohibitions against selling below cost, for example, generally have slight practical importance, unless some agency exists for the purpose of detecting violations of code agreements and punishing offenders. It is necessary, furthermore, to develop systems of cost accounting and to set standards of reasonable cost as a preliminary to the establishment of price schedules. In the absence of fact-finding agencies of the kind needed, and in view of the limited number of strong central trade associations capable of policing their respective industries, it is evident that price-fixing programs will encounter many obstacles. Nevertheless, the hindrance to competitive price determination resulting from passage of the national recovery act will unquestionably further the movement already under way to fix prices by agreement, and to limit production to amounts that can be sold at pre-determined price levels. This development is a logical outcome of a nation-wide system of planned economy and a clear indication of the fundamental changes which are taking place in our industrial system.

Factors of Recovery.

Signs of increased building activity are reported from many sections. The improvement is nothing to boast of, but it may be evidence that the worst of the depression is over. Encouragement of private building enterprise is worthy of consideration by the Government, since Nation-wide resumption of building would do more to eliminate unemployment than any emergency plan that could be devised.

The Public Works Administration is doing its best to bridge the gap between building and unemployment by pushing forward public works projects as fast as possible. Road building can be undertaken without delay, and certain Federal construction projects are ready for operations which will absorb a few thousand laborers. Much time must be consumed, however, in preliminaries for other building projects, so that early expenditure of the entire $3,300,000,000 allotted to public works is not to be expected. And even this sum, expended through public works channels, would not solve the unemployment problem.

The lack of a policy that would encourage capital to lend money to private building enterprises is one of the handicaps of national recovery. Instead of trying to stimulate enterprise by creating fears of inflation, what is needed is a policy which will establish confidence in private business relations, thereby encouraging individuals to go forward with home building, business construction, and other undertakings which depend upon certainty of contract.

The people are convinced that the blizzard of depression has done its worst and that the time is at hand to build up private enterprises of all kinds. What they desire now is the assurance that their undertakings will not be undermined by fluctuations of money value. If their confidence in this respect were restored, their feeling that the depression is receding would stir them to activity on a scale that would contribute in the most important degree to reduction of unemployment.

U. S. Contracts and the NRA.

According to a recent executive ruling contractors doing business with the Government must comply with all the provisions of the codes of fair practice applicable to their respective industries. Otherwise the Government reserves the right to make purchases in the open market and to hold the contractor liable for any excess costs resulting from termination of the agreement.

When this decree was promulgated, President Roosevelt announced that the Government would be willing to readjust the terms of its contracts to make reasonable allowance for the additional costs entailed by the fair trade codes and the reemployment agreement. Comptroller McCarl has since ruled, however, that the Government has no authority to modify the terms of a particular contract entered into last January, because of the operation of the NRA. Apparently legislation will have to be passed at the next session of Congress, before contractors can be reimbursed for unforeseen outlays resulting from compliance with the provisions of the industrial codes. The Comptroller's ruling will entail unexpected hardship for some individuals and firms, but his decision is no doubt legally sound, and it provides a necessary protection against overcharging and general fiscal disorder. The situation which has arisen merely reveals some of the unavoidable injustices and difficulties that result from interference with contractual relationships.

Sleeping Sickness.

Medical authorities are greatly concerned over the epidemic of sleeping sickness at St. Louis, which has attacked 149 individuals, causing the death of 15. The cause of the malady is at present a complete mystery, although it has been subjected to considerable study. Whether or not it is contagious is a question that can not be answered definitely, although the assistant health commissioner of St. Louis reports that all investigations in that city indicate that the malady spreads by contact with patients or other human carriers.

Intensive studies are being made on the ground by surgeons of the Public Health Service, in an effort to discover a serum which will immunize patients.

During a three-year visitation of this disease in Spokane, Wash., there were 19 deaths, but the total number of individuals stricken was not as great as in St. Louis this year. Studies of the malady at Spokane failed to throw any light upon its cause or the identity of carriers, if any; and of course the treatment of patients could not be directed specifically at the ailment.

Although Dr. Leake, speaking for the Public Health Service, assures the public that the St. Louis outbreak gives no sign of developing into a plague, he describes it as the worst the country has ever known. The necessity for thorough investigation of the malady is apparent.

Segregating First Offenders.

A study by the division of investigation in the Department of Justice reveals an astonishing number of young men in the ranks of the criminal. Arrests numbering 159,493 during the first six months of this year were classified by age groups. Young men 19 years of age were shown to have committed more crimes than those of any other age group. The number arrested is relatively high for all ages between 18 and 24.

One-fifth of all the offenders were less than 21 years of age and another fifth were between the ages of 21 and 24. Nearly three-fifths of all persons arrested, the report says, were under 30 years old. Although men of these ages are accused of nearly every criminal offense, the number of lesser crimes committed by youths is notable. The study suggests that many youths begin criminal careers by disorderly conduct, drunkenness and vagrancy and then go on to burglary, robbery and homicide.

There is an urgent need for facilities to handle youthful criminals in the United States. Too frequently they are confined in penal institutions with hardened criminals. In such cases prisons are likely to become schools for crime. First offenders learn how major crimes are committed by dangerous criminals. It is a pity that so many young men who are not criminal at heart are thus encouraged to become permanent denizens of the underworld.

Some efforts have been made to segregate young first offenders from experienced law violators, but some States have only one penal institution. Others find it inconvenient and expensive to maintain separate accommodations for first offenders. At any rate, this movement has not progressed nearly as far as it might be carried.

W. Alfred Debo, parole commissioner of Michigan, has made a suggestion which he feels may help both the States and the Government to solve this problem. He thinks a forest camp should be provided for boys who get into trouble. Instead of confining young men who have committed some crime to an institution behind walls, why should they not be organized to do some practical and useful work? Work often is not available in prison. Time hangs heavy on the hands of young men and they are inclined to plot new crimes with the aid of experts. But in forest camps work and a healthful outdoor life can be provided. Crime tends to recede into the background, and the young man has another chance to prove his worth.

Los Angeles has tried a similar plan, sending young offenders to a forest camp as a privilege for good behavior. These youths have been allowed a remarkable degree of freedom, with satisfactory results. Of course, careful selection would be necessary in order to make sure that the camps would contain only boys who are not criminal by nature, but who have merely taken a false step into crime. Any practical plan which tends to take first offenders away from the influence of confirmed criminals is worthy of consideration.

There are 40,000,000 women to be clothed, according to the dress industry. A glimpse at the sunbacks indicates that this is a gross underestimate.

American commercial aviation is far ahead of the European brand. An airplane can not fly an hour there without bumping into a tariff wall.

Landlords are drafting a code. It should contain a section barring collective radio concerts and bottle-throwing on Saturday nights.

Gov. McNutt of Indiana says the country is at war; at any rate, politicians are trying to get in the front-line trenches.

Why Bother to Cook the Cake if You Don't Intend to Eat It?

By Robert Quillen.

WESTERN history repeated itself whenever another fortunate prospector found "pay dirt" in a new region. Other adventurers joined him; claims were staked out; there was a madness of digging—fights, excitement, gambling.

But the digging was not the end. The men dug madly for gold, but as their wealth increased the excitement died. They began to dream, and their dreams became reality in the form of homes, schools, churches, luxuries.

After all, they were not digging for gold. They were digging for the things that make life more enjoyable, and they left their picks and shovels when they could.

A young man of my acquaintance reminds me of these gold diggers. People say he is making a great deal of money. His movements and his speech are rapid. Success thrills him; he never relaxes; he lives in a state of excitement.

I wonder how long he will continue to dig, and whether he will discover in time that digging is only a means to an end.

Americans are prone to forget that the business of life is living. They begin to dig for gold in the hope of gaining the things that make life enjoyable, but in the excitement of digging they forget their dreams. Springtime and summer pass, and winter finds them bent and broken, still busy with pick and shovel.

They are like a gambler who begins play in the morning, hoping to win money enough to enjoy the delights of a carnival in the afternoon, but in the excitement of the game forgets the object of it and so plays on until night has fallen and the carnival is ended.

When we name our most successful Americans, we name our richest men. But does anybody believe our richest men get the most out of life?

Herbert Henry Asquith left an estate probated at $44,650, yet he was Earl of Oxford and Asquith and Prime Minister of England.

Americans need to learn that the purpose of digging is not for gold, but the things gold will buy. Except as a means to an end, plowing would be absurd. It is justified by the enjoyment of the harvest.

To plow and keep on plowing, and get no joy from the harvest, reduces the plowman to the level of the plowhorse.

Comment of the Press

Reorganizing Bureaus.
Brooklyn Eagle.

The President's powers of reorganization in the Federal service have not so far been applied to effect the annual saving of $85,000,000 contemplated when Congress conferred those powers. The mark aimed at may be reached later, but for the present Mr. Roosevelt has found it advisable to keep the sum of economies at about $5,000,000. This does not mean that reorganization is going to stop short of the ultimate goal.

No matter how strong may be the necessity for wholesale reorganization in the Federal service, sweeping changes can not be made in a hurry. The process requires deliberation and caution, time to readjust shifted agencies to their new environment, time to determine how many employes must be retained and how many can be safely dropped. There is even now evidence at Washington that politicians are busily working to save a good deal of the patronage that the reorganization policy threatens to take away from them.

The Monroe Doctrine.
Louisville Courier-Journal.

The suggestion of Senator Key Pittman to scrap the century-old Monroe Doctrine as an outworn policy and a thorn in the flesh of Latin-American countries has already started a debate. William Gibbs McAdoo, another Western Senator, questions the wisdom of abandoning this traditional attitude against European colonization in the Western Hemisphere even though the possibility of such colonization is long since passed. He holds that doctrine is merely a warning to the imperialistic powers to stay on their side of the Atlantic and that it should not be objectionable to the southern republics since the United States does not use it to boss its neighbors.

Some of the bakers, it appears, do not yet understand that the Government expects them to use yeast in their bread, not in their prices.

Employment on Public Works.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Allotment of the first one-third of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund illustrates the difficulty of putting millions of men to work quickly in this way. More than $135,000,000 has been allocated to three reclamation projects, Tennessee Valley, Casper-Alcova and Grand Coulee. These are not yet under way nor will any of the three get beyond the preliminary stages for months to come. The $44,200,000 approved for the Triborough Bridge in New York will not put men to work in any numbers at least until next year. About $10,000,000 has been approved for housing projects which can not get fully under way before next spring.

Nearly $2,000,000,000 remains to be allocated. The more productive and necessary Federal projects seem to be already taken care of. It becomes increasingly clear that these funds can not be expected to produce any substantial increase in employment immediately.

And I will bet that England's king
Has never learned that golfing swing
So for the dubs

Looks up with countless gentlemen.

In vain it is to curse and rage,
The game has baffled many a sage
And many an eloquent divine
Can't keep a golf ball on the line.

So when you err with game at stake
Part with your pelf
Then tell yourself
Few great men ninety ever break.

Carlisle Bargeron

COMMISSAR HUGH JOHNSON'S statement yesterday that he plans in a day or so to give an interpretation of the union provision of the recovery act, the provision guaranteeing the right of workers to be represented by men of their own choosing, carries considerable significance. The impression is that a change of heart has taken place here, not with the commissar, personally, but with the NRA administration and Mr. Roosevelt. And if there has been such a change of heart it will bear weightily on the extent of cooperation which some of the biggest industries in the country will give the recovery program.

Bargeron.

The change is believed to have occurred in the long-drawn-out negotiations of the steel code. Notwithstanding the newspaper stories which I have read that this code was finally consummated by strong-arm methods on the part of Mr. Roosevelt and the commissar, of their banging their fists on the table and telling the steel people where to head in, my information is that the deadlock was broken by a gentlemen's understanding that the steel industry could do its own interpreting of the union guarantee provision, the provision by which unionized labor hoped to unionize the country.

And my guess is that the commissar's forthcoming interpretation will seek to get his program definitely out of this controversy.

• • • •

IT is not a matter here of whether one sympathizes with organized labor or does not. The point is that under the provision in the recovery act seeking to protect organized labor, the union leaders conceived a unionization of the country.

And they have had Mr. Roosevelt on their side up until this time. It has been my conviction that it was a matter of no concern with Commissar Johnson, that he was not interested in the unionization of the country but in the drive to put men back to work. However, because of the provision in the recovery act and because he is surrounded by some very smart labor men, together with Mr. Roosevelt's sympathy toward unionization, the recovery program has been proceeding as a unionization movement as much as a movement to put men back to work.

It is believed it had proceeded to the point, too, of where it was embarrassing the recovery program. Industry was balking. It was intimated only yesterday that the Recovery Administration was not getting the cooperation of the banks. With the timidity that has come to them, as the commissar expressed it, because of their experience of the past three years, they are not now showing the desired inclination to finance the increased pay rolls necessitated by the reducing of hours of labor and the increase of wages.

• • • •

TIMIDITY probably had something to do with it. But it is not at all unlikely that the uncertainty occasioned by the squaring off of big industries against the unionization movement played a very prominent part, too. The situation that was developing, in fact, was not one of a return to normalcy, to use a much abused word, but, instead, it was indicative of a prolonged industrial conflict. The banks would not want to finance such an uncertainty as this.

Some of the enthusiasts behind the recovery movement, those who talk of the "revolution" and the "redistribution of wealth," of jamming codes down industry's throat, ascribe ulterior motives to the attitude of the banks. Their view is that the banks should be driven into line. Just what sort of force we could unloosen to make the banks lend their money if they don't want to is something I can't see.

• • • •

THE very definite indications are, however, that the commissar himself is getting away from the strong-arm methods, and that he intends to get his recovery program out of the unionization movement.

It will be very important politically if he does this. The very decided impression is that Mr. Roosevelt looked upon a unionization of the country as vital to the future success of the Democrats. After all, he didn't get much support from organized business last November. Surely he doesn't think he will fare any better at their hands in 1936, not after he has tinkered with their pocketbooks the way he has, commendable or uncommendable as that tinkering may be.

Letters to the Editor.

Chesapeake Bridge Objectionable to Shippers, Says Correspondent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A Post correspondent recently suggested that a drawbridge should be constructed across Chesapeake Bay, connecting the Eastern Shore with the mainland, replacing the ferryboats. His leading idea seemed to be to save time.

Such a work probably never will be accomplished because it would menace the great shipping interests of the bay ports. A bridge necessarily would need a draw because it could not be built high enough to allow shipping to pass underneath. A draw would prove a constant source of delay to the thousands of domestic and foreign vessels that ply the bay almost continuously during both day and night. CHARLES H. COE.

Public Works Laborers Get Roosevelt Aid

Executive Order Limits Hours on Jobs Not Under Code.

Regulations to safeguard labor working on public works projects have been issued by President Roosevelt, it was learned yesterday.

A 30-hour week limit is imposed on labor in any industry which is not under code when the men are working directly or indirectly on public works projects. Industries which are under code shall be governed by that code when their men are working on these projects.

There are certain exceptions to these regulations on hours of work. Work hours lost during bad weather may be made up in the next 20 days. If a shortage of labor exists in the community, up to 130 hours of work per month may be allowed. Where camps have to be built to house the men at work on lonely projects, a 40-hour week is allowed.

Just Wage Required.

A "just and reasonable wage to provide a standard of living in decency and comfort" must be paid, say the regulations, issued as an executive order. The wage must be paid in cash, at least once a week, and no deductions are to be made for rent owed to the company or for goods bought at the company store.

No convict labor is to be employed either on public works or in manufacturing materials for such projects. Violations of the regulations may be punished as violations of the act are punished, and the Public Works Administration will report such violations to the local United States district attorney.

The executive order also delegates to the administrator the power to aid in refinancing railroad maintenance and equipment when the Interstate Commerce Commission approves the loan. This approval will be given only when the new facilities are needed to improve transportation facilities. The administrator is also given the power to accept voluntary services in carrying out the provisions of the act.

Can Lend to States.

The regulations also delegate to the Public Works Administrator power "to lend to States, counties and municipalities without regard to constitutional or legal restrictions or limitations on the right to borrow." This clause was quoted from the original act, which gave similar power to the President.

Power to lend money regardless of local laws does not help those States or political subdivisions which have such laws. The Public Works Administration lends money for construction only on securities issued by the constructing agency. Local laws must be amended before these bonds can be issued, it was pointed out.

"New Deal" City Plan Explained to Civitans

Plans for the erection of a "new deal" city were outlined to members of the Washington Civitan Club yesterday in the Hamilton Hotel.

Edgar Chambless, sponsor of the new community, told of his proposed residential center to be known as "Roadtown." With the aid of national leaders, Mr. Chambless declared, he hopes to start his project midway between Washington and Baltimore on a well-used highway.

With rent estimated at $1 a room with light and heat, Mr. Chambless said his plan will entirely do away with "slums."

Mrs. Spreckels Dies At Her Paris Home

Brilliant Rites Marked Marriage to Sugar Magnate in 1883.

Paris, Aug. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Claus A. Spreckels, wife of the American sugar refiner, died at her residence today at the age of 61.

Her maiden name was Oroville Dore. Born in San Francisco, she had made her residence in France for some years.

San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Claus A. Spreckels, who died today in Paris, was one of this city's most popular debutantes prior to her marriage here April 17, 1883. She was Oroville Dore, daughter of Edward Dore, who headed a drayage concern.

The great Spreckels fortune already was rising when their brilliant marriage took place. Claus Spreckels, head of the family, had come to San Francisco in 1856 and became interested in the refining of sugar. His businesses were marvelously successful.

Machado Trial Pleas Before Cuban Court

Extradition Demand Aired, Other Former High Officials Sought.

Havana, Aug. 22 (AP).—A deposition seeking the extradition of former President Gerardo Machado from the Bahamas for trial here on charges ranging from murder to malfeasance will be passed upon Friday by the criminal section of the Cuban Supreme Court.

The complaint makes similar charges against former Secretary of State Orestes Ferrara, former Secretary of Interior Octavio Zubivarreta, former Secretary of the Treasury Octavio Averhoff, former Chief of the Central District Jose Izquierdo and former Capt. of the Palace Guard Manuel Crespo Moreno. Their extradition is also sought.

Averhoff, Izquierdo and Crespo fled with Machado by plane to Nassau, the Bahamas. Ferrara escaped to the United States in another plane. Zubizarreta surrendered and is in prison.

Nine noncommissioned officers and men of the Cuban army, at an army investigation, testified Crespo was responsible for the brutal killing of four oppositionists, whose bodies were found buried under horse stalls at Atares Castle.

Army and Navy forces hastened tonight to cut off the escape by land or sea of a last remnant of Machado's supporters in western Cuba. The Machadistas, 20 or 30 strong, have determined to fight it out rather than surrender and are reported well armed. Gen. Pino Guerra and Senator Wilfredo Fernandez are leading the group, entrenched near Bahia Honda, in Pinar Del Rio Province.

Jewish Leader Calls for Truth On Palestine

Tells Zionist Congress "We Must Plead to Great Nations."

Praha, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 22 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The eighteenth World Zionist Congress, Dr. Selig Brodetzky, of Great Britain, told the gathering today, "must decide upon a course of political action which will make the nations of the world learn the truth about the situation of the Jewish people, and about Palestine" as their salvation.

"Above all," he declared, "Great Britain must learn this. We must plead with the other great nations and appeal to the League of Nations, which represents the concentration of the conscience of humanity."

Previously the speaker asserted Palestine should be made available to "tens of thousands of German Jews" who have left Germany since the rise of Chancellor Hitler.

A warm reception was given Prof. Albert Einstein when he arrived this morning.

Object to Ickes on Choice of White Man to Advise on Race.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People tonight made public a telegram sent to Secretary Ickes, protesting appointment of a white man to the Department of the Interior as adviser on the economic status of the negro.

The telegram, signed by Roy Wilkins, assistant secretary, said no objection was made personally to Clark Foreman, Atlanta, but "to the idea of a white adviser for negroes." The association said there were "a number of colored men who have as great training as the appointee and far richer experience."

Pittsburgh's Mystery Cliff Dweller Is Dead

Pittsburgh, Aug. 22 (AP).—A man known only as "George the Cliff Dweller" was dead today from an attack of epilepsy.

Landlords Adopt Reforms in Code

Fair Practices Clause Is Expected to Remove Many Abuses.

Cleveland, Aug. 22 (AP).—A code for operation under the NRA was adopted tonight by the newly organized National Apartment House Owners Association. The code contains a clause of fair practices which the apartment owners believe will eliminate many injurious methods of doing business. These include reductions of rents below the cost of operation and soliciting tenants with lower rent "bait."

Employment of persons under 16 is forbidden. Minimum wages are to be $15 a week in cities of 500,000 or more, $14.50 in cities above 200,000 and $14 in cities of 2,500 or more, with provisions for 80 per cent of those figures in Southern States.

Atlanta Makes Politics Safe for Its Policemen

Atlanta, Aug. 22 (AP).—The right of policemen to talk politics can not be abridged. The Atlanta City Council says so. Two weeks ago Police Chief Sturdivant told his men to stop talking politics—"keep your mouths shut and vote for whom you please."

Council decided, however, that policemen are citizens and that politics is a sport that any American citizen can enjoy. So it passed a law that "no head of a city department shall take any action to abridge the right of city employes to discuss politics and issues."

FAMOUS KARASTAN AND KARASHAH RUGS
In Large Sizes and Unusual Sizes

Purchased Long Before the Current Price Advances

Priced Approximately 50% Below What Replacement Costs Will Be

Floor samples and patterns the mills will not make again are included.

What about that room just a little out of proportion to use a staple room-size rug—or that exceptionally large room for which you can so rarely get a rug at a "sale" price? These Karastan and Karashah rugs were purchased months go—these Semi-Annual Selling prices are not only below the replacement prices, but are actually much below today's regular prices for these famous copies of Oriental rugs.

They are probably the most faithful of all American-made copies of Oriental rugs—the deep pile makes them wonderfully long-wearing and is luxurious to the tread—the yarns are the very finest quality, as are the dyes—colors are woven through to the back as in real Orientals. Yet, their prices are mere fractions of those of real Orientals. Sizes quoted are approximate.

Lives Menaced By Gulf Storm Along Coast

Death Toll Reaches Seven As Gale Moves North In Georgia.

(Associated Press.)

As a northeaster pounded the Atlantic shores from Massachusetts to Hatteras last night, a gale from the Caribbean menaced life and property anew as it swirled north along the Gulf Stream.

While the storm flag flew from Boston south to the Carolina cape, the Jersey shore bore the brunt of the northeaster. Seven lives have been lost to the raging waves and a dozen or more persons are missing in this resort section. The damage to such seaside spas as Atlantic City, Seabright and the Atlantic Highlands has been heavy.

The latest reports of the tropical disturbance placed the center of the gale close by the Gulf Stream north of Savannah, Ga.

There was no indication when the winds from the northeast would die out. The Weather Bureau's storm warning yesterday said they would reach the force of a gale along the coast.

The rain and overcast skies held firm for the fourth day along the storm-hit area.

The Weather Bureau said the Caribbean gale would remain stationary for some time, possibly reaching the vicinity of New York and Long Island today.

Bathing was forbidden at many beaches along the coast as the pounding waves weakened breakwaters and caused a heavy undertow. Coast Guard vessels patrolled the area for disabled craft.

New Storm Warning Given.

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau late yesterday issued a second storm warning: "Advisory northeast storm warnings extended 4 p. m. south of Hatteras to Southport, N. C.. Disturbance that was 350 miles southeast of Hatteras this morning now slightly nearer coast. Will cause strong northeast winds late tonight and Wednesday."

Ship in Distress

Manteo, N. C., Aug. 22 (AP).—Four Coast Guard crews stood on the beach near Chicacommico in a 50-mile gale tonight awaiting the outcome of an unknown schooner's battle with a raging sea. The ship was last seen half a mile off-shore but mist, rain and high seas prevented Coast Guardsmen from reaching her.

Tourist Ship Menaced

Hamilton, Bermuda, Aug. 22 (U.P.). Violent storms still sweeping the Atlantic today forced the Cunard Liner California, with 840 tourists aboard, to abandon efforts to enter the channel and dock here. The ship started back to New York.

The liner Monarch, of Bermuda, on the regular New York run, docked at 11 a. m. The storm over the island abated without damage.

Atlantic City Damaged

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 22 (AP).—High seas still raged along the Jersey coast tonight, but the wind had subsided, rain no longer fell and no further damage from the storm that has taken at least seven lives was expected.

Sections of the boardwalk along the inlet here were destroyed. Other parts of the Jersey coast reported little damage.

Two Seized in Gun Battle With Police

Pair Sought in Freight Train Assault Fire on Policeman.

A running gun battle in Anacostia near Benning Bridge ended yesterday when police of the Eleventh Precinct captured two colored men wanted for assaulting a man on a freight train near Baltimore.

Officers were waiting when the freight train pulled in to the Anacostia yards. The men fled, firing as they went, but were overtaken in a nearby woods.

Police said they held up and perhaps killed an unidentified hobo traveling on the train. Both men gave Baltimore addresses.

Montgomery Indorses Superhighway North

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday indorsed the plan for a superhighway from the District of Columbia around Ellicott City and Baltimore to Philadelphia and the Atlantic seacoast.

Mill Giving Good Service After More Than 150 Years.

Within the week this old mill at Millwood, Va., will turn out another batch of meal, just as it has done every year since the Revolutionary War. Thousands of persons pass it every year little suspecting that it is now more than a century and a half old. Left, E. L. Alger, present owner and miller, opening the sluice gate so that water will pass over the old mill wheel and thus provide power for the grinding stones.

Much Original Equipment in Historic Place Still in Use.

They're going to grind another batch of corn meal at the old mill in Millwood, Va., this week. And thereon hangs an interesting tale known by few of the thousands who pass the ancient structure every year.

The story of the old mill is closely linked with the history of the development of the United States. George Washington ordered it built by the Hessian prisoners, who later built the home of Gen. Morgan—Saratoga. The foreman of the stoneworkers was none other than L. M. "Sledge Hammer" Mongrul, second governor of Kentucky.

Despite a century and a half of constant use, much of the same machinery still operates in the mill. The same overshot water wheel furnishes the motive power. The same old trundle head is on the floor. The millstones were replaced some 75 years ago—before the advent of railroads—and were brought to Winchester from the quarry by ox teams.

The first castings of the master gear and other trundle gears were made in Germantown, Pa., in the first foundry in the United States. This master wheel is still giving service after 153 years, the mill having been completed in 1780. The trundle head wheel—that's the one that turns the millstones—still has its 112 wooden cogs. The white dust of flour clinging to its spokes, accumulated there for more than a century, bespeaks the wheel's age like the snow-white hair of the few men remaining there who spent their boyhood in the environs of the mill itself.

"During the Civil War the mill was run as a 'Union mill' by John Louthan," said E. L. Alger, the present owner and miller. "The soldiers of both Confederate and Union forces used to meet there and swap yarns. Then, inside of an hour, they would be out shooting at each other. You know there were many skirmishes around here. Winchester itself changed hands many times during the war."

"Do the neighbors still bring grain to be ground and wait to get the flour and meal," he was asked.

"Oh, yes; some of them," Alger replied. "Then we grind some feed—crushed corn and the like—and plenty of corn meal."

Fed by the waters of Saratoga Springs, nearby, the mill has never failed to operate, Alger says. The wheel which drives the machinery is 20 feet in diameter and has a 4½-foot draw—that is, there is 4½ feet of it acted upon at a time by the stream from the water sluice.

The same water gate operated by a long wooden handle is used to start and stop the wheel.

Recently Isham Randolph, engineer of renown, came to Millwood to copy the design of the old mill that he might erect a similar one in the West. So despite the years it has turned, the old mill continues to grind out its batches of meal and flour—an institution of the past that has retained its place in a world of modern conveniences.

Pay Violations In Crime Class

Law Dug Up by Justice Office; Unenforced In District.

A criminal penalty for violation of the Bacon-Davis prevailing wage act has been uncovered by the Department of Justice, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride revealed yesterday upon receipt of a letter from Assistant Solicitor General Angus D. McLean.

McLean said in part: "It now occurs to us, and we submit for your consideration, that while this statute makes no provision for criminal penalty for violations thereof, a conspiracy of two or more persons to violate this act would constitute a criminal conspiracy within the provisions of section 5440 of the Revised Statutes."

Although the District has had several instances of violation of the act, the Commissioners have required only that the contractor make wage adjustments.

Military Burial Set For Alan Winslow

Wartime Aviator, Diplomat and Executive Will Be Interred Here.

Military honors will be accorded Alan Winslow, wartime pilot, official of the State Department, and recently an official of a large airline, when his ashes are buried in Arlington Cemetery at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Winslow's career ended in Ottawa recently at the age of 37 when he fell from a hotel window. At 23 he joined the famous Lafayette Escadrille, and stayed with that band of aerial fighters until the United States entered the war, when he transferred to the American force. He was shot down, wounded and his left arm amputated in a German prison camp.

He entered the Diplomatic Service in 1919, and served in Berne, Prague and Mexico City. He married the daughter of his chief, William Castle, jr., resigned from the State Department and became an official of Pan-American Airways. When his wife died of pneumonia, a stroke of paralysis affected the use of his right leg. Despondent, he returned to the State Department, and in spare moments wrote a book on his war experiences. He died before the book was published.

Site of Armory Will Be Studied

Committee Will Discuss Proposals Today and Submit Findings.

No decision was reached concerning a site for a National Guard armory at a meeting yesterday in the Department of Interior attended by Guard officials and representatives of the Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations.

Maj. Hodgson, Col. Nevitt and Mr. Nolen will meet again today to discuss sites for the proposed armory. Their findings will be submitted to the various boards and commissions interested in the matter.

Among those attending were Arno B. Cammerer, director of the office; John Nolen, city planner of the National Park and Planning Commission; the assistant Engineer Commissioner, Maj. Paul Hodgson; Lieut. Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, assistant adjutant general of the District Guard, and A. E. Demaray, associate director of the National Parks Office.

As yet no funds have been allocated, although Guard officials are hopeful of obtaining some, possibly from the Public Works Administration.

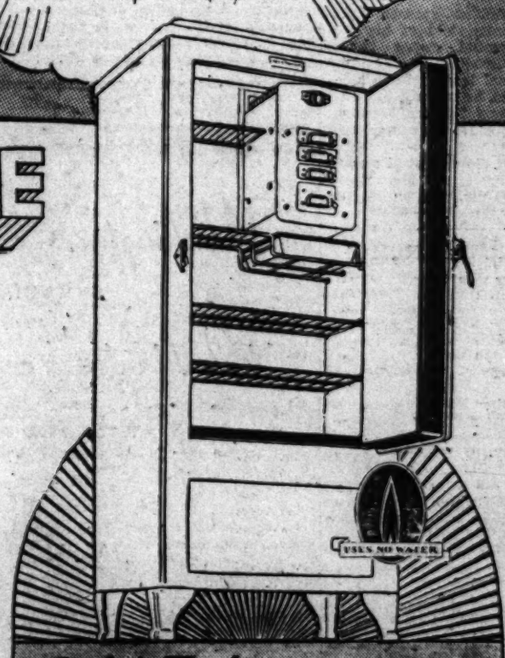
SEE THE Gas REFRIGERATOR BEFORE YOU BUY

More Than 100 Bargains

WHICH ONE TO BUY?



Every automatic refrigerator—there are more than one hundred different makes—is a bargain, if purchased before the price rise. You'll pay more if you wait until later.

When you buy, you want to be sure of buying the right refrigerator—one that can be termed a bargain years and years from now. Not in purchase price, for most refrigerators eventually pay for themselves. But in sound performance, silence of operation, lack of mechanical troubles, economy of operation.

Electrolux, the gas refrigerator, has no machinery to ever break down or need repair. A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts. Hence, without machinery, it can never make a sound. And this is important. Because of air cooling, the gas refrigerator costs less to operate than other automatic refrigerators.

Dollar-for-dollar, users of the gas refrigerator have found that it gives them MORE.

District Ready To Begin Work On Sewer Plan

Ickes Grant of $1,759,500 Must Be Confirmed, Gotwals Says.

The District Commissioners are prepared to immediately launch the public works construction of sewers, approved yesterday by the Public Works Administration, Engineer Commissioner Gotwals stated when informed of Secretary Ickes' announcement that the District had been allotted $1,759,500.

As no official confirmation of the action was received at the District Building, no explanation could be given as to the terms of the grant. Secretary Ickes, in announcing approval of the five sewer projects sought by the Commissioners, and an additional $40,000 to finance a study of the need for a sewerage disposal plant, said:

"Congress will determine the division of this fund as to the revenues of the District of Columbia and the Federal Government."

May Affect 1935 Funds.

Should the District be held indebted for 70 per cent of this grant to comply with the 70-30 per cent proposition offered the States, the money may have to be included in the 1935 appropriations act, the budget of which is now being prepared.

Maj. Gotwals said that a commission of three prominent engineers will be named to make the study of sewage disposal in the Potomac River. Each engineer will be paid at the rate of $10,000 a year, but the study is expected to require only six months.

Preliminary estimates of the Engineer Department were that complete treatment of this sewage disposal, including construction of a modern plant, would cost more than $9,000,000. Primary treatment, it was said, would cost over $4,000,000.

Piney Branch Project.

One of the most important of the five sewer construction projects approved is the Piney Branch relief sewer, plans for which have been drafted by Sanitary Engineer Gordon after an exhaustive study. The sewer will eliminate the flooding of streets and cellars in the vicinity of Fifth and Ingraham streets and will cost $400,000.

The northeast boundary sewer extension, which will cost $853,000, will eliminate a pollution nuisance in Kingman Lake. The Anacostia interceptor and pumping station will provide an outlet for sewage from the Bladensburg area, and will intercept crude sewage now being dumped into the Anacostia River.

The upper Potomac interceptor, which would cost $15,000, will intercept sewage now dumped into the upper Potomac River. The outfall sewer extension, which will cost $220,500, is necessary before any sewage-disposal plant can be constructed.

The five construction projects are expected to provide employment to about 1,000 men through a year.

Mrs. Costello Hit By Protest Blast

New York Theater Joins With Towns Banning Her Show Tour.

Boston, Aug. 22 (U.P.).—Jessie Costello's $2,000 a week barnstorming tour bogged down today before it started.

The attractive brunette widow, who last week was acquitted of poisoning her fire captain husband, William J. Costello, was to make her debute tonight as an "added attraction" with a Negro band at Wilburs-on-the-Taunton in Somerset, near Fall River. A protest, however, by the Rev. Thomas P. Doherty, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church there, led to the town selectmen refusing to sanction her appearance.

Similar action was taken by five other New England towns on her scheduled itinerary. They were Marlboro, Bourne, Salisbury Beach, Methuen and Old Orchard, Me.

To cap the climax, a telegram was received from the New York vaudeville and picture house, where Jessie was to do her "act" Saturday, requesting her engagement be canceled.

Liquor Control Vote Bill Given Virginia Senate

Pollard's Dispensary Plan Omitted; Beer Bill Nearly Complete.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 22 (AP).—Beer and prohibition repeal legislation, shorn of many administration features, moved swiftly today in the Virginia General Assembly.

The Staples-Eggleston bill, providing a vote October 3 on retention of State prohibition or a system of liquor control, was sent to the upper House late today with a favorable report from the Senate privileges and elections committee.

Beer Bill Near Ready.

The beer legalization bill, considered in three separate joint finance committee meetings today, was practically ready for the two houses, and the committees expected to complete its final draft and return a report after a meeting tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Already on the Senate calendar, with a favorable report, is the Holt bill for a referendum October 3 on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The State prohibition referendum bill was approved by the committee with only one change—increasing the membership of a commission to study liquor control and report to the 1934 regular session from nine to fifteen. It differs radically from the governor's recommendation in that it does not also offer the voters a choice between a dispensary or license system of liquor control in event of State repeal.

Floor Fight Expected.

In view of the governor's vigorous opposition to elimination of the dual State referendum feature, either another bill or an effort on the part of administration leaders to amend the Staples-Eggleston measure on the floor was expected.

The finance committees materially altered the administration beer bill by remvoing the section requiring a bond of $500 from beer licensees, striking out the section allowing localities to impose restrictions on the sale of beer other than the general conditions in the bill, and by adding a section allowing commissioners of the revenue to issue temporary beer sale permits pending later action by the circuit or corporation court on a permanent license. The temporary permits are good for 60 days.

Close Vote on Tax Clause.

The administration excise tax recommendations—$3.10 per barrel and 1 cent per bottle on beer—was retained on the closest possible vote.

The Senate committee voted for it 8 to 7 and the House committee 9 to 8. Opponents let it be known that an effort to amend it and secure a lower tax would be made on the floors of the two houses.

The administration license tax schedule was retained, with one exception. Senator Aubrey Weaver, of Front Royal, secured adoption of an amendment which fixes the beer license tax for railroads at $5 per car instead of a flat rate of $200 for the road.

Fight on Purchase Rules.

A proposed amendment by John S. Battle, of Charlottesville, to require that beer purchased for resale in Virginia be obtained from wholesalers or distributors licensed in the State was opposed by former Senator James S. Barron, representing a chain store organization. Some members of the committee also expressed doubt as to its constitutionality. The matter will come before the committee tomorrow, and in the meantime Chairman Wilbur Hall of the finance committee and Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrisett have worked out a substitute.

This substitute will provide that if a retailer buys beer from a bottler or wholesaler outside the State a bond for the tax-liability will be required, but that no such bond will be required if the beer is purchased in Virginia. The substitute authors believe that it is constitutional and said it was acceptable to Barron. They had not had an opportunity to confer with Battle, who asserted the bill as originally drawn would give an advantage to chain stores.

Labor Clerks Face Job Loss

Secretary Perkins Says Many Aids Will Lose Employment Soon.

A list of Labor Department employes to be dropped as a result of the merger of the Bureaus of Immigration and Naturalization will be ready in about ten days or two weeks, Secretary Perkins said yesterday.

A "considerable number" of workers will lose their places, Secretary Perks said, declining to be more specific. A cut of $1,500,000 in the department's appropriation will not be met entirely by personnel reductions, however, she promised.

The list of those to be dropped is being made up by examining boards in department offices throughout the country. All employes who were automatically separated from the service by the merger, were reappointed for periods ranging from 10 days to a month. During this time the employes are being examined as to the quality of their work and the necessity for it by these boards.

Dinosaur Bone Believed Found in Central America

Aztec Stones of a Still Uncharted Period Also Unearthed.

New Orleans, Aug. 22 (AP).—A 22-pound fossilized bone, believed to be the first portion of a dinosaur ever found in Central America, and crudely carved Aztec stones of a yet uncharted period, have been brought here by an expedition headed by Gregory Mason, of the University of Pensylvania Museum.

The bone, classified as part of a foot, 1 foot in length and 10 inches wide at one end and 5 inches at the other, was discovered in a sliding bank in the jungle near Olanchito, Spanish Honduras.

Rare Object Found.

The stone relics, also discovered in the Honduran region, included a rare head-shaped object believed to have been used in the execution of human sacrifice victims to appease pagan gods; a carved ceremonial bone shaped in the image of a camel and a stone mortar and pestle for grinding corn.

Mason's expedition also brought back an old pistol believed to have been owned by William Walker, American soldier of fortune of the '40s and '50s who overthrew the Nicaraguan government with 200 followers and installed himself as president of the country, then was executed.

Museum to Get Relic.

Mason estimated the foot bone once was a portion of the body of a dinosaur from 35 to 50 feet high. It will be presented to the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

The Mayan relics, dated possibly from 1,500 years ago, may open an avenue of research in early Central American culture. Mason said these stones possibly antedated any such relics yet found. They will be given to the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

'Chiselers' Beware Of Mrs. Pinchot

Governor's Wife Declares She Will Get Action on NRA Violations.

Philadelphia, Aug. 22 (AP).—Employers who sign NRA pledges and then fail to shorten hours and increase pay better watch out for Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's governor.

"I am forwarding all complaints to Washington, and we are going to get some action," she said today in an address before the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers' convention.

"All workers must be paid, not only enough to buy the necessities of life, but enough to buy automobiles, new furniture for their homes, gasoline for their automobiles—all that makes life amusing and dramatic," she declared.

Bandits Obtain $5,000 in Cash From Brewery

Robbers at Baltimore Flee In Auto with District License Plates.

Gunmen using an automobile with District of Columbia license plates, held up the Globe Brewing Co. in Baltimore last night and escaped with $5,000 while police cars were rushing to the scene.

Three men entered the brewery shortly before 7 p. m. A fourth remained at the wheel of the auto and drove slowly around the block.

W. Edward Green, cashier, was ordered to lie on the floor. A clerk entered and also was made to lie down. Two men kept watch while the third scooped bills and silver from a cash drawer into a satchel.

A colored janitor, attracted from his work on the second floor, was ordered to "come on down." The bandits, however, failed to see Mrs. Rose Woods, telephone operator. She returned to her switchboard and summoned police.

Auto Stolen Here.

With a parting warning, the bandits fled to their waiting auto. Hardly were they out of sight when police arrived.

Passers-by noted the license number on the machine. Police here said that number was listed to Christopher McCarthy, of 605 North Carolina avenue southeast. McCarthy's machine was stolen last week near Eighth street and Constitution avenue northwest.

NRA Is Praised By Mrs. Fain In Alexandria

200 Women at Meeting Warned of Slackers In Economic War.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, of Norfolk, Virginia's first woman member of the General Assembly, speaking at a mass meeting held in Alexandria last night under the auspices of the Woman's Committee NRA, characterized the NRA as the "greatest factor for bringing back good times to America."

"Our first objective is to put millions of unemployed back to work before snow flies. To accomplish this, every citizen must do his part. There must be no hesitation. There is no necessity for waiting until all the industrial codes are agreed upon," Mrs. Fain said.

"Both the employer and the employe, as well as the consumer, has his duty to perform to make this plan a succes, and upon the women of this country falls the great task to aid in making this a success, as they did back in the dark days of 1917," she declared.

"There is only one thing that can make the NRA fail. That is the cheater, who, in wartimes, we call the slacker. The member of a competitive group, who refuses to join the NRA is a slacker, and that far more despicable member of his competitive group, who signs the contract with the President, and then deliberately does not live up to his promise, who avoids his duty through technicalities and who unjustifiably raises prices, is nothing more than a traitor.

"It is a notable fact that when calamity comes and a sacrifice is in order, and men fear for the future, they come in confidence to the women. The women of this country have in their hands the success or the failure of the entire plan."

The meeting was attended by more than 200 women, with Mrs. Randall Caton, chairman, presiding.

"A trench, maybe it's a runway, or an areaway. Anyhow the poor cat's there."

So arming himself with a 15-foot ladder, Private Wright went to the school building, and in the moat that runs around the structure from the basement to the first floor, only a few feet deep, he found the cat. He removed it to the street with little difficulty.

Boy Discovers Safe and Loot In Cornfield

Finds $5 in Dimes on His Arrowhead Safari; Notifies Police.

Hugh Stabler, 16, of 6123 Broad Branch road northwest, and his dog, Bunky, went hunting for Indian arrowheads yesterday. Instead they found the handiwork of more recent marauders.

Rambling in the cornfield at Jones Mill and Jones Bridge roads, North Chevy Chase, Md., near the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, they found a safe which had been stolen from the Charles M. Schneider Cafe in Washington. Scattered about were checks as well as insurance papers.

Examining their find more closely, Hugh discovered that the robbers had left a package of dimes, amounting to $5. Hugh climbed on his trusty bicycle and rushed to the Bethesda substation, Montgomery County Police, where he turned over the dimes.

County Policeman James S. McAuliffe went with him to the scene and called Washington police. The safe was stolen August 14 and had contained about $300 as well as the checks and papers.

Tools which apparently had been used to break open the safe, a small wall affair, were taken by police in an effort to identify their owners.

The safe was hidden under the bank of the road by shrubbery. Had not the boy gone arrowhead hunting, it might have remained months before being discovered.

Fairfax Plans To Raze Jail 100 Years Old

Seeks $50,000 U. S. Loan To Build Modern Structure.

Fairfax County's century-old jail may be only a memory soon.

The board of supervisors went to Richmond yesterday to confer with Col. James A. Anderson, State engineer for the Federal Public Works Board, relative to obtaining a loan from Federal recovery funds to build a new jail.

The board was accompanied by County Purchasing Agent R. M. Loughborough and William I. Deming, Washington architect, who drew plans for the proposed building.

The board seeks $50,000 for a modern 32-cell jail on the old site. To finance the loan a bond issue would be floated, if approved by the voters.

The tentative application for the loan was received by Col. Anderson, but before the final application can be made a brief embodying the legal questions must be filed with the State board by Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, of Fairfax County. The application and brief would be forwarded to Washington.

The present insanitary jail was constructed to accommodate only 16 prisoners. It now houses an average of 36. It has been said that all a person needs to escape is an inclination and a little time to scratch through the brick and soft mortar.

Two weeks ago Sheriff E. P. Kirby foiled the escape of 20 prisoners housed in the corridors because of lack of cellrooms.

1,000 Alexandrians Seek Home Loans

There is a spirit of close cooperation on the part of the banks and individual mortgage holders in accepting the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, H. Bruce Green district manager of the Alexandria office, declared last night.

Since the office opened on July 24 approximately 1,000 applications for loans by home owners have been filed and of this number 25 are now in the hands of counsel for examination of title. The holders of the mortgages of these 25 have agreed to take the bonds, Green stated.

Applications for loans are being received at the rate of about 75 a week, it was stated.

Hamilton Bank's Opening Not Set

Edwin C. Graham, president of the newly organized Hamilton National Bank of Washington, said yesterday it was impossible to predict the exact date of this institution's opening at this time.

In an official statement Mr. Graham expressed regret regarding a recent newspaper article and radio announcement to the effect that Hamilton National Bank would open definitely September 5.

His statement continued: "While every effort is being made to complete the tremendous mass of detail work necessary to enable the Hamilton to open on September 5, it is impossible for us at this time to make a definite commitment as to the opening date and it will probably be impossible to make such a commitment more than one week in advance.

"The public, however, can be assured that the entire personnel of the proposed Hamilton National Bank is working day and night to insure the earliest possible opening date."

Montgomery Changes Precinct Voting Place

Change of the voting place of the Ninth Precinct of the Thirteenth Election District was ordered yesterday by the election supervisors of Montgomery County, Md. The new voting place will be the Cross Brush Factory, Flower and Erie avenues, Takoma Park, Md. Formerly it was located in Columbia Hall, Washington Missionary College.

The board met at the Rockville courthouse to plan for the special election September 12 on repeal of the eighteenth amendment. F. Byrne Austin, clerk to the board, was instructed to ascertain prices on necessary supplies. The election will require 33,000 ballots, 150 tally sheets, 250 election return reports and 125 scratch pads.

Chilean Students Rally To Lay Strike Plans

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 22 (AP).—A mass meeting of National University students was called today to consider a general strike until officials grant their demands that students be given a voice in the management of the institution.

The government warned leaders that police would use force if trouble ensued. University officials announced they were determined to prevent a few leaders from causing the colleges to be closed.

Flashes From the Radio Dial

PREPARATIONS go merrily ahead for the NRA broadcast next Sunday night, which promises to be the biggest of the season. Stars will be picked up from all over the United States. Will Rogers, Burns and Allen, Nino Martini, young Italian tenor who landed in the Metropolitan Opera Company by way of the radio; John Charles Thomas, barytone, who will also make his Metropolitan debut this season, have already accepted. Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor and Jack Pearl (Baron Munchausen), and many more are to be heard from.

Instead of chaperoning the moon when it comes over the mountain, Kate Smith, chairman of the NRA radio committee, will step out of her usual role and make a speech. The Army, Navy and Marine Bands have volunteered their services.

The presentation will last for a full hour, beginning at 9:45 o'clock, and will be heard over all three network stations in Washington, WRC, WMAL and WJSV.

John D. Rockefeller, jr., will make his first network broadcast, when he speaks in behalf of the NRA from his summer home at Seal Harbor, Me., next Saturday night.

The latest details of the National Firemen's Labor Day Parade will be given this evening by Private H. C. Bell, of the Washington Fire Department, chairman of the radio committee (WRC, 5:55 o'clock).

Two outstanding presentations ahead are those of the American Legion, which in dramatic fashion will tell of the history and growth of this great organization, and another which will give a "close-up" of the Foreign Legion. The American Legion episodes will begin a week from tonight and the Foreign Legion tales Sunday night, September 3.

AMOS 'N' ANDY tonight begin the fifth consecutive year of broadcasting under their present sponsorship. Before that they had made a great name for themselves in the Middle West from Station WGN in Chicago. They were then known as "Sam 'n' Henry."

Experts have debated on the reasons for their tremendous popularity. One is perhaps that they actually live their parts when they write their scripts, and at other times. I was walking down a corridor at the Mayflower with them in Washington one night when Amos, noticing a colored maid watching them, turned to her and said in the voice of his radio character, "Why if there ain't Madame Queen!"

In the voice of the "Kingfish" Amos tried to sell a membership in the "Mystic Knights of the Sea" to Robert, the famous Press Club waiter, with the latter responding politely and seriously, "Thank you sah, but I'se already a membah of one lodge, and am afraid I couldn't afford to join another."

When I asked Andy what he attributed their success to most he replied, "I think it is because we take our work seriously. For instance we have never been late to a broadcast. We are usually in the studio an hour to three quarters of an hour ahead of time. This gives us an opportunity to get into the mood of our characters."

They have never permitted anyone to witness a broadcast and the story goes that Amos was seen to leave the studio after a dramatic portrayal wiping from his eyes tears which were unquestionably the real thing.

Amos 'n' Andy have many radio records to their credit. They were the first 15-minute program on the air, the first six-nights-a-week program; the first pair to create and portray a host of radio characters (more than 60 have been heard in their programs) without using voices other than their own. They have written every word of the more than 2,000,000 that have been spoken on their broadcasts, and have portrayed each of the characters that have become so familiar to American listeners.

I recall that one of them asked me if I would help correct the impression that sometimes broadcasts were put on for them in their absence by means of electrical transcription, commonly known as phonograph records. At that time records of Amos 'n' Andy were being farmed out to smaller stations. The public somehow got the idea that maybe the boys were putting this method over on them on their network broadcasts.

"One woman wrote to us that she could hear the scratching of the phonograph needle," Andy said to me, "but nothing could be farther from the truth. We have never substituted a record broadcast for a personal appearance in our lives."

IT is a surprising fact that though Station WMAL in Washington uses only 250 watts power (as compared to WJSV, 10,000 watts, and WLW, Cincinnati, 50,000 watts) a portion of the broadcast of Harris Hull, The Postilion, was picked up by listeners as far away as California. The feat seems all the more remarkable in view of the fact that the 630-kilocycle frequency upon which WMAL operates is a Canadian-shared channel.

Likewise, using the frequency in the United States and broadcasting at the same time as WMAL, are WGBF, at Evansville, Ind.; KFRU, Columbia, Mo., and KGFX, at Pierre S. Dak. When told of the California pickup K. H. Berkeley, Washington manager of NBC, was much surprised and said: "It sometimes happens, I suppose, but is a much rarer accomplishment these days and takes a higher powered and more selective set than formerly. Likewise weather conditions must be exactly right.

"I recall, though, in the old days when WRC was on the present frequency of WMAL that we were frequently heard on the Pacific Coast. There are, however, many more stations broadcasting now than then, which makes the feat increasingly difficult."

Illustrating what Dr. J. H. Dellinger, noted expert at the U. S. Bureau of Standards, calls the "vagaries of radio" is the fact that, though the California listeners, with their powerful set, were able to pick up WMAL, a 250-watt station, 3,000 miles away, they are not able, because of "dead spots" on the Pacific Coast, to tune in on some of the relatively nearby stations, such as those of Portland, Oreg., less than 1,000 miles distant.

"MILK and What it Means to Health," by Dr. Homer N. Calver, of the American Public Health Association, should be very timely with the milk investigation going on (WMAL, 12:30 p. m.) . . . "Nazi Berlin" will be described this evening by William Hard (WRC, 5:30 o'clock) . . . Radio Joe puts on a dog show to pay homage to man's most faithful friend. He will tell about the feeding and care of dogs in summer, have one or two of them bark their part, and then will turn the microphone over to Mrs. Richard H. Johnston, of Ruffcote Kennels, Silver Spring, Md. (WMAL, 6:30 p. m.) . . . "Good Morning, Dearie," Jerome Kern's old musical comedy, will be reviv ed in "Curtain Calls" (WJSV, 7:15 p. m.) . . . Senator Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, is a WABC network NRA speaker at 10:15 p. m., but apparently is not booked for WJSV . . . "Doors," Violet Wachter's all-Washington production, will be piped to Baltimore tonight for the first time (WRC, 10:15 o'clock).

FANNIE BRICE, comedienne, at 13 was earning her living as clerk in a candy store. She proved herself a born saleswoman by selling a stock of 1-cent candy sticks nobody would buy. Little Fannie broke each stick into sixteen pieces, wrapped separately and placed them in a show-window with a placard reading "16 pieces for 1 cent." The supply sold out over night.

Vic: My father married my mother for the bread she made.

Sade: Well, I certainly never married you for the dough you make.

A CERTAIN radio staff pianist, who must remain incognito, recently slid his car up to the curb of a crowded New York street. A mounted cop emerged from a tangle of cars.

"Gwan!" said the cop, and the pianist went—around the block. When he returned, no brass buttons were in sight, so he went into a nearby building, transacted his business, and came back to the car ten minutes later.

Still no cop in sight. Our hero started the car and was driving merrily away when—hark! the hoofbeats of a galloping horse behind him!

"The jig's up now, all right!" he groaned, and without waiting for the whistle, he pulled over, stopped and got out—and had the shock of his life. There was the horse—but where was the cop? The reins were looped over the tail light, and the pianist realized with a scalp-tingling feeling of horror, that he had kidnaped a traffic cop's steed!

Stealthily, with visions of the Big House dancing before his eyes, he freed the nag and sped away with fearful backward glances. But before going, he carefuly looped the reins over somebody else's tail light.

Federal Employe Presents Rare Watch to Uncle Sam

The National Museum's exhibit of old watches yesterday was larger by a timepiece which to a pawnbroker would have been worth comparatively little, but in which a collector would delight.

Dr Spiro Sargentich, Veterans' Bureau mental disease specialist, valued his watch in the dollars of neither the pawnbroker nor the collector, for it is one of his few remaining contacts with his old home in Dalmatia.

For nearly a century it was his family's principal timepiece. Its works no longer run, but Dr. Sargentich and his brothers often listened to their ticking, just as their father and uncles had in their boyhood. Dr. Sargentich's grandfather, a Dalmatian sea captain, bought the watch on one of his trips to England early in the last century. He carried it until his death, when it passed to the doctor's father, also a mariner.

Dr Sargentich came to America about 40 years ago, worked his way through the University of California medical college, practiced medicine on the West Coast until the outbreak of the World War, when he returned to Dalmatia to fight with his countrymen against Germany. He was given the watch on one of his furloughs home.

Four cases, two of brass, one of turquoise and one of silver, make the watch the largest in the museum's collection. Though its movement is almost identical with a type used as early as 1325, the watch is believed to have been made by Perigal, of London, as late as 1830. Its Turkish numerals indicate manufacture especially for near eastern trade.

Three inches in diameter and an inch and a half thick, it rests in the museum's case of old watches, conspicuous and safe.

Baby Behaves When It Learns Crying Is Futile

Prudent Mother Saves Herself Trouble by Teaching Child Not to Cry.

There was quite a crop of new babies in the community that fall. Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Jones each added to the world's population. None of them was wealthy, and since hired help was at a premium and they did their own work, the babies added to the complications of their lives, and made not only work but also play somewhat more difficult.

After a couple of months, Mrs. Jones began to go about her life very much as usual, and except that now she was accompanied wherever she went by a baby, she was nearly as carefree as ever.

Baby Cause Little Trouble.

The baby never seemed to require any attention except a blanket spread on a bed or couch, where she would sleep until it was time to go home.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Brown, on the other hand, had babies who required constant attention, and who screamed lustily if they did not get it. Their sleep was broken, their housework disorganized, ther husbands neglected, and it was rumored that Mrs. Brown had been seen roning with one hand because on her left arm she held the baby who cried if she put him down.

Child Trained Early.

The secret of the difference lay in the management of the children during the first few weeks of their lives. Mrs. Jones believed that if a baby was fed and comfortable it should be left alone, and in spite of nerves worn ragged by the wear and tear on her sympathy and by the noise, she paid no attention to the baby's crying unless she knew that there was real cause for it. Finally the baby yielded to the inevitable, and only cried under extreme provocation.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Brown declared that Mrs. Jones was heartless and had no nerves, but in the face of the results the neighbors wondered if their accusations were justified.

Lodge Bought First Wilson Manuscript

In a nook of the library in the spacious home where the late President Woodrow Wilson passed his last days is a small book shelf. In comparison to the other furniture in this elegant room the book shelf might seem a trifle shabby. But it bears the earmarks of being cherished for some reason or other, with its well-dusted surface. In the book shelf are placed all the books written by President Wilson.

Back of the book shelf is a story that gives a curious sidelight on a celebrated political feud. It is well known that the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and President Wilson were as far apart as the poles on the League of Nations issue. What amounted to almost enmity grew up between them because of these political differences.

Yet that book shelf typifies the first money Woodrow Wilson ever earned by writing.

The young Princeton student, even then interested in political economy, wrote an article and, in a moment of boldness, sent it to a high-class publication.

The editor bought the story. With the proceeds Wilson bought the book shelf.

The editor was Henry Cabot Lodge. Thus, he was, perhaps, the unconscious cause of making Woodrow Wilson think seriously of writing, which, it is fair to say, had much to do with his coming to the White House later, as President of the United States.

Play Room Walls Made Gay from Cut-Out Book

Children's cut-out books or crayon-color books, the inexpensive ones to be found in any 5 and 10 cent store, offer rich material for decorating the nursery or playroom walls.

For the nursery, they can be pasted in border effect near the ceiling and tinted in delicate pastel shades.

But in the playroom one can give freer rein to the imagination. Paste the cut-out designs in fanciful groups and patterns high or low on the wall. Color them boldly, and treat the walls to two coatings of clear varnish. The effect will be greeted with glee by youngsters.

Gooseneck Office Lamp Makes Cozy Night Light

A charming night light may be made of an old gooseneck office lamp. If you have one in your attic, drag it out and dust it off. Remove the metal shade, take the goose by the neck and bend it forward and upward, so that the socket points up. The arm of the lamp will resemble the stem of a flower; all that is needed is a blossom. A small shade, put on up-side-down, will fill this need. Screw a low watt frosted bulb (orange colored bulbs give a lovely light) into the heart of the flower. Transplant it to your hall table and see for yourself what a cheery greeting it gives you when you come home at night.

Pulled Armholes Fixed By Raglan Sleeve Route

Dresses you may have cast aside because they are worn under the arm or pulled across the back, can be brought back into circulation by removing the offending portion and substituting a portion fashioned along the lines of the new dolman, raglan or square underarm sleeve. If material like the garment is no longer available, select one in pleasing contrast. Inspiration for your redesigning may be sought from one of the separate sleeve patterns shown in women's magazines.

Head of Child Welfare Division Urges Legal Measures To Protect Dependent Children and Foster Parents

From left to right above, we have Melvin, Shirley and Jackie, who seem to find life pleasant in District-supervised foster homes. Jackie is a Gypsy. Washington Foundlings Hospital, 4610 Forty-second street, is home to the three amiable infants in the crib. They are, left to right, Angela, aged 9 months; William, aged 3 weeks, and Bobby Lee, now 4 months old. "But for goodness sake, don't say they're for adoption, or we'll have a deluge of irate uncles and cousins and mothers on our heads," exclaimed a hospital executive, as the picture was snapped.

Patricia Morse Also Asks Social Investigation of Foster Child.

About 4,000 Children in District Receive Support From Social Agencies.

"Two major improvements are sought through a new child adoption law being urged for the District of Columbia," asserted dark-eyed, quiet Patricia Morse, for 12 years chief of the Child Welfare Division of the Board of Public Welfare, yesterday.

She considered the subject gravely, speculatively, as she leaned back in her chair at her desk in the District Building.

Children's books lined shelves built waist-high on one side of the room. Fantastic Mother Goose characters made bright splashes of color higher up.

In another corner, a secretary made expert use of a typewriter, stopping now and again to take up an insistent telephone.

"Such a law would provide for social investigation of both foster parent and child. It would require a trial period of residence of the child in the home of the adopting parent before the decree is signed," the child welfare chief continued.

"There is another aspect of the adoption law which needs to be treated by separate legislation. That is a measure to prohibit unwed mothers from giving away their illegitimate babies to a third person for purposes of adoption."

Four Thousand Aided.

"There are 4,000 children in the District today, ranging from infancy to adolescence, dependent upon social agencies for support. They represent cases of parental neglect, or parents who are themselves dependent.

"Three thousand of these children will probably eventually have need for a foster home. And it is most important," Miss Morse explained, "to know the emotional determinant which prompts a foster parent to take a child into his home. For upon that depends the child's chances for development.

"There is where the social investigation is so necessary, and the trial period of residence. Without these safeguards, children may find themselves in homes where, despite seemingly satisfactory conditions, there is no mutual understanding between foster parent and child.

"Or the moral character in that home may prove to be questionable. Or it may develope that the foster parents are not in a position to provide financial security."

When an adoption case is brought into court today, Miss Morse stated, it is necessary only that the proposed foster parent present a certificate as to character, signed by three persons, and that he submit a statement signed by the parent of the child proposed for adoption, expressing willingness to have the child adopted.

New Law Needed.

Reverting to her earlier declaration of the need for legislation making it impossible for a mother to bring about the separation of herself and child without an investigation by social workers, Miss Morse explained:

"Legislation of this type, already in effect in 19 States of the Union, requires a mother who proposes to give her child for adoption to file information about herself with the State department of social welfare. Whether or not a profit motive is involved in passing along the child is then investigated by that department."

That the profit motive is often exploited, to the considerable advantage of a third person, who offers himself to the mother as a go-between for her in arranging the child's adoption, was emphasized by Miss Morse.

"After persuading the unwed mother that the best way out of her problem is by the adoption route," Miss Morse explained, "often taking advantage of her helplessness and indecision while she is yet in a maternity hospital—the go-between assumes full responsibility of the child. Eventually he finds a willing foster parent and exacts for himself as much as $500 to cover expense of caring for the child during the period he has had it; with an additional $100 presumably expended for an investigation of the child's social history."

Such go-betweens often falsely represent an illegitimate baby to be a foundling, having discovered that the foundling myth holds a romantic appeal for the average foster parent, she declared.

These agents operate as managers of nursing homes in most instances, she said. License for such a home is issued by the department of health, which inquires only into conditions of fire hazards, sanitation and factors dealing with the physical aspects of the home, and not into the social aspects.

Two Groups Aid Movement.

Two groups are supporting the movement for improved adoption laws in the District of Columbia. They are the League of Women Voters and the Juvenile Protective Association, the latter a private agency which works in the field of prevention of delinquency among children.

Fourteen hundred dependent District children are under the guardianship of the Child Welfare Division of which Miss Morse is head. One hundred of these, ranging in ages from 6 to 16 years, are cared for at the Industrial Home School, on Wisconsin avenue. Two hundred are cared for at the Industrial Home School for Colored Youth, at Blue Plains.

The greater number of its wards are taken care of through a system of foster homes.

Sixteen other private agencies exist in the District for caring for dependent children.

Among these are the Washington Foundling Home at 4610 Forty-second street northwest. Here 42 children, ranging in ages from 3 weeks to 6 years, are cared for by a staff of 18. These are children of widowed, separated, or unwed parents. At the present time, only 2 of the 42 inmates of this institution are available for adoption.

Bedspreads Provide Drapes for Room

Are you "a fool for colors" which correspond in your bedroom? An inexpensive short cut to your goal—if you are—is to buy an ample, full-size bedspread, provided your bed is the three-quarter or single size. Take a foot and a half, or so, off either side of the spread and bind the edges of the remaining center portion. This is your spread. The pieces from the sides make lovely window valances. And, if you want to go further and make a corresponding valance for your dressing table, and maybe covers for cushions in chairs or window seat, simply buy another bedspread and cut it to your needs. They come in lovely colors and priced quite low.

Your Summer Straw Will Wash, With Care

With the waning of summer, has your pet straw hat become disgracefully soiled? Providing the straw is closely woven and light colored, such as leghorn, panama or milan, it can be cleaned with a suds of lukewarm soft water and neutral soap.

Dip the hat in the suds and scrub lightly with a soft cloth until it is clean. Then rinse thoroughly to remove all the soap and place in the shade to drain for a short time before blocking.

If the straw is coarse and loosely woven, it is safer not to dip the hat in water, but to sponge it lightly with a cloth dampened in lukewarm water.

New China Lamps.

Havilland china is the medium used for some new lamps with modernistic stripings of platinum, gold or color banding the white china.

Reporters Outwit D. A. R. Seclusion

During the famous blacklist battle in the D. A. R., an administration or two ago, in the midst of a session of the Continental Congress of the society, the then president general was outwitted by certain unnamed members of the Washington press.

During a heated discussion on the floor of the congress, it went into executive session for the first time in many years, and the fourth estate was politely requested by the president general to withdraw.

With equal politeness, the scribes did withdraw out of the auditorium to a point of vantage in the wings. Here was located the apparatus which was amplifying the proceedings to all parts of the big hall so that the daughters in the rear seats as well as those in front could hear what was going on.

In comfort and peace, the exiled reporters heard everything that was going on, and made copious notes of the same; the recriminations, the impassioned appeal of the delegate involved, the remarks of the president general—all.

When the session was over, the president general was joined by one of the press. The official began to apologize for the necessity of going into executive session and excluding the press.

"Do not worry, dear lady," remarked the newspaperman, "it is all in the first edition of my paper. You see, you forgot to put your amplifiers into executive session as well as your delegates!"

"Bone" White Accessories.

"Bone" white is the new color for small pieces of furniture . . . coffee and side tables, book bases, small chairs and so on. It is a soft antiqued white and very easy to harmonize with practically any room scheme.

Culbertson's Bridge

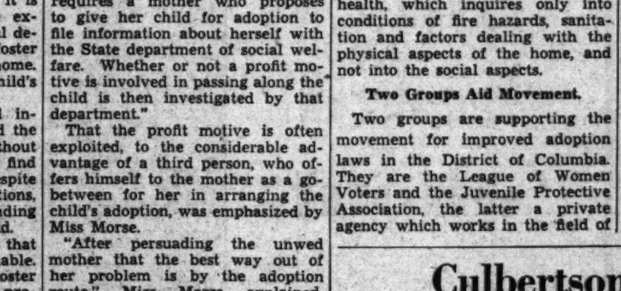
780.

Inciting a Slam.

Often the result of defensive bids is to incite the side which has opened the bidding to overbid and to attempt contracts that may, in the last analysis, prove unmakable. Sometimes—though far less frequently—these unmakable contracts are made.

In the recent American Whist League Congress held at Hanover, N. H., in July, one of the interesting hands in the last session of the pair event was the one below. Obviously North and South can make five spades without too great effort, losing on the hand two diamond tricks. However, at one table East and West decided to force North and South above a game contract in spades with dire results—not because their cards could not accomplish a set of the adverse contract, but because of errors in the play.

East, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East	South	West	North
Pass (1)	1♠	Pass	3♠ (2)
4◇ (3)	4♠ (4)	5◇ (5)	Pass
Pass	6♠ (6)	Pass	Pass
Dbl. (7)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—East should have opened the bidding with one diamond.
2—A slight overbid. The hand is very strong distributionally, but lacks the honor-tricks for a Jump Raise.
3—Designed simply as a nuisance Overcall.
4—Again a slight overbid.
5—Obviously only a nuisance Raise.
6—South is annoyed. While he does not feel that on the bidding he has a good play for six, he argues that the chance of making six is probably about as good as that of making five, and in consequence decides to go the whole way and play for either a top or bottom on the board.
7—Holding two Aces, this is quite natural.

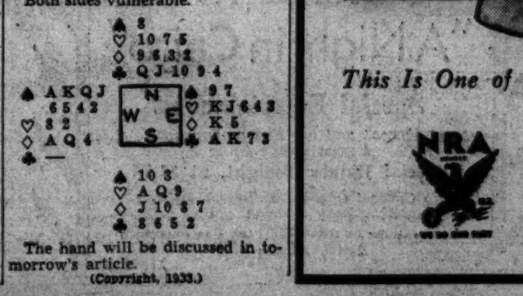
The Opening lead was the diamond Knave, and when the Declarer took stock of his Dummy, it was of course, perfectly obvious to him that he must be defeated at least 1 trick, provided the hand was played in the normal manner. However, there was still fighting for him the element of psychology. He knew that East considered him to be a very fine player. He reasoned that East would not believe that he would go to six spades with more than a singleton diamond in his hand. Therefore, to strengthen the impression that his holding was only a singleton in the suit bid by the opponents, without the slightest hesitation he dropped the Queen on East's King. East, thinking to bring to a quick end the agony of defense, now laid down the heart Ace. South ruffed, and was eventually able to play the hand in such a manner as to fulfill his contract.

The actual play of the hand is far from easy, even with East's defensive error. Of course, the play of the heart Ace is particulary atrocious. If South holds losing hearts there is no place in the world where they may be discarded. Any other lead, even the return of a diamond, and even if South's play of the Queen was not a falsecard, is much better, and, of course, with any other return, the ambitious overbid must be defeated.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If East has opened the bidding with one heart and South has subsequently doubled West's six-spade bid, what should be North's Opening lead in view of the Double?

East, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Milliner Tells How Copies Are Kept Authentic

U. S. Revenue Department Insists That Original Paris Model Serves as Pattern.

Authentic feminine fashions and the Internal Revenue Department would seem, at first thought, to have little in common. And yet there is a connecting link.

Uncle Sam stretches forth a protecting arm, which underwrites an earnest ambition to wear an Agnes or a Lewis, an Alphonsine or a Molyneaux copy, tip-tilted on shining blocks.

"When the label within the crown says, 'Reproduction of—;' when the salesman reassures a customer with the words, 'This is an authentic copy,' then she may know that it really is," remarked the manager of the millinery department of one of Washington's leading department stores.

"Copies" Are Authentic.

"When we say a hat is an authentic copy, we mean that we know the original Paris creation has actually served as the pattern. We know the manufacturer from whom we ordered that hat has the original model in his workshop."

And the reason they know, he explained, is because through his department of Internal Revenue, Uncle Sam makes certain that such is true.

"When we are fitting our smartest copies, we never know but that the customer is an agent from the Revenue Department," the millinery authority remarked. "After the hat has seemed to please the customer, we may be questioned as to its origin. Whether or not it is really a copy. Where we got it. The hat is purchased. Then follows Uncle Sam's check-up."

Acting on such information as the milliner's salesman may have given, the Federal agent visits the manufacturer to see with his own eyes the original Paris model. If he finds it, well and good. If not, serious things ensue.

Adaptations Are Pirated.

"It's all a matter of protecting the legitimate manufacturer, and of seeing that Uncle Sam gets his dues in the matter of import duty," the department head stated.

"Hats designated as 'adaptations'?" He repeated the question. "We-e-ll, that's another matter. There is no way of preventing piracy on design and originality via the adaptation route. Adaptation means that from one idea or from several, another has been born. The Government offers no protection there."

"Usually adaptations, so-called, combine the distinctive features of two or more original models, and in their finished form bear a resemblance to neither."

Lilly Dache, Milgrim and John Frederick were cited as outstanding American designers of feminine headgear, whose creations, nevertheless, often have to await the stamp of Parisian approval before the American public becomes enthusiastic.

Agnes, Lewis, Molyneau, Alphonsine and Marie Guy are Parisian designers who have tremendous following among American women, the department manager remarked. Marie Guy copies being especially favored by the "matronly" type of older women.

Four-Way Cooking Utensil.

For the compact kitchenette, there is now on the market a four-way combination piece of aluminum ware that folds up like one, but which, taken apart, discovers an egg poacher or double boiler for breakfast; a baking dish for luncheon or dinner, and a 3-quart covered sauce pan for general use.

What Today Means

"Virgo."

If August 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:50 p. m., from 4:45 to 5:30 p. m. and from 8:40 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 8:30 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m. and from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will probably not tend to bring out the finest that is in people. People, generally, will be brusque in their attitudes toward others, they will speak and act inconsiderately and will not be quick to sense the wants and likes of others. Children will not be the worst offenders.

The child born on this August 23 will quite possibly be a difficult little one to understand. There will be times when he is friendly, considerate and desirous of helping others, and again, he will be distant and aloof, apparently malicious and inclined to toss a wrench into the plans of others. He will have to be taught the value of constant kindness toward his fellow man.

If August 23 is the date of your birth, the chances are that you are one who has a very material outlook on life. You take great pride in the worldly goods that you are able to acquire, and if your stock of such things is large, you are inclined to be boastful and a bit puffed up about your good fortune. You put great stress on the importance of having lots of good clothes and fine things to eat; in regard to the latter, you are perhaps a bit overindulgent. You are not a person who enjoys change; routine appeals much to you. Your life is well ordered, and rather quiet. Sudden changes throw you off balance and upset you greatly.

Born on August 23, you are a person who talks a good deal, and the women enjoy at times a bit of malicious gossip. It is probable that you will not accomplish any great or outstanding thing in life but will make yourself heard in business or in your community. You are a person who likes to see things done right; you are a stickler for form, and particularly is this true of the women in their social activities. You are not adverse to holding public office and your interests in those in your neighborhood and in the general welfare, may some day lead you to a place where you will seek public office. If this should turn out to be the case, it will probably be with no thought of personal gain. You expect a great deal from your mate and children, and your keenest disappointments may come through them.

Successful people born on August 23:

Isaac J. Merritt, inventor.

John Ashurst, jr., physician and surgeon.

Charles F. Hartt, geologist.

Barrett Wendell, educator and writer.

Amelia Reeves Chanler (Troubetzkoy), author.

Mormons Give Church Stand On Polygamy

Statement Answers Letters of Inquiry on Plural Marriages.

Salt Lake City, Utah (U.P.).—Interest in plural marriages, it seems, never will die, judging from numerous letters received by officials of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) Church.

These letters finally forced the first presidency of the church, composed of President Heber J. Grant, First Counselor Anthony W. Ivans and Second Counselor J. Reuben Clark, jr., to issue a statement as to the stand of the church.

Long Memory.

Memory lives long, the letters indicated, as they referred to plural marriages, which have been unknown in Mormonism for half a century.

The letters indicated clearly, however, that the status of having more than one wife appeals to the imagination of many non-Mormons, as the letter writers all were persons outside the church.

In the words of the statement signed by members of the first presidency:

"The first presidency recently has received letters making inquiry concerning the position of the church regarding the contracting of polygamous, or plural, marriages.

Misguided Individuals.

"It is evident from these letters, as well as from certain published material, that a secret and, according to reputation, an oath-bound organization of misguided individuals, is seeking to lead the people to adopt adulterous relations under guise of a pretended and false polygamous, or plural, marriage ceremony."

The statement further mentioned that the Mormon Church has opposed plural marriages since 1883 and instructed church members to excommunicate persons found guilty of violating the rule. The stand of the church is in addition to civil and criminal statutes against bigamy or polygamy.

Offenders, the first presidency statement pointed out, are immediately cut off from membership in the church.

Sliced Oranges Make Ideal Picnic Dessert

Sliced oranges are a tempting treat for the thirsty picnicker. If they are prepared at home there will be less litter to pick up on the picnic grounds and fewer sticky fingers.

Peel the oranges, removing as much of the inner skin as possible. Cut in thin slices. Pack in a tin box which has been lined with waxed paper, placing a piece of the paper between each layer of fruit. If you have a sweet tooth, tuck an envelope of powdered sugar in one corner of your picnic box. Sprinkled on the circlets of fruit, could you have a more delicious picnic dessert?

Old-Fashioned Bookcase Transforms Into Variety

If you have one of the broad, low, old-fashioned book cases stuck away some place—because you thought it too deep-shelved and cumbersome for books—you have a grand potential dressing table. Painted or enameled your favorite color, with curtains slipping easily to and fro on a rod, it is ideal for containing your cosmetics, tissues and grooming accessories. If the curtains are pinch-pleated to pins and attached to rings, they look best and draw more readily. In case you desire that "skirted" look, the curtains may be continued around the sides by means of thumb tacks.

Dab of Lotion, Blemish Gone, Evening Saved

Milk and Egg Bleach Pack Removes Evidence of Too Much Sunshine.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

Breathes there a girl with soul so dead who never to herself has said how can I hide this really dreadful blackhead? She sees already that the party is going to be a dismal failure for her, that she's going to sit against the wall the whole evening, that no one will whisper sweet somethings in her ear, and all because of that wretched blackhead pimple on her chin.

What she should do is to be prepared with a bottle of blemish lotion, which completely obscures even the most glaring disturber of her complexion. It may also be used as a powder base, with the certainty that one application is insurance against a shiny nose.

Cows and chickens remain blissfully unaware of their latest contribution to the beauty world. Attention, all you blondes who spent hours basking in the sun only to find that your tan is frightfully unbecoming! Attention, you whose skins are discouragingly sallow. According to reports, the new milk and egg bleach pack now on sale at a downtown store will give you the kind of skin you've always wanted.

As the shopper stood impatiently waiting for some one to wait on her, she was attracted by a number of people interestedly scrutinizing the contents of a showcase. Unable to resist, gnawed by curiosity, she peeped between hats and saw a shining spectacle. This department store had sent a buyer to England, who had brought back some wonderful pieces of genuine antique Sheffield silver. There are candle snuffers, of two patterns, card trays, a four-piece tea set, and two oddly shaped tea pots. Even if you can't afford to buy, you may go down and feast your eyes. Call and we'll tell you where.

If you're looking for quaint favors for children's parties by all means call at the gift department of a large department store and ask to see the little automobile pencil sharpeners. You may choose from limousines, roadsters, or coupes, in greene, blue, cerise, purple, gold and silver.

Instead of visualizing Junior as the future President of the United States, try seeing him as one of the up and coming champions. You can't give him the Constitution, nor the NRA to practice on, but you can buy him a delightfully appropriate golf bag. It's quite minute, about one-third the size of his dad's, and has real miniature golf clubs, a midiron, a putter and a driver. A side pocket contains soft rubber balls guaranteed not to break your windows or living room mirrors in case Junior makes your Persian carpet his first tee on the next rainy day.

The beauty of Swedish damsels has often been attributed to the loveliness of their golden locks. With this in mind, a shampoo manufacturer has put on the market a package of powder which a downtown store says is really very excellent for cleansing and adding luster to the hair. Just ask for the Swedish shampoo and they'll know what you mean. The amount is sufficient for a dozen or more applications and costs only 50 cents.

While you're planning a few fall additions to your home don't forget the nursery. A large department store is showing some unusually pretty pictures cut from wood in silhouette fashion and colorfully painted to add the gay daytime atmosphere essential to a child's room.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of the Woman's Department of The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 66, for further information. Or write, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

What's in Fashion?

New Sleeves Not Bulky Tapering to Snug Wrists

Directed by Amos Parrish.

Almost the first things women ask about when they're considering a season's new fashions are the sleeves. They realize how much these influence their figures and their silhouettes.

Plenty of you will be glad to see that bulky, overwhelming sleeves have disappeared. Replaced by new ones that get their width in much more graceful, easy-to-carry ways.

Wrists are almost universally snug on both coats and dresses. The illustration shows you three, two gradually tapering to the wrist, and one with a close-buttoned cuff.

Some Full at Top.

But the placing of fullness varies. Many of the dresses have fullness at the very top, created by a few gathers or tucks, or by some unusual peaks, such as you see on the sleeve at the top left. And some sleeves are padded at the very top, giving a squarish but not heavy look.

Softer dresses often use fullness that's evenly distributed from just below the elbow to the shoulder. The middle sketch shows this, and is called the bishop sleeve.

Smooth Sleeve New.

A still newer sleeve which you'll see more of later in the season is the rather smoothly fitting one which has some sort of accent of fullness at the elbow or just below. We saw one of this type which had a wide white cuff dramatically flaring at the elbow to get this fullness.

Such cuffs, or soft frills, such as you see on the sleeve sketched in the middle of the picture, are about the only trimming that the new sleeves use except for buttons at the wrists. And most of them are perfectly plain.

The sleeves of dressy coats follow much the same lines as dress sleeves. Usually made full through the upper arm by means of intricate cutting and seaming. Because of the heavier materials, and to make coats more convenient to slip over dresses, this fullness extends down below the elbow.

Elbow Fullness on Coats.

Often the widest part comes right at the elbow, as you see it in the coat sleeve sketched. And sometimes the sleeve itself is not very full, but takes on a wider look above the elbow because of fur encrustings.

The only sleeves that announce themselves independent of the tight-at-the-wrist edict are those on some of the informal coats. But many of these, too, are snug, fitting inside of flaring glove cuffs in the neat new way.

Girl Pays Tuition; Gets High Grades

(United Press.)

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 22.—Most of her friends here attribute it in part to "the Irish in her;" at any rate, few male and practically no other female students have shown the initiative and aggressiveness in working their way through school that has Irene (Pat) Patterson.

She has just been graduated from the State Teachers College here. Earning it as she went, she paid every penny of her college expenses.

An unusually large share of what the modern call "nerve" enabled her to do what many of the "stronger sex" find difficult. And not only did she get through college; she made probably more friends in so doing than any of her classmates, and good grades, too.

"Pat" has been in school summer and winter. She worked on an average of six to eight hours a day—at more different jobs than any student at the college. At one time she was employed by two cafeterias and at the same time was working for her room in a private home.

By taking a three-quarter schedule and budgeting herself rigidly, Miss Patterson managed to get along, pay all her expenses and be happy.

"No, no immediate plans," she admitted. "Sure, I'll get along. My luck's just as good as it was when I came here. What is there to be afraid of?"

Recipe for Robin Hood Dolls Easy to Follow

A Robin Hood doll is a novel change from the fluffy-skirted French demoiselles that have perched upon our pillows. The doll can be clothed with the odds and ends picked up around the house.

Ingredients: One cotton stocking tinted green; a scrap of Lincoln green material, two pairs of old leather gloves, black and gray; woven metal pot scraper, a narrow black belt, a feather.

Make trunks of the stocking, covering doll from waist to toes. Add a full-sleeved blouse that will hang to the knees. A coat of mail (the scraper) covers the blouse, and a gray, sleeveless jacket of leather is laced up over the mail. A cap matching the jacket is loosely tied with thin strips of leather hanging from the long earflaps, and jauntily topped with a bright feather.

Fashion the shoes from the thumbs of the black gloves. A pouch to hang from the belt is a black leather circle gathered up at the edge with a string.

Garnish with a hunting horn, or tiny bows and arrows from a toy shop.

For the Goldfish Bowl.

A few brilliantly colored glass marbles in your goldfish bowl will make the fish frisk with glee. Sneak a handful from Junior's pocket on the sly, drop them in, and see how the water vibrates with all the deep sea colors.

'Glad' Exhibit Points Out Way To Pretty Table

Colorful Blossoms of Late Summer Easily Adapted to Many Uses.

Late summer offers many blooms to center interest on luncheon table decorations. Fall brides have a wealth of material from which to choose their color schemes.

One sun-tanned bride chose to follow the straight and comparatively narrow aisle to the altar, clad in a deep cream colored gown, carrying a bouquet of gladiolus, white toned with a few pale yellow and orange sprays, the flowerets cut and wired to form the traditional "shower." The bridesmaids dressed in fluffy lawns, in shades of yellow, orange and burnt orange and carried huge, old-fashioned round bouquets of zinnias to match.

The Takoma Park Gladiolus Show recently offered useful suggestions. An enormous bowl of butterfly-like white gladiolus tips (first mention, Mrs. J. T. Gable) with a lace runner-up for a bridal luncheon or breakfast. The corsage at each place of one white "glad" tip tied with feathery sprays of the tiny white-flowered "baby breath" would complete the floral table decoration. (Capt. Ungthuem, first mention.)

Gladioli Huge and Colorful.

The gladioli shown were overwhelming in size and beauty of color. They marched disdainfully in a wide column, rainbow uniformed, down the hall's center before the three ultra-perfect sweepstake stalks, white, salmon and pink, shown by R. H. Burtner, H. V. Wright and Capt. M. E. Davis.

On the sidelines ranged around the hall were other flowers, perhaps more friendly, less imposing, but equally desirable as guest of honor at luncheon or tea.

A round, jade-colored bowl hardly held the frilly pink petunias that sprayed up and waved delicately from its shallow green hollow. It suggested a table with lavender or pale green linen, rose-colored-willow pattern or similar china and the cloudy, milk glass tumblers and butter plates. The illustration gives a suggestion of this arrangement. The bowl of petunias was shown by W. H. English, who received first mention in that class.

A low-spreading glass dish held a colorful mass of Pom Pom baby size zinnias (Marjorie Anderson, first mention), all shades of orange to brown. Imagine them placed on a brown linen cloth with bright peasant ware dishes echoing their colors.

Pewter Jug Holds Flowers.

Any one so fortunate as to own table pewter would welcome the ideas suggested by a tall, round pewter jug holding deep scarlet gladioli (E. J. Bischoff, third mention); the lavender and the orange stalks of gladioli combined with lavender and yellow blossoms (Mrs. Sutton, second mention); or the dull green vase with pink gladioli, purple phlox and a few sprays of larkspur that obtained first mention for T. J. DeMoll. Any of these would be decorative on a dull blue linen cloth.

Patriotism flaps blue wings at us from every window. It may follow that red, white and blue will be the dominating note this fall. Red and white flowers are easily found and the blue linen will successfully carry out the idea.

An unusual table observed at another flower show used for cover, a handwoven colonial coverlet, the cream-colored background figured in red and blue. The napkins were red and fringed, the plain white china the sort used a hundred years ago. The goblets and salt and peppers were dark blue glass. In the place of honor the old china tureen found new glories, carrying in its capacious interior an enormous load of scarlet red zinnias.

Another patriotic arrangement would be deep red roses, blue delphinium and white foxgloves in an old silver teapot on coarse woven linen or if one is very fortunate, on an old-time sampler.

Vengeance.

By Katherine W. Smith.

Whenever you have failed to win
A woman by your subtle charms,
Or, loving once, have lost, you come
To find your solace in my arms.

I comfort you as best I can
Each day or night, and week by week
I give you good advice, and wipe
The tears that trickle down your cheek.

But in a hopeless sort of way
I hope your fickle head will whirl
With thoughts of me, and if it should,
Please tell it to another girl.

Colorful Late Summer Flowers Brighten Table

Frilly, pink petunias spray outward from a small, low-set bowl to add a splash of color and an enticing atmosphere to the luncheon table. Other gay blossoms are also plentiful at this season of the year.

The Family Marketer

Cured Shoulders, Cantaloupes and Plums Among Bargains in Food Shops; Bureau of Fisheries Starts Study to Aid Home Canners of Fish.

Among the outstanding bargains in foods seen in local stores are cured shoulders (picnic hams) at 9 cents a pound, good quality cantaloupes at 5 cents each and small blue plums at 5 cents a pound.

The price on the plums is not low. But the quality is excellent and they are a change from the fruits which have been plentiful for some time. Don't buy them for making jam until they are more plentiful. A few to eat fresh—like cherries—would be enough.

Thompson seedless grapes are more plentiful than last week. Nectarines are selling at 2 pounds for 25 cents in most stores. Nectarines are delicious and combine the best flavors of both peaches and plums.

Fresh Italian prunes from the Far West will be available in larger quantities soon.

Home Canning Studied.

The Bureau of Fisheries, as was said before in this column, is making a distinct effort to increase the consumption of fish and other seafoods. There is a two-fold purpose behind this effort. In the first place, increased consumption of fish would help the industry!

But the second reason is of more interest to you. Fish, as a class, is an inexpensive protein food, easy to prepare, and when cooked properly, very tasty.

During recent years there has been an increasing public interest in simple methods for the home preservation of fish, the bureau says.

According to Frank T. Bell, commissioner of the bureau, a large number of inquiries has been received on the subject. But he hastens to add that present methods for home canning of fish are incomplete and, in the hands of unskilled persons, sometimes dangerous.

Because of this fact, the bureau has been unable to recommend the home canning of fish under present conditions.

Chemist on Job.

"However," says the commissioner of fisheries, "the bureau has assigned one of its chemists, Norman D. Jarvis, to carry out extensive studies of methods for home canning of fish."

This program will take approximately one year to complete before information can be published. During this time many species of fish will be canned experimentally.

The bureau urges, however, that inquiries should not be addressed to it concerning this work for at least a year.

Although it may seem a long time to wait for official guidance in the art of canning fish in the home, consumers at least may know that something is being done for their benefit which will have a broad application for many years to come.

Cucumbers More Plentiful.

Cucumbers are more plentiful. Not only are they inexpensive, but locally-grown ones are smoother and of more uniform size than a few weeks ago.

The rains of the past few days are improving the quality of corn-on-the-cob. The smaller ears are more tender than the large ones. Genuine golden bantam, although scarce, is available in small quantities. This corn frequently is called the very best grown. Other varieties have their champions, however.

Peaches are coming into Washington in large quantities. Much has been said in this column about this delicious fruit. The only thing to add is:

Take advantage of any cool weather to can peaches. The price probably is as low as it will be for good quality.

Speaking of prices—it seems that the general advance has been checked, temporarily, at least.

If one uses much canned foods, particularly canned milk, it seems to be a good investment to purchase a supply. Cannned milk may be used in many ways. It is particularly good for certain soups.

Life of Usefulness Ahead for Tin Cans

There is a long life of usefulness in coffee tins and cracker cans, if you press them into service as hydrators in your refrigerator or ice box.

With not enough hydrators to contain all her vegetables and annoyed by the fact that her luscious muskmelons were imparting their tangy flavor to other perishable foodstuffs alongside, a clever woman sliced the melons in two, covered the open face with oiled paper, slipped the halves into respective tin coffee cans, and they kept nicely for days. They were crisp and chilled when served, with the flavor rich and full.

The cracker can she suggests as being of a size to contain the melon uncut.

Flowers Give Keen Pleasure To First Lady

Mrs. Roosevelt Tempted by Unlimited Quantities of Blossoms.

One of the greatest enjoyments of her White House chatelaineship, Mrs. Roosevelt says, comes from the unlimited quantities of flowers always available from the Government greenhouses.

Mrs. Roosevelt's love for flowers and her original mind suggest that many unusual floral decorations may appear at White House receptions and dinners this season. Since the Victorian mode is reviving both in costumes and interior decoration, it is hinted that such ornate floral pieces as graced the Executive dinners in the late Nineteenth Century may well appear this winter.

Thus back in the regime of President Chester A. Arthur a dinner for the Supreme Court Justices was given additional elegance by a floral Temple of Justice, its roof formed of carnations and its dome of orchids. At either end of the table were floral designs representing the Scales of Justice.

As the NRA goes "into high" in its prosperity drive, one may imagine a dinner for Gen. Johnson and his aids, with the NRA Blue Eagle appearing in violets, while ripples of electricity illuminate the lighning bolts clutched in one claw.

The pinnacle in unusual floral decorations at the White House is said to have been attained at a reception in the Rutherford B. Hayes administration, when Mrs. Hayes directed the decoration of all the State entertainment rooms and corridors with rare exotics. Floral flags, umbrellas, fountains and many other devices were executed in roses, lilies-of-the-valley, violets, orchids and carnations.

President Arthur was responsible for another famous White House dinner table effect. A floral bridge extended the full length of the table, its floor of smilax, the railings and posts of carnations and feathery asparagus fern. Beneath the bridge was a mirror which reflected the whole structure.

D. A. R. Plans Hunt For Hidden "Gold"

(Associated Press.)

A search for hidden gold is contemplated by the 150,000 Daughters of the American Revolution.

The national headquarters of the organization has asked the Daughters to make a fall housecleaning to ferret out all broken rings and bits of gold ornaments to be melted down for the ornamentation and clasps for a book to contain the names of all contributors to Constitution Hall, the D. A. R. Auditorium.

Mrs. Grace Lincoln Hall Brosseau, of Greenwich, Conn., president-general when the building was begun, will head the memory-book committee.

Its presentation is planned for November 15, the birthday of Mrs. Russell William Magna, of Holyoke, Mass., president general of the D. A. R., who visited every State as head of the Constitution Hall financing committee.

On that date final payment on the building, costing more than a million dollars, will be made.

Finger Nails Of Any Shade Had for Asking

Danger of Overemphasizing Hands Pointed Out by Beauty Specialist.

The beautywise woman never puts all her eggs in one basket, never concentrates on one phase or feature of the beauty ensemble. For "there's no knowing" when Fashion, in her own fickle way, will turn the spotlight on another feature. And then where would Beauty be?

Right now the nails seem to be getting more than their normal share of attention. Not only are they shapely and cared for, but they are tinted—ah—a riot of color and novel effects galore. The jewel effects introduced last winter are mild indeed compared to the decalcomania designs one can slip onto one's nails. Feathers, flowers, geometric designs, college insignias, a combination of various colors in diagonal designs, bridge emblems, polka dots—they all have a dash all their own.

Removable Nails.

Nor is that the half of it. If pounding a typewriter, washing dishes, playing the piano causes your nails to break, no need to get a single gray hair worrying over it.

Simply hurry to the nearest beauty salon and ask for a single or set of nails, as you wish. Some salons slip them on for you during a manicure for a slight extra charge; others sell them in sets of a dozen. You glue them on to your own, set them in place, file and shape and paint them and—really—not a soul would know. The secret is your very own.

The "extra ultra" are tinting their nails to blend with their ensembles, or to match them. There's even some talk about matching gloves and fingertips.

Varied Tints.

Now the same hands can wear a pale tint in the morning, a deep blood-red in the evening or vary the tints according to occasion and color of costume. Experiment as much as the heart desires and the purse permits.

But do remember that the color alone does not make the nails beautiful. They should be filed and shaped perfectly, the cuticle smooth, no ragged edge of nail or cuticle.

And if the hand is bony or pudgy or large or the knuckles protrude or the fingers themselves are not beautifully formed or the skin texture anything but satin-smooth and white—it were better to stick to the natural, pale shades.

For though the unusual tints or deep colors be glamorous and romantic on a beautiful hand, they only serve to call attention to the flaws on a hand that isn't lovely.

For my hand bulletins—a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Elsie Pierce will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

These two young women watching New York's impressive skyline slowly fade from view wear brown and white ensembles. A corduroy coat and taffeta scarf top a lightweight dull wool crepe frock with matching hat. Rather bold checks are seen in the cape dress of washable taffeta with a knitted hat and scarf set.

When the orchestra in the Grand Salon plays the opening measures of "America" Judy suddenly thrills to the realization that it is grand to be alive. Blue sky overhead; green sparkling, and white foamy waters below, and the open sea just beyond; a really magnificent sight—one that Judy will not soon forget.

Mother settles herself comfortably in a red lacquered deck chair to enjoy the view, as well as the ocean breeze. She also has discarded her woolen suit for a more comfortable frock of pale blue wash crepe with a flattering scarf neckline. Brief berets, crocheted, knitted or of plain felt, are grand little deck hats.

One chic passenger Judy notices (and approves) wears a black suit of fine angora knitted woolen with ivory fasteners. The matching hat is a jaunty affair that can be rolled to a becoming height and angle. Inverted flounces ripple at the shoulders in the modish manner, while the sleeves and skirt are cut on straight lines.

What the Blue Eagle means to you and how you can get it

The President's Reemployment Program is advancing to complete success. No such sweeping demonstration of the unity of a whole people against a national danger has ever been made. • In this vast surge of patriotism it is necessary to keep our common purpose always clear. When 125,000,000 people attempt to act as one man there are sure to be some misunderstandings. It is time to restate as clearly as possible the aim of the whole endeavor and the duty of each individual. • That is the purpose of this message—to state officially, briefly and clearly the simple rules for common guidance. • It is an evidence of the self-sacrificing service of the whole country that this newspaper has donated this space. In that spirit the whole country is acting. • This plan depends wholly on united action. That unity is almost complete. In the next few days let us close up every gap in the ranks and nail the flag of the Blue Eagle on the door of every man who works another man. Hugh S. Johnson

OFFICIAL EXPLANATION OF THE PRESIDENT'S REEMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT

(Sometimes miscalled "The Blanket Code")

This Agreement binds you to put its terms into effect from the time you sign the Certificate of Compliance until December 31, 1933; but when the President has approved a Code for your trade or industry, that Code takes the place of this Agreement.

You agree:

Child Labor

(1) After August 31, 1933, not to employ any person under 16 years of age, except that persons between 14 and 16 may be employed (but not in manufacturing or mechanical industries) for not to exceed 3 hours per day and those hours between 7 A. M. and 7 P. M. in such work as will not interfere with hours of day school.

This means that after August 31, 1933, you agree not to employ any children under 14 years old in any kind of business. You may employ children between 14 and 16 years old, but only for three hours a day and those hours must be between 7 in the morning and 7 at night, and arranged so as not to interfere with school. You agree not to employ any children under 16 years old in a manufacturing or mechanical industry, at any time.

Maximum Hours

(2) Not to work any accounting, clerical, banking, office, service, or sales employees (except outside salesmen) in any store, office, department, establishment, or public utility, or on any automotive or horse-drawn passenger, express, delivery, or freight service, or in any other place or manner, for more than 40 hours in any 1 week and not to reduce the hours of any store or service operation to below 52 hours in any 1 week, unless such hours were less than 52 hours per week before July 1, 1933, and in the latter case not to reduce such hours at all.

This means that you agree not to work any of the kinds of employees listed in this paragraph (except outside salesmen) for more than 40 hours a week. This paragraph covers all employees except factory workers, mechanical workers and artisans. However, no limit on hours and no minimum wage applies to purely agricultural labor, domestic servants, or persons working for you solely on a commission basis; but, if you have persons working for you who are guaranteed a base pay in addition to their commission, then their base pay plus commissions must equal the minimum wage.

This Agreement sets no maximum on the number of hours you may keep your business open. You agree not to keep your wholesale, retail, or service establishment open less than 52 hours a week unless it was open less than 52 hours a week before July 1, 1933. Even then you agree to keep it open as long as you used to keep it open before July 1. Of course, if you have always kept your store open shorter hours in the Summer months you can continue to do so this Summer, but you should pay your employees the same amount each week that they will get when you keep your store open full time.

The stores with more than two employees which remain open the longest are contributing the most to carrying out the purpose of the Agreement. The stores with two or less employees which can be open only the minimum number of hours required, are doing the most to fulfill their part.

(3) Not to employ any factory or mechanical worker or artisan more than a maximum week of 35 hours until December 31, 1933, but with the right to work a maximum week of 40 hours for any 6 weeks within this period; and not to employ any worker more than 8 hours in any one day.

This means that if you are employing factory or mechanical workers or artisans, you agree not to work them more than 35 hours a week and not more than 8 hours in any one day.

When you have more than the usual amount of work to do and can't get additional workers, you may employ this class of employee up to 40 hours a week in any 6 weeks, but even in this case you must not work them more than 8 hours a day.

(4) The maximum hours fixed in the foregoing paragraphs (2) and (3) shall not apply to employees in establishments employing not more than two persons in towns of less than 2,500 population which towns are not part of a larger trade area; nor to registered pharmacists or other professional persons employed in their profession nor to employees in a managerial or executive capacity, who now receive more than $35 per week; nor to employees on emergency maintenance and repair work; nor to very special cases where restrictions of hours of highly skilled workers on continuous processes would unavoidably reduce production but, in any such special case, at least time and one-third shall be paid for hours worked in excess of the maximum. Population for the purposes of this agreement shall be determined by reference to the 1930 Federal census.

This means that there are certain employees whom you may work longer hours than are allowed by paragraphs (2) and (3) P. R. A.

If your business is in a small town (population less than 2,500 by the 1930 census) and you do not employ more than two persons, the limit on hours does not apply to these employees. If your town is really a part of a larger business community, the limit on hours does apply to these employees.

The limit on hours does not apply to your employees who are wholly or primarily managers or executives, as long as they receive $35 a week. Professional persons, like doctors, lawyers, registered pharmacists and nurses, may be employed without any limit on hours.

Where employees are doing emergency jobs of maintenance or repair work, they may be kept on the job for longer hours, but you agree to pay them at least time and one-third for hours worked over the limits set in paragraphs (2) and (3) P. R. A.

There are a few very special cases where highly skilled workers must be allowed to work more than the limit of hours in order to keep up output on continuous processes, but, here again, you agree to pay them at least time and one-third for the hours they work over the limits set in paragraphs (2) and (3) P. R. A.

Minimum Wages

(5) Not to pay any of the classes of employees mentioned in paragraph (2) less than $15 per week in any city of over 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14.50 per week in any city of between 250,000 and 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14 per week in any city of between 2,500 and 250,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city and in towns of less than 2,500 population to increase all wages by not less than 20 per cent, provided that this shall not require wages in excess of $12 per week.

This sets out the schedule of minimum wages which you agree to pay all employees, except factory or mechanical workers or artisans. The wages are set out in terms of dollars per week, but if your employees are paid by the hour, you may use the following schedule:

Place of Business: (Population by 1930 Census)	Minimum Wage:
In cities of 500,000 or over	37½ cents per hour
In cities of between 250,000 and 500,000	36¼ cents per hour
In cities of between 2,500 and 250,000	35 cents per hour

If your business is in a town of less than 2,500 population, you agree to raise all wages at least 20%. If raising all wages 20% causes you to pay over $12 per week, then you need only pay the $12 per week.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to whether your business is in the "immediate trade area" of a city, you should ask your local Chamber of Commerce or other similar organization for a decision on the matter. The general rule is that the "immediate trade area" is the area in which there is direct retail competition.

(6) Not to pay any employee of the classes mentioned in paragraph (3) less than 40 cents per hour unless the hourly rate for the same class of work on July 15, 1929, was less than 40 cents per hour, in which latter case not to pay less than the hourly rate on July 15, 1929, and in no event less than 30 cents per hour. It is agreed that this paragraph establishes a guaranteed minimum rate of pay regardless of whether the employee is compensated on the basis of a time rate or on a piecework performance.

This fixes the minimum wage which you agree to pay factory and mechanical workers and artisans. The following schedule may help you to find out the proper rate:

If the rate for the same kind of work in the same community on July 15, 1929, was:	The minimum rate which you agree to pay is:
More than 40c an hour	40c an hour
30c to 40c an hour	The July 15, 1929 hourly rate
Less than 30c an hour	30c an hour

Instead of paying by the hour, you may pay by the week at a rate which gives the same weekly earnings for a week of 35 hours. For example, instead of 40c an hour, you may pay $14 per week.

If you had a contract on or before August 1, 1933, with a learner or apprentice, you do not have to pay him the minimum wage, but no one should be classed as a learner or an apprentice who has ever been employed as a regular worker in your industry.

(7) Not to reduce the compensation for employment now in excess of the minimum wages hereby agreed to (notwithstanding that the hours worked in such employment may be hereby reduced) and to increase the pay for such employment by an equitable readjustment of all pay schedules.

Two official interpretations—No. 1 and No. 20—have been issued, explaining this paragraph. You can get copies of these at your local Chamber of Commerce or from the nearest N. R. A. representative.

Anti-Subterfuge

(8) Not to use any subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this Agreement which is, among other things, to increase employment by a universal covenant, to remove obstructions to commerce, and to shorten hours and to raise wages for the shorter week to a living basis.

This is the heart of the whole Agreement. The President's Plan is to cure this depression by increasing purchasing power. You can help him put this plan over by voluntarily signing this Agreement to shorten hours and raise wages. There is no force to compel you to sign this Agreement. It is not law. It is a personal agreement between you and the President. The President expects you to do everything in your power to carry out the spirit of the Agreement after you sign it. This means whole-hearted cooperation by really earning the Blue Eagle—not by just getting it and then not doing your part.

It would be a "subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this Agreement" to sign it and then put all of your employees on a straight commission basis—or any other trick to avoid doing what you promise to do.

Anti-Profiteering

(9) Not to increase the price of any merchandise sold after the date hereof over the price on July 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary by actual increases in production, replacement, or invoice costs of merchandise, or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act, since July 1, 1933, and, in setting such price increases, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from taking profiteering advantage of the consuming public.

The object of this paragraph is to prevent profiteering or speculation, so that prices will not rise faster than purchasing power, and destroy the President's plan. The danger to be avoided was pointed out by the President on June 16, 1933, in the statement which he made on signing the Recovery Act. He said, then:

"If we now inflate prices as fast and as far as we increase wages, the whole project will be set at naught. We cannot hope for the full effect of this plan unless, in these first critical months, and, even at the expense of full initial profits, we defer price increases as long as possible. If we can thus start a strong, sound upward spiral of business activity our industries will have little doubt of black-ink operations in the last quarter of this year. The pent-up demand of this people is very great, and if we can release it on so broad a front, we need not fear a lagging recovery. There is greater danger of too much feverish speed."

If you were selling your merchandise on July 1, 1933, below cost, you may take your cost price on that date as the basis for determining the allowable increase under this paragraph.

Cooperation

(10) To support and patronize establishments which also have signed this Agreement and are listed as members of N. R. A. (National Recovery Administration).

The success of the President's Reemployment Agreement Program depends upon public support going to those who raise wages and shorten hours in accordance with this Agreement, in order to repay them for the extra expense which they have incurred in doing their part.

Codes

(11) To cooperate to the fullest extent in having a Code of Fair Competition submitted by his industry at the earliest possible date, and in any event before September 1, 1933.

This Agreement is a temporary measure to tide over the time from now until all employers and employees can cooperate under Codes of Fair Competition under the National Industrial Recovery Act. You agree, in this paragraph, to do all you can to have a Code submitted for your trade or industry before September 1, 1933.

Appropriate Adjustments

(12) Where, before June 16, 1933, the undersigned had contracted to purchase goods at a fixed price for delivery during the period of this Agreement, the undersigned will make an appropriate adjustment of said fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed this President's Reemployment Agreement or having become bound by any Code of Fair Competition approved by the President.

This Agreement will, usually, increase the costs of those who sign it. The purpose of this paragraph is to pass any such increased costs along from one signer to another, and so on to the consumer.

If you have a contract made before June 16, 1933, to buy goods at a fixed price, you agree to make an arrangement with your seller so that you pay him for the extra cost to him caused by his having signed this Agreement, or having come under a Code approved by the President.

In some cases the final buyer is the Government, which, under existing law, is generally not allowed to pay more than the contract price. The President has announced that he will recommend to Congress that appropriations be made to allow the Government to play its part by paying Government contractors who have signed the Agreement for their increased costs. The President has also appealed to the States and cities to take action permitting them to do likewise.

You should have no fear that, because your buyer has not signed, you will be left with the increased cost on you alone. The President expects every employer to sign this Agreement.

Substitutions

(13) This Agreement shall cease upon approval by the President of a Code to which the undersigned is subject; or, if the N. R. A. so elects, upon submission of a Code to which the undersigned is subject and substitution of any of its provisions for any of the terms of this Agreement.

As pointed out in the explanation of paragraph (11) P. R. A. above, the President plans to have all business govern itself under Codes, and therefore Codes should be promptly submitted. If N. R. A. finds that the wages and hours provisions of a Code which has been submitted are within the spirit of this Agreement, N. R. A. will authorize your industry to operate under those provisions rather than under the wages and hours provisions of this Agreement.

Exceptions

(14) It is agreed that any person who wishes to do his part in the President's Reemployment Drive by signing this Agreement, but who asserts that some particular provision hereof, because of peculiar circumstances, will create great and unavoidable hardship, may obtain the benefits hereof by signing this Agreement and putting it into effect and then, in a petition approved by a trade association of his industry, or other representative organization designated by N. R. A., may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by N. R. A., if he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation. This Agreement is entered into pursuant to section 4 (a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act and subject to all the terms and conditions required by sections 7 (a) and 10 (b) of that act.

If you really want to do your part in the President's Reemployment Program, sign this Agreement. If some particular part of this Agreement causes you, as an individual employer, great and unavoidable hardship, you may obtain relief by taking the steps outlined under the heading "Cases of Individual Hardship."

Save this sheet as your official source of information. If there are any problems in your mind which are not cleared up by this explanation, get in touch with the official N. R. A. representative in your community.

   - (c) Deal Only with Others "Under the Blue Eagle." (See paragraphs 10 and 12.)

EXCEPTIONAL CASES

1. Where a Code Has Been Submitted. (See paragraph 13, President's Reemployment Agreement). If your whole Trade or Industry is unable to live up to the President's Agreement, you should get together at once, with other employers in your Trade or Industry and, in a group, submit a Code of Fair Competition to N. R. A. in Washington.

Since it takes some time after a Code has been submitted for it to be finally approved, your group may petition N. R. A. to substitute the wages and hours provisions of your Code for the wages and hours provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement.

If N. R. A. finds that the Code provisions are within the spirit of the President's Reemployment Agreement, it will consent to such substitutions. If N. R. A. does consent there will be an official notice in all the papers. You may then put the substituted provisions into effect in place of the indicated paragraphs of the President's Reemployment Agreement. In this case you should add to your Certificate of Compliance the following clause: "To the extent of N. R. A. consent as announced, we have complied with the President's Agreement by complying with the substituted provisions of the Code submitted by the ———— Trade/Industry."

If the substitution is consented to after you have already put the President's Reemployment Agreement into full effect, and after you have already gotten your Blue Eagle, you may still put the substituted provisions into effect without signing another Certificate of Compliance.

2. Where a Code Has Been Approved. If a Code of Fair Competition for your Trade or Industry has already been finally approved by the President, you need not sign the President's Reemployment Agreement in order to get the Blue Eagle. The same is true if you are subject to a Code which has been put into effect temporarily by agreement between the President and representatives of your Trade or Industry; but in either of these cases, you must sign a Certificate of Compliance, adding to it the following statement: "We have complied with the operative provisions of the Code for the —— Trade/Industry."

3. Cases of Individual Hardship. (Paragraph 14, President's Reemployment Agreement).

If there are some peculiar reasons why a particular provision of the President's Agreement will cause you, individually, a great and unavoidable hardship, you may still get the Blue Eagle by taking the following steps:

(a) Sign the Agreement and mail it to your District Office of the Department of Commerce.

(b) Prepare a petition to N. R. A. setting out the reasons why you cannot comply with certain provisions, and requesting that an exception be made in your case.

(c) Have this petition approved by your Trade Association. If there is no Trade Association for your business, have your petition approved by your local Chamber of Commerce or other representative organization designated by N. R. A.

(d) If the Trade Association, or other organization, approves your petition, send it to N. R. A. in Washington with this approval.

(e) Comply with all the provisions of the Agreement except the one you are petitioning to have excepted.

(f) Sign the Certificate of Compliance, adding to it the following clause: "Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approved by the ———— Trade Association." Deliver this Certificate of Compliance to your Post Office. You will receive a Blue Eagle, but before displaying it, you must put a white bar across its breast with the word "Provisional" on it. If your petition is finally approved by N. R. A. you may take the bar down. If your petition is not approved by N. R. A. you must comply with the Agreement in full.

4. Union Contracts. If you have a contract with a labor organization calling for longer hours than the President's Agreement allows, and this contract was made in good faith by collective bargaining and cannot be changed by you alone, try to get the labor organization to agree to a reduction to the maximum hours allowed by the President's Agreement. If the labor organization will not agree, you may apply to N. R. A. for permission to work your employees as many hours a week as the contract calls for. Send to N. R. A. a request for this permission, with a certified copy of the labor contract and any statement of fact you desire. This application will be handled by N. R. A. in the same manner as an application for relief in cases of individual hardship, filed under paragraph (14) P. R. A., but it will not be necessary to obtain the approval of a trade association or other organization. If N. R. A. approves your application or is able to bring about any modification of the contract, you will then be granted permission to work employees in accordance with the contract as originally written or modified, and can then sign the Certificate of Compliance adding to it the following: "Except as required to comply with the terms of the Agreement in effect between the undersigned and the (Name of Labor Organization)."

World Wheat Price Increase Accord Likely

Acreage and Export Limit Steps Offered in London; Plan Advisory Board.

London, Aug. 22 (AP).—The world wheat conference committees reported considerable progress tonight after a day of deliberation on the problems of establishing an international wheat advisory board and methods for carrying out the proposed importing nations' agreement to boost prices.

The full conference will resume tomorrow to hear replies from the various governments which are asked to join in the agreement. A number of delegates expect definite results this week.

The big four exporting nations—the United States, Canada, Argentina, and Australia—submitted the agreement to the importers and a pact among the former to reduce acreage and limit exports is dependent on cooperation of the purchasing nations.

Provisions for Importers.

Importers are called upon to reduce barriers to wheat exports, to prevent increase in their domestic consumption, to maintain the quality of their bread and to reduce customs tariffs accordingly as the world price rises.

The committee studying the proposed International Wheat Advisory Board is preparing the draft of a report which it will further consider tomorrow morning, before the conference proper resumes. This international organization, it is intimated, will hold a sort of watching brief over the developments which would follow adoption of an agreed scheme.

It was understood that the committee favored a permanent London headquarters with importers and exporters represented equally on the floor. How the board would be financed and the chairman appointed were among questions debated.

The other committee, dealing with technical subjects, also meets again tomorrow morning. It is engaged on determination of the price for wheat which will serve as the measuring rod for reduction of customs barriers progressively by the importing countries, and apparently has reached a large measure of agreement on this tricky question.

The proposed importers' agreement would commit these nations to the statement that they "are prepared to begin such adjustment of customs tariffs when the international price of wheat reaches and maintains for a specified period an average price to be fixed."

Paul Duvinat, of France, is chairman of this technical committee. F. L. McDougall, of Australia, is chairman of the committee on the proposed advisory board.

Gold Basis Considered.

The committee studying price was understood to have largely occupied its time with discussions as to whether the figures should be fixed in gold.

Beyond an official statement that "considerable progress was made" what transpired was not made publice, but it was understood that many delegates were adamant that the figure be expressed in gold terms.

It also was understood that discussion also proceeded over what period the average figure should be computed. One suggestion was the first quarter of 1933.

Meanwhile, representatives of some of the main exporting countries, after studying the latest crop figures, were represented as convinced that the exporters' agreement would be less effective than hoped when the conversations were begun last May.

Whereas, the export surplus of the United States and Canada combined was 350,000,000 bushels August 1, 1932, and was estimated to be 380,000,000 bushels August 1 of this year, the latter figure now is estimated at 440,000,000 bushels.

London—Some profit taking was in evidence pending more definite indications as to American developments in a more quiet session of the stock exchange today. The bright spots were oil shares, which were again active and improved, and wet stocks which were strong on encouraging trade reports. Gilt-edged securities were firm on rumors that a new funding loan issue was imminent.

Paris—Business on the bourse was dull with price movements indecisive. International issues were generally weak with the exception of Young bonds. The market closed irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse failed to maintain slight gains made on orders from the general public. The closing was irregular.

Flour—Production in leading milling centers in July, as reported by General Mills, Inc., totaled 5,518,722 barrels, compared with 5,181,530 in July, 1932.

Zinc—Production in the Joplin district last week approximated 7,000 tons, which is said to be the highest for any week since February, 1931. Current estimated demand is at about 6,000 tons weekly.

Cotton goods—Sellers are reported more willing to name prices in view of the lower market for raw cotton and more definite ideas on production costs. Small lot sales are said to be more frequent.

Pig iron—Last week's sales in this district were estimated at 1,500 tons, the smallest for some months.

Alcohol—The market is said to be well stabilized at prices that are scheduled to continue in effect until February, 1934, on denatured anti-freeze products.

Rail and Utility Bonds Decline In Dull Sales

Trend Proves Uneven; Secondary List Rallies in $8,624,000 Day.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Trading activity in the bond market continued on a restricted scale today and prices generally were inclined to shift about uncertainly.

Although there was a late mild rally in some of the secondary groups, apparently in sympathy with improvement in stocks, the close was irregular. Sales totaled $8,624,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was off one-tenth of a point.

While the majority of utilities and rails drifted to slightly lower levels some issues in these groups advanced. The industrials, as a whole, finished about even.

Gains in Rail Liens.

Rail gainers of fractions to around a point or more included maturities of Alleghany Corporation, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Delaware & Hudson, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Southern and Union Pacific.

Western Pacific first 5s lost 3 points following apparent failure of the company to negotiate a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Liens of Pennsylvania, New Haven and Frisco were heavy.

Utility and Industrial Rises.

Among utility and industrial issues that recovered a point or more were some of I. G. Chemical, International Telephone, Remington Rand, U. S. Rubber and Vanadium. Warren Brothers 6s dropped 4⅛ points.

United States Government securities were dull but firm. Foreign obligations were highly mixed. Some of the Cuban Republic loans were off amound 1 to 4 points and the Argentines were soft. French 7⅛s lost a point and the 7s were up fractionally.

Many 2-Point Gains Made as Stocks Rally

Market Proves Dull Until Late Rise, in Which Rails, Motors and Packing Issues Led; Sales Move Up to 1,963,515 Shares.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—After early irregularity, stocks swung into a fairly brisk rally during the late trading today and net gains of 1 to 2 points were numerous at the close.

With rye advancing the limit and other grains, as well as cotton, rising in sympathy, equity traders found the line of least resistance upward.

Activity quickened a bit in the last hour as prices improved. Previously, the market had been the familiar dull affair. Dealings throughout looked highly professional. An obvious scarcity of offerings facilitated the rise. Transactions totaled 1,963,515 shares.

Rails in Particular Favor.

Motor trucks, rails and packing issues found particular favor. An optimistic forecast on production by a promnent automobile company, a smattering of favorable July railway earnings' statements and imminence of the Government's hog-buying program provided stimulants for the three groups mentioned.

Other divisions, with the exception of utilites, did well enough when rising tendencies got under way. Light and power company equities appeared to be under the shadow of rate-cutting developments.

General Motors was an active favorite and up 2 points net. Chrysler, also in demand, jumped 2¼. DuPont gained nearly 4; Auburn and Nash about 1½. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Celanese, National Biscuit, Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Great Northern, Case, International Telephone, Wilson preferred and Erie improved 1 to more than 2. Armour of Illinois preferred jumped almost 5 points.

The market's quiet strength has heartened those who look to the last fortnight of August for cues as to post-Labor-Day trends. In the last couple of days signs of increasing pool activity have been discernible.

Brokerage-house comment has sounded a note of cautious optimism, though dull markets are being generally expected for the immediate future.

Wall Street gave some attention to the credit expansion noted in the current-condition statement of reporting Federal Reserve member banks. The total rise of $45,000,000 was the largest in about two months. "All other," or commercial loans, rose $18,000,000. The large gain in holdings of U. S. Government securities represented takings of the new Treasury issues by interior banks.

Other News of Day.

Other news of the day included Union Pacific's July report, showing net operating income double that of last year; indications that another Western road might have to undertake reorganization; and a slight recession during July in cotton spinning activity on a single shift basis.

"American Metal Market," reporting a decrease in steel output, said: "No precise forecast can be made of the rate from which production will eventually turn upward because the recent and prospective decreases are caused by the completion of backlog business built up while buyers were taking advantage of old prices. * * *

"To a large extent the code removes the ground that large buyers had for demanding concessions, but the mills can still establish additional quantity differentials which represent differences in cost in filling large and small orders respectively While steel producers are indisposed to express themselves, there is reason to assume they are fairly well satisfied with the code."

Philadelphia Railway Announces Wage Raise

Stocks.

Many stocks advanced 1 to 2 points in a late rally which followed a sluggish session throughout most of the day. Rails, motor trucks and packing issues—which were aided by preparations for the Government to buy 4,000,000 pigs at a good price level in an effort to assist corn belt farmers—led the general advance. Sales rose to 1,963,515 shares.

Bonds.

Many utility and rail bonds drifted to slightly lower levels in a restricted market. Prices on the whole shifted uncertainly. The turnover rose to $8,624,000.

Curb.

Minor curb losses were largely eradicated in a last-hour rally, in which several issues rose fractionally up to 2 points. The market moved in an extremely narrow range. Trading advanced to 273,000 shares.

Wheat.

Wheat furnished firmer, advancing ⅝ to 1¾ cents. The climb was assisted by a late spurt in rye, which shot up 5 cents a bushel, the maximum in one day. Corn was easy. September wheat sold at 88½-88¾; May, at 95¾.

Cotton.

Cotton quotations recovered slight losses experienced earlier in the day to record gains of 10 to 17 points at the close. December sold at 9.71; October, at 9.52. Prices in Liverpool were 6 points lower.

Rubber.

Crude rubber futures closed steady. September sold at 7.11; December, at 7.77 to 7.67.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was firmer. Prices were 1-16 higher, selling at 3.56. Refined was unchanged at 4.70.

Coffee.

Spot coffee was dull. Rio No. 7 sold at 7¼; Santos No. 4, at 8¾.

Silver.

Bar silver in New York was steady. It sold at ⅛ lower, at 36 cents an ounce.

Gold.

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 per ounce; in London, at 125 shillings and 3 pence.

Dollar.

The United States dollar lost on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.49½ to the English pound; 5.34 cents to the French franc, 32.50 cents to the German mark.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, Aug. 22 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

Wheat Climbs Up With Help Of Rye Spurt

Corn Loses Slightly While Other Grains Advance Late in Drab Day.

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—A sharp advance in rye gave wheat a firmer tone late today and turned prices higher.

Buying by millers and elevators, chiefly removal of hedges, found rye vulnerable, and the price quickly shot up 5 cents a bushel, May going to 82⅝ cents, the maximum advance permitted in one day. This also carried wheat up, the December delivery touching 97 cents before profit taking wiped out almost 1½ cents of the gain. Corn failed to follow and was easy at the close.

Wheat finished firmer, ⅜ to 1¾ cents higher than yesterday's close and somewhat under the day's peak; Corn easy, ⅜ to ⅝ lower; oats, ½ to ¾ higher; rye, 4½ to 4⅞ up, and provisions steady to 15 cents advanced.

Conflicting Political News.

Previous to the upswing in rye, all grains had more or less marked time most of the session. What little news there was proved drab and the market had settled down to almost a standstill.

Trade dragged along as brokers pondered the conflicting political developments bearing on the international grain situation. An American delegate to the international wheat conference said the United States had no intention of dumping surplus wheat, but this was promptly denied by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace who reiterated his previous statement to the contrary.

Heavy rains over parts of Kansas where drought and heat have prevailed for so long had little effect on the market as unofficial experts said that subsoil moisture in those regions was yet deficient. However, the rains were thought to have been heavy enough to aid seed bed preparation.

The late advance, which was more than 2½ cents a bushel in wheat, had a little stimulus from a statement by a Chicago expert that the Government's estimate of old wheat carryover was too high, that not enough provision had been made for wheat sold by smaller holders.

Corn Closes Lower.

Corn proved the exception, closing fractionally lower in light trade and an erratic market. Some rains were reported in the West, but the territory that required moisture, chiefly east of the Mississippi River, received none. Some traders ascribe uncertainty in corn to a lack of belief as to the outcome of the Government's purchases of hogs.

Oats were active. Covering by early sellers brought gains at the close of more than ½-cent a bushel. Previously oats had swung in a narrow range of only ½-cent a bushel.

Provisions firmed in sympathy with the rise in wheat and rye.

Exports of Vancouver Grain Makes Record

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 22 (Spl.). The grain season of 1932-1933 for the Port of Vancouver officially closed at midnight July 31 after having created a new all-time record for the port.

From August 1, 1932, to July 31, 1933, 97,000,000 bushels of grain were handled for export through the port, according to the Canadian National Railways. This exceeds by about 1,500,000 bushels the best previous record, which was 1928-1929.

U. S. Dollar Steady On Foreign Marts

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The American dollar was moderately firm today in extremely quiet foreign exchange trading. Dealers said the market was unusually thin, but that there were no signs of rumored "stabilization" of dollar rates.

The British pound sterling sagged 1½ cents at $4.49½ for cables, the French franc eased .01 of a cent at 5.34 cents, Dutch guilders were off one-fifth of a cent at 55.05 cents, Swiss francs, Belgian belgas, the Scandinavians, Canadian dollars and Far Eastern currencies were a trifle lower.

The dollar, in terms of the French gold franc, was valued today at approximately 73.41 cents, compared with 73.27 cents yesterday, and 72.12 cents a month ago.

Standard Oil Family Links Being Renewed

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Though their old solidarity is gone, thanks to the dissolution decree of 1911, some Standard Oil companies have been able in the last year or two to effect family reunions with the Government's blessing.

The business of returning to the fold, with reservations and modifications, of course, was started in 1931, when the Vacuum Oil Co. and Standard Oil Co., of New York, both sturdy offshoots of the old Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, merged their organizations to gain wider markets and greater diversification in the production of petroleum products.

Last year, after some talk of consolidation, the Standard Oil Co. of Kansas sold its refinery, along with pipe lines and inventory, to the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. In a strict sense, this deal did not bring the two companies together, although it marked the passing of control of a large part of the Kansas company's property to the Indiana company. Subsequently, a new Kansas Standard Oil Co. was formed to engage primarily in production.

The latest deal, effected only a short time ago, reestablishes close ties between the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and the Socony-Vacuum Corporation, at least in their foreign fields.

Goods Markets.

New York, Aug. 22 (A.P.).—Demand for narrow sheetings improved moderately today. Print cloths held steady; finished cottons were quiet; rayon was firm and quiet; wool goods interest is increasing slowly; silks are quiet; burlaps are in better call for future shipment.

Farmers Grain Corporation Loses $500,000 During Year

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Stockholders of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, huge cooperative marketing agency, were told today that the corporation incurred a loss of about $500,000 for the last year, but that its position was good.

Officials of the corporation declared reports that the company would seek a large Federal loan or might cease operations were "ridiculous." They said the large volume of business transacted last year was indicative of the need for the corporation.

"The 12 months that ended with the corporation's fiscal year on May 31 were the most trying ones in the history of business in this country," said C. E. Huff, president of the corporation. "The corporation came through in even better condition than was anticipated."

George S. Milnor, general manager, said that the corporation still had a favorable balance of nearly $1,000,000 from profits of previous years, despite the loss of 1932-33.

"Its business report for the last fiscal year is as satisfactory as that of many national corporations whose volume of business has been about the same, Milnor said.

Mr. Milnor pointed out that the organization handled a total of 160,754,732 bushels of grain for the year. He said the volume of grain originated by stockholders exceeded that of the previous year.

He said the corporation's position had been improved by elimination of unprofitable branch offices, salary reductions of as much as 40 per cent in the upper brackets, and general adjustments to meet conditions.

The corporation was adversely affected, he said, by low prices, the sudden advance in grain markets, the banking holiday and refusal of the Chicago Board of Trade to allow clearing house privileges either to the corporation or to its agency, the Updike Grain Co.

A terse explanation of the purpose of the cooperative, the marketing of grain with profits therefrom going to the stockholders, also was given at the meeting. The stockholders are 27 regional groups of farm cooperatives which control marketing agencies.

A plea for continued support of cooperative marketing by farmers was made by Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Other speakers included L. J. Taber, of Columbus, Ohio, head of the National Grange, and Cal A. Ward, of Salina, Kans., president of the Kansas Farmers Union.

291,866 Pairs of Shoes To Be Bought for Army

Philadelphia, Aug. 22 (AP).—The Army quartermaster's depot today announced the award of contracts for a total of 291,866 pairs of service shoes to the Brown Shoe Co., of St. Louis, and the Joseph M. Herman Shoe Co., Boston.

The Brown company was given a contract for 40,000 pairs at $3.20 per pair. The Herman company contract calls for 50,000 pairs at $3.13 per pair; 50,000 at $3.18; 50,000 at $3.23; 50,000 at $3.28; 50,000 at $3.33, and 1,866 at $3.38.

Limited Sales Mark Metal Market Trend

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Nonferrous metals were in limited demand in the past week, and while the undertone in some instances was easier, tin quotations rallied from earlier declines owing to firmer sterling exchange.

Wide fluctuations in the latter metal made buyers cautious. Tin supplies here were said to be increasing as a result of large arrivals and afloats. Tin plate mills continued operations at approximately 95 per cent of capacity, with orders on hand said to be sufficient to assure that rate during the next few months.

Filing of a code by copper producers under the NRA was without apparent immediate market effect, with the trade awaiting action by the administration.

Limited Copper Demand.

In the absence of anything more than a limited demand, offerings of moderate quantities at concessions through second hands were reported. Producers held unchanged at the 9-cent basis for electrolytic.

A reduction of 22,000 tons in smelters' stocks of refined lead during July reflected increased shipments and decreased production for the month, leaving the market in a more favorable statistical position.

However, consumers only purchased August needs in moderate quantities at unchanged prices during the week, although some traders were said to have continued active.

Zinc quotations reacted $2 per ton, owing to poor demand from consumers, which led to increased offerings from some quarters. Lower prices failed to stimulate anything more than moderate demand, however, and there was some disposition to await announcement of ore prices at the week-end.

Antimony was easier under lower Chinese offerings, and at the close of the week inquiries had increased, although actual business was still limited.

Insurance Sales Moving Upward

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 22 (Spl.). Statistics on ordinary life insurance just compiled for July show a decided upward trend in insurance sales during the month.

The volume paid for in July was 96 per cent of the July, 1932, sales. This represents the best monthly experience since January, 1932. The general improvement was reflected in every section of the country. With the exception of New Mexico, where conditions remained about the same, every State showed an improvement in July over the first six months' figures.

In the New England section sales gained 6 per cent in July, as compared to July, 1932. Three States in this section, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Maine, contributed increases. In both the North and South East Central sections of the country also sales exceeded those of last July. Out of the 48 States and the District of Columbia, for which figures are received, 17 States showed gains for the month compared to last July. These figures are based on the experience of 79 companies having in force 91 per cent of the total ordinary life insurance outstanding in the United States.

Cotton Regains Slight Losses And Moves Up

10 to 17 Point Rises at Close Appear; December Sells at 9.71.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Slight early declines were followed by advances in cotton today on trade buying and covering promoted by an absence of selling pressure in any material volume and rallies in the grain and stock markets.

Cotton for December delivery after selling off to 9.52 at the start, advanced to 9.75 and closed at 9.71, with the general market ending steady at net advances of 10 to 17 points.

Initial prices were 5 to 9 points lower on Southern selling and liquidation. Offerings were light, however, while the fairly steady showing of Liverpool brought in some buying at the declines and the market soon turned steadier. Unfavorable features in the weather and crop news also led to some increase in the demand.

Advances of 20 Points.

Houses with Wall street connections were a little more active on the buying side toward the close. There also seemed to be a little continental buying on the advance which carried active months about 15 to 20 points net higher.

Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing and a renewal of Southern selling.

Exports today 16,410 making 392,548 so far this season. Port receipts 23,976. U. S. port stocks 2,904,825.

$55,000,000 Pork Aid Plan Starts Today

U. S. Set to Buy 4,000,000 Pigs to Help Farmers; Tax Begins Oct. 1.

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Uncle Sam was preparing today to swap dollars for hogs in an effort to reduce a troublesome surplus and raise farm prices in the corn belt and other pork producing regions.

Tomorrow he will open his pocketbook to buy up to 4,000,000 pigs and a million sows at six Midwest stockyards—Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Paul, Minn., Sioux City, and St. Joseph, Mo. By Monday purchasing will get under way at other markets.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in announcing the plan here last week said it was expected to cost about $55,000,000. The plan will be paid for by a processing tax on pork products beginning October 1.

$4 a Head Premium.

The hope is to eliminate the fall crop of pork and farmers willing to sell sows due to farrow will receive the market price plus a flat premium of $4 a head. By not making usual market deductions on sows, the farmer will benefit another dollar or so, representatives of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration said. The premium for pigs will amount to $2 to $4 a hundred pounds.

"Farmers can sell through their usual channels," said G. B. Thorn, field representative of the administration's corn and hog section.

"At the yards the hogs will be weighed under supervision of a Government inspector, who will see that no runts are included, and that the hogs meet the other specifications. They will then be turned over to the packers who have contracted with the Government to slaughter the hogs."

Will Watch Speculators.

Vigilance will be maintained to see that speculators do not mix very light and very heavy pigs to obtain a favorable average. The big deal is aimed at pigs of from 25 to 100 pounds and sows weighing at least 275 pounds due to farrow soon. The South will receive $3 less a hundredweight for its range stock than will be paid for the Midwest's corn-fed stock.

The start of purchasing will mean that the value of the small farmer's pigpen will be enhanced over night, Mr. Thorn explained. The farmer who has fifteen pigs within the weight limits specified will find they have increased $3 to $4 a hundred pounds in value, or between $30 and $45 for his lot.

Sows he might have sold because of the rising price of feed will be worth from $5 to $5.25 more a head.

It will be required that individual pigs in each lot do not vary more than 30 pounds in weight.

Chicago Is Basing Point.

The Chicago market was made a basing point, with the following prices announced:

Pigs weighing 25 to 30 pounds, $9.50 per 100 pounds; 31 to 35 pounds, $9.25; 36 to 40 pounds, $9.00; 41 to 45 pounds, $8.75; 46 to 50 pounds, $8.50; 51 to 55 pounds, $8.25; 56 to 60 pounds, $8.00; 61 to 65 pounds, $7.75, with an increase of 25 cents for each successive five pounds of weight, so that pigs in the final class—weighing 96 to 100 pounds—will be bought for $6.00.

Prices at the five other markets will be 40 cents a hundred pounds lower than those at Chicago, because of carrying charges, with price differentials for the rest of the live stock centers to be announced later.

The market price, plus a $4 premium, will be paid for sows. The usual "dockage"—a deduction of 40 pounds made for sows which are due to farrow soon—will not be made when the Government buys, Mr. Thorn said. To a market price of $3.25 a hundred, this would add $1.30.

Usual Procedure.

Farmers can follow the usual procedure in sending their hogs to the markets, it was explained, but were cautioned not to sell so far below the Government's prices as to allow exorbitant handling fees for the middlemen.

The Chicago stockyards was made a basing point, and G. B. Thorn, field representative of the corn and hog section of the A. A. A., announced the Government would pay the following prices:

Pigs weighing 25 to 30 pounds, 9.50 cwt; 31-35 pounds, 9.25; 36-40 pounds, 9.00; 41-45 pounds, 8.75; 46 to 50 pounds, 8.50; 51 to 55 pounds, 8.25; 56 to 60 pounds, 8.00; 61 to 65 pounds, 7.75; 66 to 70 pounds, 7.50; 71 to 75 pounds, 7.25.

For pigs weighing 76 to 80 pounds the announced price was 7.00; 81 to 85 pounds, 6.75; 86 to 90 pounds, 6.50; 91 to 95 pounds, 6.25, and 96 to 100 pounds, 6.00.

In all markets except Chicago, the prices will be 40 cents per 100 pounds lower than at the Chicago basing point. Other basing points might be announced later, Mr. Thorn said.

For sows, of which the Agricultural Administration planned to buy 1,000,000 head, the price will be the current market quotations, plus $4 premium, and without the customary deduction because the sows are due to farrow. This adds 40 pounds to the market payment, Mr. Thorn explained.

No Runts Bought.

Runts will not be bought, he said, and the South's "razorbacks" or "range pigs" will be bought in at $3 per 100 pounds below the basing point schedules.

Prices will be made on the basis of the average weight of the lot shipped, but to prevent speculators from mixing very light and very heavy pigs to obtain a favorable average weight for the shipment, the administration will require that individual pigs in each lot must not vary more than 30 pounds in weight, Mr. Thorn said.

Four million pigs of from 25 to 100 pounds will be bought under the relief plan, along with 1,000,000 sows with a minimum weight of 275 pounds due to farrow soon. It may be required, Mr. Thorn said, that the sows be due to farrow within three or four weeks.

Helen Hayes Renounces Films and Exhorts Stage Stars to Return to Theater

Cinema Should Pay Theater a Toll, Her View

Sacrifices Her Own Bonus. Garbo's Rivals Filmed; About Showshops.

Helen Hayes has renounced the cinema.

It may be only a temporary abjuration of Hollywood's abundant largess to which Miss Hayes is inspired, to be sure, but, while it lasts, it is emphatic and a little farther reaching than such sacrificial gestures usually are.

As this gifted young woman, recognized as one of Washington's most brilliant contributions to the stellar ranks of Broadway, sits impatiently in New York, awaiting final determination of whether she will appear on the new season's stage in Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland," for the Theater Guild, or in a play, still unchosen, for Gilbert Miller, who produced Molnar's "The Good Fairy," with Miss Hayes as the star two years ago, her zeal for the parent theater not only prompts a vigorous renunciation of the motion picture as a permanent medium for her artistry, but encompasses a challenge to all other theater-trained movie stars similarly to desert the celluloids.

"Hollywood should be made to pay its toll to the theater," Miss Hayes is reported as having said no longer ago than yesterday.

"There are, I don't know how many actors, actresses and authors in Hollywood who owe their expensive contracts to the success they achieved in the theater. They have cashed in on that success in motion pictures.

"To keep the scale balanced, these people should voluntarily pay a tax to the theater, if in no other way, by returning to it regularly, even at the cost of high Hollywood salaries. The citizens of the United States pay a tax to the government to maintain schools. Well, the theater has been our school—our mother—everything. We shouldn't let it struggle along alone, now that death threatens it, without us."

Sacrificed Bonus.

In this connection, and at this juncture, it might be cited that Miss Hayes' decision to end her two-year truancy from Broadway cost her a bonus of four weeks' salary—a sum which runs into four excessively attractive figures—which was offered her to return to the West Coast immediately to make a film called "Wicked Woman."

"The loss of that bonus is part of my tax," Miss Hayes insists. "I hope to be able to make Hollywood pay the rest of its toll by using the 'movie name' the screen has given me to lure into the theater many people who will attend a play only out of curiosity to see a 'movie star' in the flesh.

"Then they may go to see other plays, even though movie stars may not be in them.

"If the Gorge Arlisses, the Ann Hardings and the Lionel and John Barrymores should do the same thing I am doing, and that others have done, there would be no need to worry about the rejuvenation of the theater. In a year it would be completely rejuvenated."

All very true. But not all artists feel so deep a devotion for the ancient and honorable institution from whose loins they sprang. Theoretically, they agree wholly with Miss Hayes' sentimental and staunch adherence to the older art.

Then the Hollywood paymaster jingles his bags of gold and the stuff's all off!

Confirming the announcement made exclusively in this column yesterday, it is officially stated by the Warner Brothers executives in the Capital that after 145 to her credit as mistress of ceremonies at the Earle Theater, with only a brief vacation now and then at widely separated intervals, Maxine Doyle will leave September 1 for a six weeks' leave of absence, to be spent in her native California.

John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner Brothers interests in the Washington territory, assures the theatergoing public, who have come to regard Maxine as a permanent fixture at the Earle, that she will positively be back at the end of her month-and-a-half holiday.

What manner of substitute will be provided during her absence has not as yet been determined.

Miss Harvey's Odd Dilemma.

As one goes about assembling these vagrant notes on the state of the cinema and the theater, it comes to light that Lilian Harvey, a European importation now decorating the Fox lot on the West Coast, has encountered one of the odd quirks of her profession.

It seems that Miss Harvey's first Hollywood picture—she has been seen in numerous releases made on the other side—will not be released until after her second has been shown, following somewhat in effect, if not in spirit, the Biblical pronouncement that "the last shall be first and the first shall be last."

The reason for this reversal is said to be that "My Lips Betray," which costars Miss Harvey and John Boles, possesses too many of the aspects of a foreign production. "My Weakness," the second Harvey film, in which she is costarred with Lew Ayres, on the other hand, is American in all respects. The studio reasons that it will be better business to introduce this foreign star in a strictly American-type picture than in any other.

Preview Omitted.

That is the studio's story, even if it is stuck with it—as seems not impossible. Word is being bruited about the better places that "My Lips Betray" is not quite up to par. The usual preview for the press was omitted when the picture was completed, although some of the English trade journals carry reviews of the subject—English interest in Miss Harvey's career still running comparatively high—which are not too superlatively complimentary.

Then there is another sales point in favor of "My Weakness." It will be recalled that this was the film in which Will Rogers' daughter, under the name of Mary Howard, stepped out and got herself an engagement without parental or other assistance than her own fitness for a screen career.

Something punny no doubt could be done with those two Harvey titles since "My Weakness" turns out to be the strong one and "My Lips Betray" certainly did!

"Points With Pride."

The little city of Gettysburg, Pa., points with pride not alone to its importance in national history and the glory of its battlefield. It boasts, too, that John D. Lippy is one of its native sons.

Mr. Lippy is that suave and distiguished appearing member of the cast of the "Going Native" revue, occupying the stage at Loew's Fox this week, who produces dry confetti from a mess of wet tissue paper, makes water disappear into thin air and does other mystifying things as the program's master of black art.

When Lippy is not performing feats of magic, he follows his occupation as a chemist here in the National Capital. However, he has been on the stage before, having for many seasons toured the country with his own show.

At the last Easter party on the White House lawn, the little guests sat enthralled at the mysterious exhibition of his wizardry afforded them by Mr. Lippy. He also has written two books on magic, has been decorated by the Magic Society of France and been made a "White Medicine Man" by the Hopi Indians.

It is hoped that this last-named Hopi business entailed the swallowing of no live rattlesnakes by Mr. Lippy, one of the tribe's quaint ceremonials, but if it had to be done, Mr. Lippy undoubtedly could do it, disgorging the clattery reptile a moment later, in all probability, as a Frigidaire, or a V-16 Cadillac, or something equally as surprising both to the Indians and to himself!

Tonight following the last stage performance, by the way, the entire cast of the "Going Native" revue, together with the dramatic desks of the local press, a few visiting firemen and a stray civilian or two, will be the guests of City Manager Carter Barron of Loew's, Inc., and his associate executives at a tasty collation to be spread in the sixth-floor rehearsal hall of the theater, which on other occasions also masquerades as a projection-room. The festivities will include impromptu entertainment, ad libbing and snappy cross-fires and don't you think a pleasant time will not be had by all!

Garbo's Closest Rivals.

Those who sometimes forget that comparisons are odious will have opportunity next week—beginning Friday in both instances—to estimate again the rare endowment of two brilliant young actresses whose talents probably have been compared with Garbo's more frequently than those of any other star's of the screen.

They are, of course, Marlene Dietrich, in "Song of Songs," at the Palace, and Katherine Hepburn, in "Morning Glory," at RKO-Keith's.

From the moment she set foot on these shores, Frau Dietrich was accused of aping Garbo in everything she did—an accusation that seemed from the outset to this typewriter a highly imaginative and fantastic charge.

Certainly it will be completely denied by the Dietrich performance in "Song of Songs," in which she emerges as a creature of exquisite personal beauty and an acting method that suggests nothing of the Swedish seclusionist.

Katherine Hepburn, on the contrary, will always find it difficult not to touch the same springs in human consciousness that are set off by Greta Garbo at her best. This is due to no intentional imitation on the part of the terse and temperamental Miss Hepburn, but solely to the fact that she is imbued with the same strange powers of fascination that make Garbo's real personality so elusive and so ethereal a quality.

The Same Handicaps.

Both achieve a moderate greatness over identical handicaps—angularity and attenuation of figure, a heavy-boned ruggedness of feature, throatiness of voice and an almost total absence of what is usually meant when the word "beauty" is used.

But back of all this, it may be repeated, are elements of greatness that must spring from a common source—illusory qualities, largely intangible and not easily susceptible of accurate cataloguing, that nevertheless contrive to hold every adult consciousness in their grip and leave an indelible impression of a latent power that not one in a million possesses.

Too bad there can not be a Garbo film on view at the same time as these Dietrich-Hepburn vehicles so that we might really see clearly what the shooting has all been about in this three-cornered controversy among the most glamorous trio the contemporary cinema can boast.

Ronald Colman is reported to have given up his idea of making pictures abroad and to have decided to return to Hollywood within a few months. Whether he will again make pictures for Sam Goldwyn and release through United Artists appears to be among a large number of other things not definitely known. After the asperities between Mr. Colman and Mr. Goldwyn's publicity gentlemen, our guess would be not, although Mr. Colman may be of a more forgiving nature.

From the way he has blown hot and cold all summer, the weather man evidently is under the impression that this is a Presidential year!

And try to hook THAT up with the theater in that hour you're trying to slay!

Double Break For Theaters Seen in NRA

Johnson's Aid Points to Higher Pay, More Cash For Box Office.

(Associated Press.)

The "amusement industry" stands to get double benefit from the NRA program, says Sol A. Rosenblatt, deputy recovery administrator assigned to motion pictures, the legitimate theater, circuses, carnivals and other businesses whose destinies are decided at the box office.

"It means shorter hours," he explains. "What will people do in their leisure? Go to movies, to plays and other places of amusement. And with better wages they'll have more ticket money."

But That Isn't All.

That's the outside story. The inside story is this:

"Establishment of fair practice codes will, I believe, stabilize the amusement industry and draw more outside capital into the show business," contends the energetic deputy. "That will mean not only better times for producers, but also more shows—and more jobs for actors and actresses. Thanks to minimum wage regulations, they'll earn more money."

So, through his shrewd eyes, the Blue Eagle is a homing pigeon that can lead the show business back to happy days.

As for the recovery program en toto, Rosenblatt is enthusiastic about it.

"It's the Best Since——"

"It's the most constructive drive this country has launched since——" He stops, reflects. "Well, there's nothing in our history to compare it with."

Sol Rosenblatt is 33, a Nebraskan and a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School. He practiced law in New York until Gen. Hugh S. Johnson asked him to help bring the box office business into the Blue Eagle's domain. He had worked with the movies, the theater and allied interests in a legal way, and his selection was hailed by trade publications as assurance of a square deal.

Barber Is Held In Nurse Death

Itinerant To Be Questioned In Finding of Woman's Mutilated Body.

Exeter, N. H., Aug. 22 (U.P.).—An itinerant barber today was arrested in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Louise Bostello Palmer, 50-year-old nurse whose dismembered body was found beside a Hampton Falls road more than a week ago.

The man described himself as Alfred Teixriran, 34, when he was brought to Exeter police headquarters from Stratham, 4 miles distant.

He said he had been living in various New England communities and had a wife and two children in Fall River, Mass.

Police Chief Elmer R. Chrysler did not divulge what led to Teixriran's arrest. He will be arraigned in Municipal Court here tomorrow.

Authorities have been questioning several men reported to have attended gay parties given by Mrs. Palmer. It is believed Teixriran was the "dark stranger" who, Mrs. Palmer reportedly told a friend, had "tried to date me up."

Argentina and Italy Planning Export Pact

Rome, Aug. 22 (AP).—American meat packers would be affected by a clause which is being prepared for the impending Italo-Argentine commercial treaty, it was learned today.

By the terms of this clause Italy would agree to favor meat export associations owned by Argentina. The purpose, it was explained, is to develop a purely Argentine industry in competition with the large companies financed and controlled from Chicago and London.

London, Aug. 22 (AP).—Perry Osborn, a partner in Redmond & Co., bankers, of New York, and Mrs. Cantrell Belew, of Fort Worth, Tex., were married today at St. columba's Chapel.

Mr. Osborn is the son of Prof. Henry H. Osborn, the scientist. The couple will spend their honeymoon on the continent.

Mexico City, Aug. 22 (U.P.).—The German Chamber of Commerce here today asked its members to submit any evidence they have of a reported Jewish boycott against German imports and against Mexican companies buying German goods.

Code Is Nullified, Strikers Charge

800 Millinery Workers in Cleveland Flay "Quota" System.

Cleveland, Aug. 22 (AP).—As 800 millinery workers walked out of 14 shops on strike today, a spokesman hurled a charge that some manufacturers had instituted a "quota" system of production to nullify provisions of the NRA code he said they signed. An employe, on the other hand, said the code will be "ready in Washington Wednesday."

Jacob Roberts, international organizer for the Cloth Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers' Union, told a mass meeting of strikers about "girls who have come to me with tears in their eyes, tired almost to death, to tell of the 'quota system.'"

Under the quota system, Roberts said, each girl in order to earn the $12 a week minimum wage provided by the NRA code "had to grind out this quota, arbitrarily set by the employer, and if she couldn't do it in her regular working hours, she had to take the work home and do it."

Ohio Editor's Trussed Body Found in River

Coshocton Victim Tied To Plow Point; Head Marked.

Coshocton, Ohio, Aug. 22 (U.P.). The body of Fred S. Wallace, veteran owner and publisher of the Coshocton Tribune, was found weighted down in the Muskingum River tonight by two boys, police reported.

The 61-year-old editor had been missing since Sunday morning, when he left his office after Sunday editions had gone to press.

The body, found 2 miles south of here, was held under water by a plow point and a hammer. The ankles were trussed with wire. Wounds, as if caused by a club, were over an eye and ear.

Wallace was well known throughout the State for his aggressive crusading and independence on political matters.

When he failed to return home a quiet search was begun. His son, Robert B. Wallace, an editorial employe of the Cleveland Press, directed the search. Today police aid was enlisted and searching parties organized.

At first members of the family believed that poor health might have been responsible for a lapse of memory and that he had wandered from the city.

Opposed to this theory was the fact that Wallace's affairs were found in excellent condition. His desk was left in an orderly fashion and his papers were properly filed.

Economic Bloc Policy Decried By Peace Group

Pacific Relations Institute Delegates Point Out Isolation Danger.

Banff, Altamont, Aug. 22 (AP). Representatives from the United States, China and Japan today expressed the belief in a round-table discussion at the Institute of Pacific Relations that the political dangers of the formation of economic blocs outweighed the economic advantages to be gained.

They declared that nations left outside the bloc felt a new isolation, which would result in intensification of nationalism.

Canadian delegates pointed out that the Ottawa agreements did not mean an economic bloc was in process of formation inside the British Commonwealth of Nations.

It was announced that Newton D. Baker, former United States Secretary of War, had been appointed chairman of the council of the institute, succeeding Jerome D. Greene.

Mr. Baker, in a speech acknowledging his selection, declared that public opinion was becoming highly important in governing the world.

Financial reorganization of China also was considered in round-table discussions.

Deltaville Ferry Burns at Its Dock

Deltaville, Va., Aug. 22 (AP).—Fourteen members of the crew escaped unharmed today from the fire that destroyed the ferry Hercules recently pressed into service between Deltaville and Harborton.

Capt. W. T. Hayden ordered the blazing craft cut loose from the dock to prevent damage to the landing pier. The crew was landed safely. A new ferry will be placed in operation at once.

Woman in Hospital; Car Crashes Truck

Frederick, Md., Aug. 22 (Spl.). Mrs. Daniel A. Davies, 40, Wheeling, W. Va., is in the city hospital today with lacerations and bruises after an automobile struck a truck operated by D. M. Kimer, Unionville, Pa., on the west slope of the Catoctin Mountain, near Braddock Heights.

The car, driven by Mr. Davies, skidded on the wet road and hit the truck. Mr. Davies escaped with slight bruises and an occupant of the truck was hurt about the face.

Sheriff Foils Alabama Mobs Seeking Negro

Man Accused in Assault on Woman Guarded at Huntsville.

Huntsville, Ala., Aug. 22 (AP).—Two mobs seeking the same Negro were dispersed here today by peace officers.

But their members threatened to return "a thousand strong" and get Thomas Brown, charged with criminally assaulting a white woman in Decatur. Some of the mob members carried pistols.

The answer of Sheriff Ben Giles was a command that all his deputies stand guard and swing into action at the first sign of violence. The officers were armed with shotguns, pistols and tear gas bombs.

Guardsmen Stand By.

National Guardsmen were told to stand by.

Giles thwarted an attempt of a mob to get Brown early today after the Negro was brought here for safekeeping. Nine automobile loads of men came to town, but Giles escorted them to the county line in two groups.

Late this afternoon another mob came to the jail and demanded that they be allowed to see the Negro. The demand was ignored, and the men went away threatening to return and get Brown.

Brown was arrested yesterday soon after a white woman reported she had been assaulted at Decatur. That's the same little north Alabama city where the retrial of the famous Scottsboro case was held.

Another Negro Killed.

James Royal, another Negro, was shot to death last night near the scene where Brown was arrested.

A crowd gathered at the Decatur Jail last night, but dispersed when authorities satisfied them that Brown was not there.

Films to Tell Of NRA Drive

8,000 Movie Prints Will Show Drama of Present Efforts.

Hollywood, Aug. 22 (AP).—Through the medium of 8,000 films, printed from eight "NRA Featurettes," now in production, the public is to see on the screen the drama of national recovery.

Depicting the human interest elements of the NRA drive, the films are designed to spur reemployment and create additional buying power. Sixteen motion-picture players were enlisted under the "Blue Eagle" banner today to play the roles in the pictures.

They are Constance Cummings, Charles Ruggles, Jimmy Durante, ZaSu Pitts, Louise Fazenda, Lowell Sherman, Edna Mae Oliver, Dick Powell, Alan Dinehart, Mary Boland, El Brendel, Charles Middleton, Sterling Holloway, Edgar Kennedy, Samuel Hines and Slim Summerville.

Joseph Breen, chairman of the production committee of the NRA motion-picture group, said the films will be ready for distribution from New York September 1.

McLaglen Solves Pickfair Problem

Says Both Attained All But Mary Failed to Look Up to Doug.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Victor McLaglen, motion picture actor and former soldier of fortune, analyzed the Mary Pickford-Douglas Fairbanks domestic situation today when he arrived on the Olympic.

"She loves Douglas Fairbanks and he loves her," said McLaglen, speaking of Miss Pickford. "But she attained everything she could ask for, and he did in his way, and the trouble was she didn't look up to Douglas. That's all."

McLaglen, who was en route to California after making a picture in England, said Miss Pickford "is the sweetest woman in Hollywood. None other can touch her."

Tigers Snap Nats' Streak in 9th, 10-8; Yankees Beat Tribe, 4-3

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 22.

IT STRIKES me that this is no time to view with alarm the fact that the Yankees today lopped a full game off Washington's lead in the pennant race. It's difficult to find any flaws in a ball club that has won 13 of its last 14 games, and that 7½-game lead still looks to this department like a written guarantee that the Nats are "IN."

Seven and a half games at this stage of the race is virtually a prohibitive handicap for the Yankees. And the Nats have shown no signs of cracking, while New York is the club that has failed to maintan the pace since Washington came West.

That ball game today is best described as one of those things. When the Nats can't win a game on 15 hits, including seven doubles, the pitchers have a lot to explain. Yet today was the first time in two weeks that the Washington pitching has bogged down. It wasn't in the books to get that kind of hurling every day.

The Ball Stays Hit.

When this Greenberg hits a ball on the nose it stays hit. That home run he socked today in the sixth inning to break a 4-4 tie with a man on base was no bunt. It was a towering fly that was labeled home run from the time it left the bat and cleared the street behind left field by yards, ending up in a woodshed 50 yards beyond the fence.

But that blow was mild compared to Greenberg's sock that broke the 8-8 tie in the ninth and won the ball game. Heinie Manush, playing deep, took one look at the ball as it left the bat, and then dashed for the showers. It was still climbing as it passed over the high screen in left field, bound for Lake Michigan.

It looked like bad strategy by Thomas and Cronin when Greenberg hit that second homer. Thomas already had two balls on the batter and was virtually forced to put it across. He did, and Greenberg put it across the street.

The case of Sam Gray was closed today when he was remanded by Commissioner Landis to serve out his sentence with the last-place Browns in a ruling that upheld the Nats' cancellation of the deal for the pitcher.

And so Gray goes back to the Browns, a victim of his own virtue, for it was the veteran pitcher himself who told Manager Joe Cronin that he was suffering from a sore arm and expressed surprise at the trade.

Because he told the truth, Gray missed out on a cut in the world series and an escape from the cellar club. Honesty is the best policy and probably its own reward, but Gray is fated to wait awhile until he can collect on it.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The Nats have been outfitted with new caps . . . but not because their heads swelled over that 13-game winning streak . . . With Manager McCarthy in the hospital, the Yankees have won their last three games . . . McCarthy is hoping that doesn't give Boss Jake Ruppert an idea . . . Around the circuit they are saying that peace is liable to break out on the Yankees any day now . . . That's the way some of the players have been feeling toward each other . . . Brick Owens was umpiring today, the first time he has worked for the Nats since his foul decision on Gehrig's foul home run in Washington, May 30 . . . But he couldn't do a lot of harm today umpiring in the infield . . . The Nats' winning streak stopped at 13 . . . Which was quite fitting . . . Detroit fans remembered Dave Harris today . . . With a nice salvo of boos for beating Tommy Bridges out of that no-hit game last year when he singled with two out in the ninth . . . And the Nats 16 runs behind.

Gledhill and Vines Win In 3 Sets

National Champion Fails to Extend Self in U. S. Doubles.

By Frank Murphy.

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., Aug. 22 (U.P.).—Paced by Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, of California, the defending titlists, the 12 American and foreign seeded teams swept through the opening round of the national doubles tennis championship today.

The favored dozen combinations lost only five sets among them as the strong field was reduced to an even 16 teams. The only really outstanding pair to drop a set were the veteran George Lott, of Chicago, and lanky Lester Stoeffen, of Los Angeles, third seeded American, who eliminated Ellsworth Davenport, jr., and Robert Kelleher, of New York, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4, 7—5.

The quickest and easiest route into the second round was found by the top-seeded invading team, Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath, of Australia, who won through the default of Thomas Flynn, of Astoria, N. Y., and John Ray, of Boston. The Australians took advantage of the break by practicing at singles.

Vines Plays Lazy Tennis.

Vines, who is interested chiefly in regaining his lost touch before starting defense of his American singles championship at Forest Hills two weeks from today, played lackadaisical tennis as he and Gledhill toyed with two young Portsmouth, N. H., naval lieutenants, James M. Farrin and G. W. Smith, to win by scores of 6—4, 6—1, 6—3.

The most decisive victory of the day was hung up by the American internationalists, Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, who put out E. B. Benedict and D. P. Robinson, local players, 6—1, 6—1, 6—1. Fred Perry, England's No. 1 man, and his countryman, F. H. D. Wilde, likewise had an easy time in disposing of Frank Bowden and Arnold Bruneau, of New York, 6—4, 6—0, 6—4.

Shields and Parker Win.

Frank Shields, of New York, and Frank Parker, of Milwaukee, defeated E. and H. Fuller, of Salem, Mass., 6—2, 6—2, 7—5. Berkeley Bell, of New York, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, defeated Platt Spencer and A. S. D'Arcy, of Boston, 6—3, 6—2, 7—5; Jack Tidball, of Hollywood, and Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, defeated Malcolm Hill and Sam Fitch, of Boston, 2—6, 6—4, 6—1, 3—6, 6—2, and Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, with Dr. Eugene McAuliff, of Yonkers, N. Y., defeated J. B. Fenno and T. E. Jansen, jr., of Boston, 4—6, 6—4, 8—6, 6—2.

Laurel Bouts Scheduled Tonight

Lewis, Southpaw, Will Face Carey Wright in Place of Gomer.

Latter Runs Out on D. C. Slugger; Genaro, Von Reedon Battle.

CHARLEY CORNELL'S life as a matchmaker is just one wrinkled brow after another. The latest wrinkles and newest crop of gray hair is the result of Charley Gomer's sudden discovery that he doesn't care to meet Carey Wright tonight in one of the two eight-rounders scheduled. Charley made up his mind yesterday and Cornell hustled over to Baltimore to put the matter up to the Maryland State Boxing Commission.

Gomer can't be forced into the ring against his will, but in the future he can be kept out, and very likely that is the fate that will befall him. Disappearing on the eve of fights is not unusual for the Baltimorean. It is the third time he has been booked at the Laurel abbatoir and failed to appear.

Patsy Lewis, a hard-hitting southpaw who was educated in the art of knocking 'em cold on Baltimore's South Side, has been substituted for Gomer, so it looks like a tough evening for Mr. Wright after all. Lewis can pitch and catch in good style and will be a worthy foe for the "Fighting Chef." In two fights with Roddy Davis he broke even, winning the first and losing a close decision in the second.

Von Reedon Favorite.

Charley von Reedon's argument with Mickey Genaro is the outstanding bit of fisticuffing on the card, although Henry Irving's scrap with "Big Boy" Smith, the baby skyscraper, will press the headliners for popular favor.

Von Reedon is quoted a 3-1 favorite over Genaro, despite the fact that the lean lad from sunny Florida was not impressive in his two victories over Leroy Dougan. Von Reedon likes opponents who come to him. He'll like Genaro, who comes in, but swinging both fists.

Genaro's record is rather impressive, although he isn't a world beater. A veteran of more than 200 battles, Genaro has won his share and the old chassis is still good for a few more performances.

In addition to Irving's six-round bout with Smith, there will be two four-rounders, Pete Bevens vs. Carl Phillips and Doug Swetnam vs. Baltimore Harry Groves.

Red Sox Twice Bow To White Sox, 8-1, 4-0

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—The White Sox today swept both ends of the first of three consecutive doubleheaders with the Boston Red Sox, Joe Heving shutting out the Bostonians, 4 to 0, on six hits in the nightcap after Ted Lyons' steady and a 15-hit attack against Dusty Rhodes had given Chicago an 8-to-1 decision in the opener.

Braves Win Out In 14th on Homer

Berger Breaks Up Game as Bucs Lose, 5-4; Boston Now Runner-Up.

BOSTON, Aug. 22 (AP).—Wally Berger made only one hit today, but the blow was a screaming home run into the left field bleachers in the fourteenth inning and gave the Boston Braves a 5-to-4 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates and undisputed possession of second place, seven games back of the Giants, who were idle. The defeat dropped the Pirates into a tie for fourth place.

The circuit swat, Berger's twenty-second of the season, gave the Braves their fourth straight over the Corsairs and decided a brilliant pitching duel between Fred Frankhouse, who went the route for Boston, and Waite Hoyt, who went into the box in the fourth after Hal Smith had yielded to a pinch hitter.

Fine Stretch of Hurling.

Al Spohrer, the first man to face Hoyt, walked and then for eight full innings and until one was out in the last of the twelfth, the boy wonder of 15 years ago did not allow a hit or give a base on balls. Then Hal Lee singled, but the next two Braves were easy vicitms. He breezed through the thirteenth, but in the fourteenth, Berger, the first man up, cracked the second ball pitched into a quartering east wind to settle the issue. Incidentally, the hit was the only extra base blow of the game.

Gomez Gives 4 Hits and Fans 10

Dickey's Triple, Single by Sewell Scores Winning Run.

New York Hurler's Wildness Keeps Tribe in Thick of Battle.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22 (AP).—With Vernon Gomez pitching four-hit ball and striking out ten, the New York Yankees today snapped the Cleveland Indians' winning streak at seven games with a 4-to-3 victory and gained a full game on the Nationals, who dropped a decision to the Tigers. The victory left the world champions 7½ games back of the league leaders.

But for Gomez's wildness, the Yankee southpaw would have had a much easier time outpitching Mel Harder. The lanky New York hurler issued six bases on balls, three in the fifth inning when the Indians scored two runs to tie the score. In the eighth he uncorked a wild pitch, which let Earl Averill take second from where he scored on "Bad News" Hale's double to again knot the count.

The Yankees scored the deciding run in the ninth when, with one out, Bill Dickey tripled. Sam Byrd ran for the New York catcher and scored as Joe Sewell, batting for Frank Crosetti, lashed a single to left.

Midseason Interleague Games Proposed for Clubs in Majors

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP).—The reaction among baseball leaders today, especially in the National League, was distinctly favorable to the proposal of William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, for a radical departure in schedule making by which the two big baseball circuits would try out a midseason series of interleague games in 1934.

Officials of four other National League clubs, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, agreed at least that the proposal calls for serious consideration, under existing conditions, as a definite measure to help revive interest and improve finances. Support also came from American Leaguers, but was less general.

Presidents of two clubs, Alva Bradley of Cleveland, and Stephen W. McKeever of Brooklyn, came out flatly in favor of the interleague plan.

"It's a good scheme," McKeever told the Associated Press. "We need some such stimulant and I am in favor of it."

"I heartily agree we should have some system of interleague games," said Bradley. "In fact, I've advocated a definite plan for such games. For instance, I believe interleague games should be worked into the regular schedule, in the middle of the season. Four such games in a season for each team in the league would give the fans a good idea of comparative skill."

Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, declared: "It sounds like an interesting experiment and is well worth looking into. It might increase attendance in both leagues and help take up the mid-season slack that Veeck mentions."

Dodgers Buy Pitcher Leonard From York

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the purchase of Emil Leonard, right-handed pitcher, from York of the New York-Pennsylvania League. He is to report immediately.

With a last-place team Leonard has won 12 games and lost 13 this year.

Browns Keep Gray, Judge Landis Rules

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 22 (Spl.).—Baseball Commisioner Landis today upheld the Washington Club in the Sam Gray case and ordered canceled the deal which sent the veteran St. Louis pitcher to the Nats.

At a hearing attended by President Clark Griffith of the Washington team and Business Manager L. C. McEvoy of the Browns, Landis ruled that the St. Louis club must accept the cancellation of the deal by Griffith a half hour after it was made, when it was learned that Gray was suffering from a sore arm.

Griffith testified that Gray was bought for immediate delivery and use in the game following the day of the deal and his value would be impaired unless Gray was fit to pitch immediately. He testified further that the Browns had failed to inform him of the pitcher's sore arm.

Goslin's Bat Slips; Donovan Ducks

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 22 (Spl.).—"Goose" Goslin's bat slipped from his hands in the third inning of the Washington-Detroit game at Navin Field today and sailed into a front row box in the grand stand, finding its mark on the shoulders of Ed Donovan, secretary to Postmaster General Farley. Donovan is here for a conference with Acting Mayor Frank Couzens. The bat merely grazed Donovan's shoulder and he was unhurt. He showed great agility in getting out of the way of the full force of the flying lumber.

Greenberg's 2d Homer Decides

Washington Rallies Gain Lead Twice; Thomas Yields Big Hit.

Manush Brings Hitting Streak to 29 Games; Weaver Routed.

By Shirley L. Povich,
(Sports Editor of The Post).

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, Aug. 22. That winning streak the Nats carefully nursed into a 13-game growth out here in the West is no more. It was clubbed to death late this afternoon by a blunt instrument in the hands of big Hank Greenberg, Detroit first baseman, and is now a case for the coroner.

Greenberg used a big, brown, second growth ash ball bat to belabor Washington's winning streak into history. He assaulted it with a home run with a man on base in the sixth inning, and returned in the ninth under the same conditions to render the finishing blows with a home run that gave Detroit the ball game, 10 to 8.

Sad it was for the Nats to lose a ball game that they apparently had won twice in a rapid-fire slugfest, and there was no balm in the news from Chicago, where the Yankees unraveled the White Sox and lopped a full game off Washington's lead, which is now deflated to 7½ games.

Nats Twice Take Lead.

That ball game here today would have set the heart of a gargoyle aflutter. The Nats won it twice and lost three times, when the relief pitching of Jack Russell, Al Crowder and Al Thomas proved a relief to nobody but the Tigers.

The two clubs had more ups and downs than a runaway elevator. But the Nats went down three times and only came up twice, which explains the final result.

Washington tied the score at 2-2 in the sixth and fell behind 4-2 before the inning was over. The Nats went ahead, 5-4, in the seventh, and went into the ninth trailing 7-5. They scored three runs in the ninth to take and 8-7 lead and came out of the inning with a 10-8 defeat. It was that kind of a ball game.

They called Al Crowder in to protect that one-run lead in the ninth, and after getting one man out he yielded a double to Fox and a double to Gehringer that tied the score. Cronin dismissed Crowder, called in Al Thomas, and the Nats lost the ball game.

Greenberg Ends Game.

Thomas did nicely by striking out Walker, but there was still Greenberg to contend with. He had hit a single and a homer earlier in the game and after Thomas had pitched two balls to him it looked like a fine place to give him an intentional walk. But the next ball came down the alley and ended up in the alley across the street from the park, while Manush out in left field never bothered to turn and look at the ball as it sailed over his head.

Monte Weaver, seeking his fourth straight win, didn't do so well, and was extracted in the seventh after yielding the Tigers four runs. With the streaks of Weaver and the Nats ended, Heinie Manush alone upheld the streaking department, with a single in the first inning to extend his consecutive game hitting record to 29, with a double and a second single in the latter innings, just to make it more binding.

The Nats had been very heroic until the ninth. With the club trailing, 4-3, in the seventh, Joe Kuhel slammed a single into right field to score two runs. The Tigers came back with three in the eighth, to go two up, and then Buddy Myer came up with two out in the ninth, and the bases full, with the club

Aladdin's Dream Fails to Materialize as Northgalis Wins at Hawthorne Park

Church Star Scores by A Neck

Winner Stalls Off Challenge Near End; Her Elegance Third.

Marooned Lands First Race of Year in Coney Island Feature.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (AP).—Getting up in the final strides, Norman W. Church's Northgalis scored a neck decision over Aladdin's Dream in the top event at Hawthorne today.

Royal Purchase jumped into the lead, but folded up after going a mile and Her Elegance, the favorite, took charge. She could not hang on and Lee Humphries booted Northgalis to the front, where he hung on gamely to stand off a great rush by Aladdin's Dream. The victor raced the mile and a sixteenth in 1:47 1-5 and paid $10.12 in the $2 straight mutuels. Her Elegance landed third.

Marooned Coney Victor.

Coney Island, Aug. 22 (AP).—Making his first start since his unsuccessful invasion of Latonia, the Le Mar Stable's Marooned came into his own this afternoon to account for the Piqua Handicap, programed feature. It marked the first success of the year for the son of Whiskalong and Hazel Spears.

Marooned was favorite in the betting, and after the first quarter gave his backers little reason for concern. Ep, as expected, showed the way for the opening quarter, where Marooned assumed command. The Le Mar gelding held sway to the finish, needing only a light shaking up to withstand the last-quarter challenge of C. C. Van Meter's Joe. Billy Jones, from the stable of R. C. Frakes, closed with a belated rush to grab the show portion of the purse.

Marooned covered the 6 furlongs out of the chute in 1:12 1-5, and paid $4.80 in the $2 mutuels.

Upsets Dominate at Spa.

Saratoga Springs Race Track, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP).—A heavy track, showery weather and a succession of upsets were the order here this afternoon. The first four favorites got little more than clumps of mud from the hoofs of the winners, and the biggest calamity for the talent came in the Champlain Handicap, mile and a furlong feature event. This saw the defeat of Preston Burch's high-class mare Tambour, quoted at 3 to 5. She finished a sprawling third in the bad footing, while victory went to W. S. Kilmer's 3-year-old Sun Archer, held at 4 to 1. The colt just lasted to nose out Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Snapback, a late addition to the entries. Tambour was third, two lengths back.

Sun Archer ran the 9 furlongs in 1:54 flat to collect the prize of $2,870 which went to the winner.

After the race, Jockey Willie Fronk, who rode Snapback, claimed a foul against the winner, but the original result stood.

Horse Dope Probe Figures Post Bonds

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Posting nearly a million dollars worth of real estate as surety for their bonds, seven of the ten race horse owners, managers and track employes, who were indicted last week by a Federal grand jury for illegal possession of narcotics, were released today.

Jack Howard, of Lexington, Ky., prominent turfman and manager for a stable of horses owned by his wife, was the first to surrender today and obtain his release. Others freed on bonds were A. A. Baroni, stable owner; Benjamin Creech, manager of a stable owned by his wife; Hal Price Headley, owner; Dr. Nelson Edward Southard, Louisville veterinarian; Ivan Parke, former jockey, and John Porter Mitchell, Negro exercise boy for Howard. Each bond was placed at $5,000.

"I never shot a horse with dope in my life and I never instructed one of my employes to do so," said Howard. "If on any occasion narcotics were given to any of my horses, it was on the prescription of a licensed veterinarian for an ailment from which the horse was suffering."

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

ROBOTS of mathematics, the most common of which is the adding machine, are for the most part valuable as time savers; their accuracy, of course, is mechanical. In higher mathematics, however, is an other class of calculating machines that deal, not with numbers, but with curves. Some of these machines can be called upon to solve problems that are too complex for the human mind to grasp.

The "product integraph," a small part of which is shown in the drawing above, is located at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The entire machine occupies a long table at which several operators work at the same time at various parts of the device.

This strange robot readily solves second order differential equations. In a few minutes or hours it can complete a problem that would take weeks if done by formal mathematical methods. Then, too, there are problems in higher mathematics that no man can do without the machine. It is used chiefly to solve problems in advanced electrical theory.

"Short," a wire-haired fox terrier in the studios of WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., had the distinction of hearing his own bark after the sound of it had been heard around the world. From Schenectady by short wave the sound went to Holland, then to Java, on to Australia, and back to the studio—a trip of about 24,000 miles.

with Bill Bennings.

Dear Al, Hawthorne, August 22.

Well friend, Mrs. Bennings' fairhaired lad still packs the old punch. Three of my top selections ran second in the first five races and it looked like a bad day. Came the sixth (just the Harvard coming out), and down popped Uncommon Gold. In the seventh, Rowdy Boy did it and then Garrick made it three in a row in the eighth. Mike put over two of three dream horses at Cumberland—Little Wing, $7.60 and Schley B., $22.50. While I was doing my stuff tonight Mike tried to go to sleep but slumber passed him by. However, Mike is generally dreaming when he's awake. So here's some of his picks for tomorrow: Madame Snob, Aella, Gay Pal, Ladino. BILL.

First race—Luna Bright looks like a winning favorite in the opener. Seems to be the speed of the party—a coming out party. Of the other maidens, Fire Star and Special Service appear to be the most promising. Any price is a good one on the top one.

Second race—Le Bruyere is the class of this sprint and I see no reason why the stable should pass up the purse. Gets in with only 105 pounds and this way rigged promises to come sailing home. Gallop Along and Portcodine will be ready if the Bennings choice falls.

Third race—Stroll Along will be covered with mutuel chalk by the time this field parades to the post. Comes off a pair of promising races and certainly figures to take care of these. Texas Knight and Lawyer for the other awards.

Fourth race—Ondott is one that I'm going to try to put over for the boys. This one is oiled and greased and rarin' to go. Stock Market beat a fair field the last time and will be in the thick of the battle. Drombo for the show, which proves I can let this one get in action without putting him on top.

Fifth race—I'm the fellow who staged the wake-up for Royal Blunder. This one was not given the best ride in the world last out and it is my opinion that he can take the measure of Hope to Do and Dusky Devil at this mile and a sixteenth.

Sixth race—Replevin goes for the Bennings onions here. This is a mighty cheap array of talent and I make no guarantee that the field won't pile up at the stretch turn. Slash and Brains to complete the money picture.

Seventh race—Gather closer, fellows. We shall attempt to make Ultramarine do some real running tomorrow afternoon. That is a tough assignment. However, I believe I know something. Prose and Poetry to beat Captain Ed for the show.

Eighth race—And here we have one of those "we-beat-each-other" races. I'll take La Salle, Ed Lark and Eskimo. What's your guess?

Turner May Match Zaharias and Garibaldi for Firemen's Parade Benefit Show

Greek Meets Ray Steele Tomorrow

Promoter Is Awaiting Outcome of Battle at Griffith Stadium.

Match Seems Answer of Customers' Plea for Rough Contest.

GEORGE ZAHARIAS and Gino Garibaldi staged probably the best nonchampionship mat match seen here this season at Griffith Stadium last Thursday night. Zaharias won and, as a result, gets a crack at Ray Steele, hailed as the next champion, in the feature bout on tomorrow's card, while Garibaldi has to be satisfied filling in with Tex Raines in one of the preliminaries.

The battling Italian is not satisfied, however, and Promoter Joe Turner yesterday received a letter from him asking "How come?"

"Maybe I should have matched them again," said Turner yesterday, "but it's too late now, so I'll do the next best thing—I'll book 'em for next week's show."

It so happens that Turner is staging his August 31 bouts for the benefit of the Firemen's Labor Day parade, which means that rassle addicts will be killing two birds with one stone by attending this show. Not only will they be helpng our brave fire fighters have a gala holiday, but they should get guaranteed action for their money while doing so.

Looks Like "Natural."

If there ever was a rassle "natural," it is a Zaharias-Garibaldi bout. The two are as congenial as two strange bulldogs. Last summer they met here and Garibaldi won, although many thought Zaharias was justified in making his ruled-out claim of foul. Last week, in a bout in which everything but the strangle-hold was permitted—and some of these were used—Zaharias won the decision, flopping Garibaldi on his back while he was protesting to Referee Burns because of some plain and fancy kneeing by Zaharias.

At the finish, Garibaldi was so angry that he knocked Burns out of the ring at the finish, had to be held to keep him from attacking Zaharias and then threatened to beat up every one else in sight.

This means that the boys will commit everything but murder when they get together again and, as the taste of a rassle addict seems to run toward legalized torture, the bout should draw many a shekel into the coffers for the hook-and-ladder boys.

Tomorrow's bouts should put both on edge for their fracas next week; that is, provided Zaharias does not get crippled battling Steele. The latter is a rough, tough hombre, who knows what it is all about and, win, lose or draw, Zaharias is sure to have to take plenty of punishment. This bout should be a hummer.

And, while the Greek is having his troubles with Steele, Garibaldi should find his foe, the posing Raines, the softest kind of pickings. In the other bouts on tomorrow's card, Abie Coleman and Bruno Gorisani, fleet and acrobatic, meet in the semifinal, with the preliminaries matching Dr. Karl Sarpolis with Hans Bauer and Swede Olsen with Tom Alley.

Mobile, Springfield Legion Nines Victors

Springfield, Ohio, Aug. 22 (AP).—Teams from Mobile, Ala., and Springfield, Ohio, battled their way through the first round of the Eastern American Legion Junior Baseball tournament before 3,000 fans here today. Springfield will meet Mobile, and Trenton, N. J., will take on Gastonia, N. C., in tomorrow's second round games. The latter two teams held first round byes. Tomorrow's two winners will meet Thursday with a berth in the legion's "little world series" at New Orleans the stake.

Griffiths and Millers Play Sunday in League Feature

"WEE WILLIE" GLASCOE is counting his chickens again, and with a calm certainty and finality that bodes no good for the teams in the Capital City League. The sage of the sandlots is downright positive that his Griffith-Blue Coal nine will win the second half pennant race, and then take the championship series with the Miller Furniture team, repeating his 1924 triumph when he led the far-famed Shamrocks to the city title.

The Griffs have won three straight games in the second half and share the lead with the Stanton Cleaners. Sunday they tackle the Millers, winners of the first half, but just another ball club in the second series. The following week the Griffs clash with the Stantons in a game that virtually will decide the honors. The three games following that are comparatively easy ones, games which the Griffs should win with little difficulty.

"Sure we're gonna win the championship," says Willie. "We did it back in 1924 when Washington won its first pennant, didn't we? Yes, sir! (With much emphasis. The Nationals are going to repeat, and so are we."

Willie was in a seventh heaven when the Nats won their first pennant, in 1924. The Post presented him with ducats for the world series games played in this city, and Willie went down in both team's dugouts, mingled with the players, and saw every game. If you know Mr. Glascoe you can appreciate his contentment. Willie wouldn't have accepted a 12-cyclinder auto in exchange for those tickets.

He envisions another championship for the Nats this year, and a world series, and he's making plans to be there. Willie believes his fortunes run concurrently with Washington's. So its only natural that he expects to win the Capital City League honors while Joe Cronin's gang is nailing the American League pennant up on the flagstaff.

Confidentially, Willie wants to be able to meet Joe Cronin just before the start of the first world series game and say, "Joe, you're all right. That's some ball team you have—something like my boys, full of fight and pep. Yeah! We won our league, too."

He Got Away . . . .

By Jean Monk.

THE big-mouth bass situation is this: Matawoman Creek, Indianhead, no catches; Pomonkey Creek, this side of Indianhead, no catches; Piscataway Creek, Fort Washington, no catches. All in tidewater, Maryland; no license required.

I was at Indianhead last Friday. Called on Commander L. P. Johnson, inspector of ordnance in charge Naval Powder Factory. Not being a fisherman, the commander introduced me to A. D. Wilroy, chief clerk, and J. E. Hiette, recorder of the Labor Board, two real fishermen.

According to Recorder Hiette, C. M. Bryant, a workman in the powder factory, is the ace of bass fishermen at Indianhead. Bryant caught more than 130 last year, and that is three or four times more than the average good bass fisherman will catch at that place in one season.

Makes Inspection Tour.

I met Bryant on my way back at H. E. Cashmore's filling station. He and Cashmore were talking fish when I arrived. Cashmore, however, like Chief Clerk Wilroy, is a salt-water angler, for the most part. Ace of Bass Fisherman Bryant took me on an inspection tour of the creek. Lily pods, grass, water, lily pods, more grass—and this spells bass in any man's language.

The situation can be summed up, however, as follows: Haul-seines are legal in these bass fields. There are six or eight seines at Indian Head, and they work these fields with a devotion that is almost religious. The seines are from 300 to 400 feet long, and the catches run from one to three barrels of bass per haul. One haul last year, the biggest, netted 3,800 large mouth bass.

There is little or no prejudice at Indian Head against the seines. The fish can not be shipped, but they can be sold from door to door and a number of people make their living hauling these seines and peddling the fish. Another goose that lays golden eggs. They are eating their goose, and soon they will have no eggs.

So far this season, practically nothing has been done angling for these fish, either with live or artificial bait. And there won't be any bass fishing to speak of, these men told me, until September and October. That's the big mouth bass season. After the seines reap their annual harvest, hook and line fisherman are welcome to what is left.

A letter from Capt. Brady R. McKay, Point No Point, Md., reads as follows:

"Well, today, August 15, we really caught the blues. Mr. Bailey, from Upper Marlborough, with five others from Baltimore, all Federal prohibition officers, landed 72 blues weighing from 3 to 6 pounds. We had over 250 pounds of bluefish. Lost all our spoons. Had to come ashore and buy more, then went out again.

"Caught 45 first, and the second time, 27. Surely was some sport. They enjoyed the day.

"Last Friday, Mr. George Wible, from Upper Marlboro, caught over 100 hardheads, large ones. Saturday, Miss Helen Boris, with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Van Deares, of Alexandria, caught about 75 big hardheads.

"Sunday, Mr. Hardy and five others caught 100 hardheads and 15 blues, weighing over 4 pounds each. The hardheads are not so plentiful, but still large."

The chumming season is knocking at our door. With the arrival of the large menhaden that are ground up and used for bluefish bait, this sport should soon get under way.

These bunker fish are run through a meat-chopper and turned into a sort of hamburger. After the boat is anchored, as in hardhead fishing, this ground-up fish, known as "chum," is thrown out on the surface of the water, and the abundance of oil in the flesh produces a "slick" on the water.

Larger Fish at Bottom.

Fishermen bait their hooks with slices of this bunker fish, and the hooks are then lowered to the bottom, as in hardhead fishing, or allowed to float out, without sinkers, on the surface of the water. Either scheme is effective, but I noted last year that the smaller bluefish (snappers) were caught on the surface, the larger ones on the bottom.

In trolling, three are company, and four are a crowd. In chumming, however, any number can fish on a boat as in hardhead fishing.

Playground Meet Scheduled Friday

More than 2,000 boy athletes, entrants in the Playground Department's annual city-wide track meet, marked time again today as the affair was postponed again, this time until Friday, because of the turf's soggy condition at Central High School Stadium, scene of the meet.

The "little Olympics" were scheduled yesterday morning, but postponed because of Monday's heavy rain, which turned the track into a quagmire. After inspecting the stadium yesterday, playground officials decided to postpone the games until Friday to insure perfect conditions.

NRA Would Limit Hours Of Caddy

Code Formulated Here to Be Submitted Today By Managers.

CADDIES under 16 years of age would be forbidden from working more than three hours a day or during school hours under a code drawn up yesterday by officers and directors of the Club Managers Association of America at a meeting at the Willard Hotel.

The caddy code will be submitted to the Recovery Administration today, it was announced. The code, however, would leave the older boys under the limitations of the blanket employment agreement.

Under the proposed code, all employes of clubs, both country and city, would be included, with a 48-hour week for women workers and a 56-hour week for men and wage limitations of the blanket agreement.

The club officers, headed by B. E. O'Grady, manager of the Hamilton Club, of Chicago, president, started work on the code after NRA officials informed them that clubs, as employers' of labor, were subject to the recovery act to the same extent as other employers.

The opinion expressed by the administration was contrary to a recent opinion by Livingston Platt, counsel to the United States Golf Association. He interpreted the recovery act as being directed toward industrial and commercial firms and held clubs were not subject to it.

Champions' Shoot Captured by Cheek

Indiana Champ, In Game 3 Years, Cops; Two Pro Titles to Taylor.

Vandalia, Ohio, Aug. 22 (AP).—An automobile salesman from Clinton, Ind., was crowned trapshooting's champion of champions in today's feature event of the Grand American Handicap Tournament—the battle between holders of State titles.

H. L. Cheek, who has been shooting clay targets only three years, outclassed a field of 35 other State champions or runners-up and cracked 197 out of a possible 200 targets to nose out Paul Earle, of Starr, S. C., by a margin of 1.

In another event, John R. Taylor, of Newark, Ohio, competing with other professional shooters, won the North American clay target title in both singles and doubles. In the latter class he had a total of 187.

Immediately after Taylor had won the doubles, he took to the traps again and crashed 197 out of 200 to take the singles crown, won last year by Fred Tomlin, of Glassboro, N. J.

F. L. Lightner, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, won the amateur doubles title with 187, nosing out Ted Renfro, of Dell, Mont., by a single target.

Three Homers Help Macks To Score

McNair, Higgins, Finney Hit for Circuit as Browns Lose, 7-6.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22 (AP).—Philadelphia batters collected three home runs today, while West was the only St. Louis representative to duplicate the feat, and the Athletics won, 7 to 6.

It was the fifth straight defeat for Roger Hornsby's last-place Browns. Two Philadelphia circuit blows came in the eighth. McNair poled the first, Cramer and Foxx scoring ahead of the shortstop.

Browns Rally in Eighth.

Higgins duplicated the feat a moment later with none on base. Finney was the other home run hitter.

Aided by West's homer, the Browns scored five runs in the home half of the eighth, but their rallies then and in the ninth fell just short of victory.

Helen Moody Not Slipping, Rivals Say

Declare Other Players Improved; Rain Again Delays Tourney.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP).—The semifinal rounds in the women's national tennis championships were postponed again today as the rain that forced the girls from the courts yesterday continued without let-up.

Tomorrow, weather permitting, Dorothy Round, British girl, and Helen Jacobs, defending champion, will meet in the last of the singles semifinals and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody will team with Elizabeth Ryan against Miss Round and Mary Heeley in the only doubles semifinal remaining.

Finals will be played Thursday, weather still permitting, with the winner of the Jacobs-Round match meeting Mrs. Moody in the singles climax.

Today's second enforced vacation gave the women players time to discuss the sensation of the tournament so far, the loss of a set for the second time this year by Mrs. Moody in her semifinal conquest of Betty Nuthall Sunday.

The opinion was general that Miss Nuthall's inspired play, rather than any weakness in Mrs. Moody's game that might indicate her ten year reign was ending, had brought about the one set overthrow of form.

"I don't think Miss Nuthall's winning a set means that Mrs. Moody will be easier to beat from now on," Miss Jacobs commented. "Betty played marvelous tennis, better than I've ever seen her play before. Mrs. Moody did very well to win at all."

Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, whose reign as queen of the courts was ended by Mrs. Moody ten years ago, said she coult see no sign of her former rival slipping.

"She's not slipping," remarked the woman whose record of eight national singles titles Mrs. Moody is trying to equal in this tournament. "A few of the other girls are just beginning to catch up with her."

Although Miss Round and Miss Nuthall both have won sets from Mrs. Moody this year, Mrs. Mallory was the last woman player to defeat her. She downed Mrs. Moody at Rye in 1926.

Regatta Chiefs Send Bid to Roosevelt

Chief Executive Invited To Attend President's Cup Boat Races.

ANNOUNCEMENT that President Roosevelt would attend the 1933 President's Cup Regatta was made by John A. Remon, general chairman, yesterday at a luncheon attended by officials and chairmen of the various committees.

Mr. Remon read the letter of M. H. McIntyre, assistant secretary to the President, in which it was stated that the President was keenly interested, of course, in yachting and other aquatic affairs and wanted the regatta to be a great success and indicated, that if at all possible, he would attend this colorful event.

"Open House" Planned.

Dr. Roy Lyman Sexton, commodore of the Corinthian Yacht Club, reported that the board of trustees had voted to hold "open house" on the first day of the President's Cup Regatta, September 28, and extended all officials, chairmen, yachtsmen, lovers of yachting and racing to be present for the most elaborate entertainment program ever staged by a Washington yacht club. Dr. Sexton concluded with "we are going in for this program in a big way; we have already begun redecoration of the Corinthian Yacht Club and grounds, and the experiments with new lighting effects."

Chairman Ramon stated that invitations would be extended Govs. Ritchie of Maryland and Pollard of Virginia for the President's Cup Regatta.

Race Committee Chairman L. Gordon Leech reported to the session that the largest list of runabouts ever to participate in the President's Cup races have registered, and that a similar report is expected to be made with respect to outboards within a few days.

Huntington Planning School of Baseball

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 22 (Spl.). West Virginia is going to have a baseball school designed to stimulate interest in young and ambitious ball players in Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and adjoining States.

The school is to be conducted this fall at Huntington, according to announcement by H. H. Hutton, president of the Huntington Baseball Club, beginning September 1 and continuing until the close of the Midatlantic League season. Johnny Stuart, former major league pitcher and part owner of the Huntington club, will be in charge, assisted by Manager Rabbit Benton, veteran infielder; Milton Rangnow, veteran catcher, and others.

The Huntington officials are expecting approximately 250 prospective ball players to attend the school.

Plans are being made by Harry A. Stansbury, athletic director at West Virginia University, to establish an annual summer coaching school at the university, starting August 28 and continuing until September 9. About 50 mountaineer football, basketball, boxing, wrestling, track and baseball men will assist in demonstrating the systems used by West Virginia coaches.

Program Rained Out.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Inclement weather tonight forced postponement of the Fugazy Bowl Boxing Show until tomorrow night. Varias Milling, Chicago Filipino, and Petey Hayes, New York featherweight, meet in the featured six-rounder.

still a run behind, and delivered a double to left field that rescued the Nats from defeat and gave them an 8-7 margin.

Nats Rally in Ninth.

This 3-run rally of the Nats in the ninth got under way when Schulte and Kuhel rapped out a pair of doubles to start the inning, with Pinch Hitter Dave Harris walking after one run was over. Bucky Harris sent in the left-hander Carl Fischer to relieve Vic Sorrell against Myer, only to see his strategy go awry with Myer's double.

The Tigers kept in the ball game with two runs in the eighth inning by grace of a bit of luck and some bungling by Goose Goslin. A heavy essence of horseshoes overhung their two runs in the eighth.

Detroit went into that eighth trailing, 5 to 4. Gehringer's single to left against Russell to open the inning was legitimate enough, but Walker got a fluke hit when he attempted a sacrifice bunt that took the form of a mild pop over Bluege's head out into left field. Gehringer easily would have been doubled at first had the ball been caught.

But the big blow occurred when Johnny Stone lashed a double against the right field wall to score Gehringer and Walker. A throw to home by Goslin would easily have checked Walker's run, but the Goose instead threw to second base for reasons unknown.

The Nats went down for the third time in that ninth.

The Books.

"BY HOOK or crook I'll write a book," the gifted thinker said; "a book so packed with pregnant fact it will be widely read. I hope to write for men's delight a most uplifting tome, so true and pure it will endure until the cows come home." For years and years, with toil and tears, he struggled at his task, and like a sleuth he hunted truth, and found it, by the cask. He worked at night by candle light, to make his chapters run; he worked by day till old and gray, until his work was done. Then he leaned back in his dim shack to wait for his reward; all kinds of gents who had ten cents would buy it by the cord. All kinds of dames would quit their games of bridge, and kindred fun, and blithely trot to bookstores hot, to buy it by the ton. The time went by and to his eye there came a furtive tear; "Six copies sold," so he was told, by publishers, "this year." Another youth who scorned the truth as being flat and stale, took up his pen one day, and then he wrote a jazzy tale. A giddy toff, he dashed it off in forty hours or less, and people bought that hopeless rot as it came from the press. He lives in state, with income great, and publishers appear on bended knees, and mutter, "Please, another book this year!"

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York—Euphony is the guiding rule when the telephone company selects a name for a new exchange. The telephone engineers, too, are something of sentimentalists, for they always seek to select a name that will describe some distinctive characteristic of the neighborhood which the exchange serves.

For instance, Cathedral is the name of the exchange serving that section of upper Manhattan where the Cathedral of St. John the Divine is located. First, however, they asked the churchmen if they had any objections to the commercial use of this name. They hadn't.

Several of the exchanges are named for old aristocratic New York families. For instance, Schuyler, Audubon, Stuyvesant, Rhinelander and Vanderbilt. Many neighborhood names are appropriated, such as Chelsea, Gramercy, Greenpoint, Murray Hill, Harlem, Fordham and Bowling Green.

Whitehill Exchange was named for the big white house at the foot of Manhattan where Gov. Peter Stuyvesant once lived.

Each new name is tested by operators several thousand times to determine if it has euphony and can be easily understood.

Looking Ahead.

A footloose fellow who gets around Broadway tells me that despite the dull show business this summer, the ticket speculators have not been idle. The "specs," or "hustlers," as they are known in the trade argot, have to be foresighted and far seeing if they expect to garner a few bankrolls by booming up the price of tickets.

Right now they are concentrating on the Army-Notre Dame football game to be played at Yankee Stadium in December. Good or bad weather, this classic is always a sell out.

The speculators, under various names, already are sending in their applications for tickets. They don't get many, but the few that do trickle into their hands bring a good price. Last August one of them invested $500 in tickets and on the day of the game he had collected $1,100.

It is a precarious trade, for many times the speculators buy up a lot of tickets they can't sell.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

How Did You Stand It?

THERE has been considerable surprise at the small increase in commitments to insane asylums since the onset of the depression. Probably there has been none. In many States the number of persons sent to such institutions has not grown. In others the small increase has been offset by the decrease in the number cared for in private institutions. These latter have suffered greatly because so much of their former patronage is not able to continue with them for financial reasons, and is to be found in public institutions.

The comparatively small increase in suicides has also been a matter of remark.

The depression and hard times seem to be causing an improvement in physical health and very little, if any, deterioration in mental health. But it is hard on morals, particularly honesty. The increase in commitments to prisons, jails, and workhouses has been very great. Moral disease is very plainly on the increase because of the financial stress. It seems a little harder to cheat without being caught and there is less money to buy immunity. But, after making allowance, there remains a noticeable spread of moral sickness.

Dr. Karl Menninger undertook to find out what proportion of those coming to his place for mental and emotional disturbance had their trouble caused or precipitated by financial stress, and to compare the rate with that which prevailed prior to 1929. He tried to discriminate between those who seemed to be upset by financial disaster and those who were thought by their friends to have "broken" under financial strain. He also tried to discriminate between those who handled their business poorly because they had early-stage paresis or other mental disease, and those who had investments and were guilty of bad business judgment and who then broke down under the strain of worry.

Studies, similar in most ways, have also been made in Elgin, Ill., and in Massachusetts. Dr. Menninger's studies showed a smaller proportion of breakdowns due to financial worries during the depression years than previously, and the other studies are in substantial accord.

What's the reason? There may be more than one, but one seems fairly certain. Those whoopee, jazz years of the boom times were harder on the competitive minds than these later ones have proved. The thrills of hoping, grasping, striving were hard on the mental fabric. Less excitement has proved more wholesome.

A resignation to do the best possible and to accept what comes has made for equanimity and poise. Yearning, ambition, and exalted aiming and grasping were very hard on the mind.

No. That would not help.

Tammany Quiz Links Rackets And Politicians

Grand Jury Investigates Charges of Medalie Four Are Ruled.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—New York County's grand judy today voted to investigate political-racketeer alliances after United States Attorney Medalie gave it the name of four city politicians he charges are ruled by racketeers. He declined to reveal their names, as the jurors requested.

While Medalie, a Republican, was in the jury room a telegram was received from Chief Justice Frederick Kernochan of the Special Sessions Court offering to testify.

Medalie to Testify.

Medalie and Kernochan were invited to appear before the grand jury after their assertions to the Senate's subcommittee investigating racketeering that politico-racket alliances exist. District Attorney Crain was barred from the jury room while the testimony of Medalie was taken.

Meanwhile, Robert Daru, a former assistant district attorney, who assisted Senator Copeland, chairman of the Senate committee in questioning witnesses, said that "some people infer that he (Medalie) has no proof to substantiate the charge."

Parkhurst Recalled.

Copeland said Medalie's assertions had not been followed by his committee because they had nothing to do with Federal legislation with which the committee is concerned. However, he said the charges were "very interesting."

When the jury called Medalie today it followed a precedent set in 1892, when it ignored the district attorney and summoned Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, anti-Tammany crusader, and listened to his charges the police preyed on organized vice.

School Fund Slash Fought in Virginia

Committee Moves to Reduce Cut by Governor Under Budget Bill.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 22 (AP).—A definite move to override the governor's recommendations and restore half of the appropriation cuts of departments and agencies financed from the general fund was launched today in the House committee on schools and colleges.

After hearing Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State superintendent of public instruction, plead for restoration of at least half of the 30 per cent cut made by the governor, under authority of the budget bill, the committee went on record as urging that the cut be limited to 15 per cent. A subcommittee composed of John Q. Rhodes, committee chairman; Langhorne Jones and W. E. Nelson, will draft a resolution and report back to the full committee tomorrow.

Mrs. Futrell Greets Sister After 40 Years

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 22 (AP).—What the wife of the Governor of Arkansas says to the sister she is visiting here probably would require volumes to record. They had not seen each other for 40 years until today.

Mrs. Tera Futrell, wife of Gov. J. M. Futrell, was accompanied on the visit to Mrs. H. E. Heathington by her son, Dan F. Futrell; her daughter, Mrs. Grady McGull, and her grandchildren, Betty Louise and Mary Frances McGull.

Joke on Chief

Pickpockets Show Limb of the Law They Can Turn the Trick.

Stockton, Calif., Aug. 22 (AP).—Police Chief E. W. Gaddy, of Turlock, is convinced pickpockets plied their trade during the Melon Carnival in Turlock last week.

After many complaints of pocket thefts, Chief Gaddy visited the carnival, carrying in one pocket a bulky wallet in which he placed a note reading, "Did you ever get fooled?"

After an hour the chief returned to his office with the wallet still in his pocket, but his associates revealed that on opening it he found a different note saying, "Quit your kidding."

"Air Pirating" Charge Is Filed Against Texans

Militant Baptist Minister Among 18 Accused By Government.

Lubbock, Tex., Aug. 22 (AP). Eighteen persons were charged here today with violation of the Federal radio law as the Government opened its campaign to stop the operation of "air pirates" in Texas.

Among those charged was the Rev. Sam N. Morris, militant Baptist minister, who operates a radio station in connection with his church at Stamford.

The charges resulted from operation of small unlicensed stations, programs of which were heard across the State line in violation of the Federal law.

Others charged: C. A. Paulger and Joe Stanton, of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Turner and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Meier, of Van Antwerp; Ed Pierce, Curry H. Jackson, Willis Brooks and F. W. Burson, of Plainview; A. F. McClellan, Clevee Langford and Bill Adams, of Stamford; Ed F. Howser and E. W. Brown, of Big Spring.

Penalty for the violation upon conviction is a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment of not more than five years in the penitentiary or both.

Striking Boatmen Routed by Water

Blockade of Seine Cleared by Fire Hose; Strikers Move to Oise River.

Conflans-Ste. Honorine, France, Aug. 22 (AP).—Streaming fire hoses and a concerted drive by marines, police and mounted guards broke up a blockade of the Seine River today by striking boatmen.

Cheered on by their wives and children, the strikers wielded boat-hooks to successfully prevent the attackers from climbing aboard the barges. But the fire hoses proved too much.

Three tugloads of marines and 200 armed policemen entered the fight before 30 barges, strung across the Seine, could be moved. Traffic was tied up for several hundred miles.

The strikers retreated and maintained a blockade of the Oise River above its confluence with the Seine.

The boatmen demanded shorter hours, and those operating horse and tractor towed barges protested against competition of motor-driven craft.

They were invited to a conference with authorities.

State Will Ask 11 Life Terms For Kidnaping

Prosecutor Would Bring Bailey, Desperado, to Court in Cage.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 22 (AP).—Life terms for every one of the eleven suspects in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping, whether principals or accomplices, will be demanded by the Government, Joseph B. Keenan, Special Assistant United States Attorney General, said tonight.

Keenan indicated that Harvey Bailey, held in Dallas, Tex., and considered the "brains" of the Urschel abduction, may not be returned to Oklahoma City for trial until he faces a murder charge in State courts at Kansas City, Mo., in connection with the killing, June 17, of four officers and Frank Nash, their Federal prisoner.

Bailey Identified as Thief.

Bailey was identified at Dallas today as one of the five men who robbed the Central State Bank, of Sherman, Tex., of $32,000 April 7, 1931. Three bank employes positively identified him.

The first contingent of a heavy guard that will watch the Federal grand jury room was placed on duty today.

All the main highways in the east were being watched late today for a sports coupe in which it was believed George Kelly, wanted as one of the kidnapers of Urschel, might be riding. Two women were reported to be traveling with the suspect.

May Be Put in Cage.

George Bates, held in Denver as the other kidnaping suspect, has been turned over to Federal officers and may be brought to Oklahoma City this week. Keenan said he believed it would be a good idea to have Bailey placed in a portable iron cage during his trial, explaining:

"That's my idea of the only way to keep that boy safe. I'd bring him into the courtroom in the cage and set it down at the counsel table. If he wanted to take the stand the cage could be moved to the witness platform."

Long's Magazine To Appear Today

"Kingfish" Will Move Office of Publication to Capital Soon.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 22 (U.P.). Circulars distributed throughout the city tonight announced that the first edition of the American Progress, Senator Huey P. Long's new weekly magazine, will be issued Wednesday.

"Let there be light—live and let live," the circular was headed. It said that the American Progress would be printed at Meridian, Miss., for the present. The publication offices are to be moved to Washington soon.

The magazine will be devoted mainly to discussions of national affairs. John D. Klorer is editor.

West Pine Pay Rolls To Jump $12,000,000

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 22 (AP).—David T. Mason, general manager of the Western Pine Association, said today an increase of $12,000,000 in pay rolls of the Western pine territory is expected under the national recovery code for lumber industries.

"Due to shortened hours, it is believed approximately 5,000 additional men will be required in the Western pine territory to maintain the present volume," he said.

Detective Stories Soothing To Big Minds, Test Shows

Great Men Read 'Em and Relax, Psychologist Explains.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The psychological reason great men and others like detective stories is out—the tales are soothing.

They cut the pulse rate, lower blood pressure and steady motor nerves. Women react to them like the men.

These experiments are published by Ray Mars Simpson, psychologist at the Institute for Juvenile Research, Chicago. His test readers were 40 university students, 24 men and 16 women. Their ages were 18 to 41.

How it Worked.

While wearing attachments to record their physical status, they read detective stories, history, psychology and geography, in 15-minute periods, for six days.

The instruments showed breathing was consistently faster, while reading detective stories, and deeper during exciting than less-exciting tales. But this speeded-up breathing was on a declining rate; the longer they read the slower it dropped.

Pulse Comes Down.

"Reading detective stories," Dr. Simpson states, "tends to reduce the pulse rate more than reading academic material. The blood pressure falls to practically the same final level at the end of 15-minute periods devoted to either detective stories or geography. Motor steadiness is improved more by reading detective stories than by reading history.

"In short, the great majority of detective stories are soothing, rather than exciting. They act as a sedative for tired business men."

Mileage Cut Denied By Virginia House

Comptroller Refuses to Draw Checks Until Attorney Rules.

(Associated Press.)

Richmond, Va., Aug. 22—The Virginia House of Delegates today turned its powerful thumbs down on taking a 30 per cent cut in the ten cents mileage rates paid members for traveling expenses.

But, State Comptroller E. R. Combs said the mileage checks, due tomorrow, will not be drawn until he gets a ruling on the question from the Attorney General.

Meanwhile the Senate finance committee favorably reported the Ferguson joint resolution calling for a 30 per cent cut in the mileage fees, and a 20 per cent cut reduction in pay of all assemblymen. Neither the Ferguson nor any other salary reduction measure has been acted upon by the House.

The House move today came in a resolution by the appropriations committee, later adopted by the entire body.

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Imagine the bewilderment of Darwin Reed, 7, of Amboy, Ill., when some one nabbed him at the gate of the Enchanted Island at the World's Fair today and said: "You are the one-millionth youngster to visit this island!"

After Darwin was greeted by the 7-foot giant and the Enchanted Island clowns, they gave him a coaster wagon and a bicycle as hundreds of kids cheered.

9,000 Insignias Of NRA Posted In Washington

Drive Continues in Capital With More Employers Under Blue Eagle.

Driving to make the Capital the "model city of the Blue Eagle," NRA commanders and aids added yesterday as another of increased achievement.

At headquarters, Thomas P. Littlepage announced nearly 9,000 employers had pledged their support to the program.

Meanwhile, women workers concentrated on planning their campaign—to get a consumer's pledge from every home in the city.

Purposes of Board Cited.

In a statement clarifying the purpose of the District Recovery Board, Ben L. Price said:

"The board is designed by the NRA to act as a board of review for problems which can not be solved otherwise.

"Manifestly, the Recovery Board must serve its purpose not through complaints of individuals at first instance, but through complaints certified to it from recognized committees or organizations which will entertain original jurisdiction of such complaints.

Aid to Self-Government.

"Therefore, problems arising must be taken up originally with a recognized trade or business association, labor union or association with which the employer or employe is a member, or with the President's emergency reemployment campaign committee.

"In other words, it is the aim of the NRA to bring to and maintain self-government within business and industry and to have the Recovery Board and the NRA intervene only where such self-government proves impossible or impracticable."

More Women Named.

Additional captains among women workers were announced yesterday. Mrs. Harry K. Daugherty, major in charge of signing up hotels, appointed the following:

Mrs. William H. King, wife of the senator from Utah; Mrs. Jesse Jones, wife of the chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Mrs. Stanley Reed, wife of the chairman of the Home Loan Bank; Mrs. Edwin P. Morrow, wife of former Gov. Morrow; Mrs. Stephen Puqua, wife of the military attache at Madrid; Mrs. Richard C. Marshall, jr., wife of Gen. Marshall; Mrs. Charles Howry, widow of Judge Howry; Mrs. Royal Johnson, wife of former Representative Johnson; Mrs. Harry E. Hull, wife of the former commissioner of immigration; Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Republican national committeewoman of the District of Columbia; Mrs. Edward Everett Robbins, Mrs. Elonzo Tyner, Mrs. John Bishop, Mrs. Carroll Frasier, Mrs. Guy Johnson, Miss Elisabeth Whitman, Mrs. Robert M. Danford and Mrs. Preston Wooten.

Mrs. Charles S. Schermerhorn, major in charge of apartments, also has listed her captains. They include Mrs. Raymond Hardy, Mrs. Maude Howell Smith, Mrs. George A. Ricker, Mrs. Alexander Kaufmann, Mrs. Helen Stafford Whitton, Miss Lillie Chenowith, Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick Noble and Mrs. Edmund Avery.

Mrs. C. W. Sheriff, captain of the Benning workers, has named as lieutenants Mrs. D. K. Herbert, Miss Della Susky, Mrs. Frank James, Mrs. Minnie Barnes, Mrs. Peter Oliver, Mrs. John Hafey, Mrs. E. Sparrow, Mrs. Darrow, Mrs. Spitser and Mrs. George Peacock.

Shoe Rebuilders Meet.

The Master Shoe Rebuilders Association gathered, 300 strong, yesterday at the Jewish Community Center and approved the blanket code for their business. They were addressed by Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, and Robert H. Yorkdale, of the Farm Credit Corporation. Tony Guiffre is president of the association.

NRA Parade Is Planned.

District officials yesterday assured cooperation in the National Recovery Day celebration and parade.

At the luncheon, given for the committee by Fred Buchholz, vice chairman, Albert Clyde Burton, assistant superintendent of National Parks, said arrangements had been made to rope off the necesary streets.

Additional entries of business floats continued to pour into committee headquarters at the Shoreham Building yesterday. Several firms announced their intention to enter more than one float.

Oil Stations Adopt Code.

The petroleum code recently sanctioned by the President was approved yesterday by the Service Station Division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association and ordered into immediate effect.

It provides a 48-hour week for filling station attendants with a $14.50 minimum wage. The code also states that all sales shall be made at posted prices.

The automobile maintenance garage owners last night voted to organize as the Automobile Maintenance Division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association and submit a code to the NRA.

George Keneipp was elected temporary chairman and A. L. Sinclair, jr., temporary secretary, until the meeting Monday, when permanent officers will be elected.

Legion Victory Post Elects Jones Chief

Oscar G. Jones was elected commander of Victory Post of the American Legion at its meeting last night.

Other officers named were John T. O'Brien, first vice commander; Michael A. Foley, second vice commander; Vincent J. Wintermyer, third vice commander; A. N. Schroeder, chaplain; George Jigger, sergeant at arms; Allen Hines, color guard and quartermaster, and C. E. Lanahan, color bearer.

Traffic Light Extension Program Moves Ahead

Plans to place traffic lights on virtually every Pennsylvania avenue intersection west of John Marshall place moved forward yesterday when signals went into operation at Twenty-ninth and M streets, where the avenue ends.

Officials including Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police; William A. Van Duzer, traffic director; Inspecter B. A. Lamb, head of the traffic bureau, and Capt. Maurice Collins, commander of the Seventh Precinct, were present when the lights flashed on at 10 a. m.

Famous Hotels Prepare for Day Dry Law Ends

Post Staff Photos.

Two of Washington's once famous hotel bars as they appear today. In the top picture E. C. Owen, manager of the Raleigh, and J. B. Gooding, his assistant, are sampling beer the Government allows them to sell along with ice cream sodas. Below, all that remains of the Willard bar, now used as a serving counter in the cafeteria.

Managers, However, Halt Outlay to Find What Folk Now Drink.

What will the new generation drink when and if the country goes wet?

That's what every hotel manager in Washington would like to know. All are agreed that early repeal seems certain. Equally unanimous are they that the end of prohibition will set their cash registers ringing as they seldom have rung since 1919.

But until they know how the younger generation will take to the wines, brandies and whiskies of their fathers they are unwilling to invest heavily in the things it takes to serve a thirsty clientele.

"It's a job for the Nation's advertisers," said George E. Allen, general manager of the Wardman Park and Carlton Hotels. "It's up to them to tell the public what to prefer and when red wine or white, champagne or burgundy, sherry, cognac or Scotch. The postprohibition generations don't know. Many of their elders have forgotten. It's as though chewing gum had been taken off the market for a decade and then suddenly returned for sale without advertising campaigns to make the public pepsin conscious."

Another factor making hotel operators chary of commitments for drinking fixtures and beverages is the uncertainty concerning the Government's plans for liquor control. Salesmen anxious to take orders for bars, barroom fixtures, glasses, even warehouse certificates entitling the holder to a consignment of liquor as soon as the twentieth amendment is ratified and promulgated, frequently are callers at hotel offices. Always they are met with the same answer, "No."

Developments Awaited.

"Until we know how the Government is going to handle the liquor, whether or not bars will be legal, no hotel manager is going to gamble on contracting for liquor or supplies now, regardless of what they tell us about a shortage of bonded liquor," was how Harry P. Somerville, manager of the Willard, summed up the situation.

R. L. Pollio, manager of the Mayflower, appeared to be the only hotel manager who had anything but "no" to say to salesmen. He has agreed to buy several thousand dollars' worth of wine, cocktail and liqueur glasses whenever repeal becomes effective.

The others, including Nathan Sinrot, of the Hay-Adams; Roland Mumford, of the Hamilton; Arthur Harnett, of the Powhatan; L. Gardner Moore, of the Shoreham, and S. E. Bonneville, of the Washington, were "waiting to see what happens." None, however, appeared upset over prohibition's probable repeal. Even the Lafayette, dry citadel of the preprohibition days and Washington residence of the late William Jennings Bryan, now serves beer.

Wine Steward Available.

Liquor service salesmen, however, do not worry E. C. Owen, the Raleigh's manager. That hotel's once famous bar, thinly disguised as a soda fountain, stands just where it did the day the country went dry, brass rail, wine racks and all, worth some $25,000 and more than 30 years old. In the hotel's basement is stored its preprohibition glassware. In the person of the manager's brother, J. O. Owen, now house steward, the hotel's former wine steward also is available.

Ready for use, too, is E. R. Jacobson, for more than 15 years the Willard's wine steward, now in charge of its laundry. Pennsylvania avenue once knew Jacobson as an ardent mixer of cocktails.

Hotel men expect wines and liquors to sell at about their preprohibition levels. Salesmen are offering whisky for future delivery at $45 a case.

Girl, 14, Gives Police a Hand; Man Captured

Liquor Suspect Is Caught After Child Chases Him from Home.

A suspected rum-runner, fleeing two policemen, picked the wrong place to hide yesterday.

In an alley at the rear of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Graham, 1328 North Capitol street, he leaped from his car and ran into the backyard. There he met trouble with a capital T.

Girl Pursues Him.

Trouble came in the form of the Grahams' 14-year-old daughter, Mary Jane. The fleeing man pushed past her and darted into the house. Mary Jane was close behind.

Screaming for him to "get out," Mary Jane kicked and struck at the intruder. She grabbed his coat, but he broke away. Upstairs the youngster again overtook him. This time she went into action on a large scale.

Intruder Says "Nuff."

The intruder had enough. With Mary Jane's cries still ringing in his ears he ran into the street. The pursuing policemen, William McEwen and George C. Deyoe, of the vice squad, were on hand and took up the chase again.

Several blocks away the man was overtaken. He said he was James Hayes, colored, 30, of 1417 Sixth street northwest. He was charged at the First Precinct Station with illegal possession of liquor. Police said they found 60 quarts of whisky in his car. He also faces charges of having no driver's permit or registration card.

Jobless Man Cuts Wrist in Park

W. L. Nelson in Serious Condition After Using Blade.

William L. Nelson, 40, of 1310 D street southeast, was found lying in Lincoln Park last night, bleeding from a deep gash in his wrist.

Park police hailed a car driven by Vance Sykes, 1235 C street northeast, and he was taken to Gallinger Hospital, where he told attendants he had become despondent over his inability to find employment and had slashed his wrist with a razor blade.

His condition was described as serious.

Fire Department Trial Board Reconstituted

Membership on the trial board of the Fire Department was changed yesterday by order of the District Commissioners in accordance with custom.

The new board consists of Deputy Chief Engineer C. E. Schrom, chairman; Battalion Chief A. C. Buscher and Capt. M. H. Hutton. Alternates are Battalion Chiefs H. B. Barker and P. J. Sullivan and Capts. R. E. S. Boss, J. L. Werheim, A. J. Lipske and G. W. Smith.

Son of Bandits' Victim Accused As Holdup Aid

Police Say Youth Admits Plot With Two Who Slugged Parent.

Edward H. Smith, 23, of 407 M street northwest, was arrested yesterday, charged with participation in the robbery of his father, Jesse Smith, last Thursday near the Union Terminal Market.

Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley said young Smith confessed to having conspired with the two men who robbed his father.

Charles Levister, 23, and John J. Lynch, 21, are being held. The elder Smith accuses them of the robbery.

The father was slugged and robbed of $350 by two men who followed him from his home. Smith previously had reported to police that he was suspicious of two men who had been following him. Police furnished him with a guard, but the officers left him when they were satisfied there was no more danger. Five minutes later the robbery took place.

Columbia Heights Hits School Plan

Protest Petition Signed By Parents Will Go to Commissioners.

A sharp protest against the proposed changing of Johnson Elementary School to a junior high school was voiced in a resolution at a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association.

Following a petition and protest signed by mothers of children attending the Johnson School and the taxpayers and residents of Columbia Heights, it was stated that students would be compelled to travel long distances to other schools and cross dangerous highways at the busiest time of the day. The association committee acted to suppress the proposed change.

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the chairman of the Senate and House District Committee, the Board of Education and the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Bridge Design Favoritism Is Laid to Gotwals

Totten Asserts Engineer Gave $60,000 Job to Old Friends.

Maj. George Oakley Totten, jr., whose design for a new Calvert Street Bridge has been shelved by the District Commissioners, yesterday replied to Engineer Commissioner Gotwals' 22-page review of the 17-year controversy reported in last Sunday's Washington Post.

Charging that Maj. Gotwals' "statements are misleading," Maj. Totten asserted that the Fine Arts Commission actually had given its "preliminary approval" to his design September 10, 1917. This, he said, was not mentioned by Maj. Gotwals.

Moreover, he said that at the meeting of the Fine Arts Commission on July 28 last, "it was quite evident that the Totten design met the general approval of the various civic associations" and the commission's report called for a multiple arch masonry bridge, "which in a general way describes the Totten design."

Gotwals' "Old Friends."

Declaring that he constantly had the Taft Bridge in mind when designing the Calvert Street Bridge plan, Maj. Totten said that in 1931, when he called on the Engineer Commissioner and asked why an appropriation had been obtained for a new design, Maj. Gotwals replied: "I never heard of your design." A 5-foot drawing of the bridge was at that time in the office of the engineer of bridges, Maj. Totten said.

"Maj. Gotwals is trying hard to justify himself for having given a $60,000 job to old friends," Maj. Totten stated, "for he stated at the hearing in the District Building that Mojeski, Masters & Chase had designed bridges for him in Alaska."

Accuses Commissioners.

Maj. Totten repeated his statement that the Cranford Co., of Washington, had estimated that it could construct the bridge from Totten's design for $1,115,000, which is $150,000 under the authorization. He further stated that his architectural drawings are in such shape that contracts for excavations of the piers could be let at once.

Maj. Totten, after recalling that Mojeski, Masters & Chase was paid $30,000 for structural drawings on top of $30,000 for preliminary plans, whereas he was paid but $4,000 for a preliminary drawing and offered to prepare detail plans for from $10,000 to $15,000, asked:

"Was Mojeski, Masters & Chase overpaid, or was I underpaid?"

The Washington architect also charged a breach of ethics on the part of the Commissioners. He declared that he was appointed architect for the Calvert Street Bridge in 1917 and "this appointment was never revoked."

D. C. Employes Receive $15,554.79 for Hurts

Compensation totalling $15,554.79 was awarded 174 District employes for temporary injuries during the last fiscal year, Edward S. Dawson, inspector of claims, reported yesterday to the District Commissioners.

Ten permanently injured employes were awarded $7,185.06 and 11 widows and seven dependents were given $4,980.06. Total expenditures under the fund, including amounts paid hospitals, physicians and nurses, amounted to $35,296.81.

The refuse department led the list with 58 injuries, and the emergency relief division came second with 34. Rejections of applications for compensation from the latter division numbered 167.

New Estate Tax Rate Brings in More Money

A total of $7,856,003 was turned into the Internal Revenue Bureau for July under the new high rates on estate taxes established a year ago, it was announced yesterday.

July was the first month for which estate taxes were payable under the higher rates. The revenue represented more than one-fourth of the total collected in 1933 under old levies.

Low Ceilings Baffle Pigeons

After flying in the front door of the Byron S. Adams Printing Co., 512 Eleventh street northwest, and making a forced landing on a counter in the office, this homing pigeon hung around long enough yesterday for a photographer to find a girl willing to pose with it for a picture. The girl is Ann Walsh, of 1213 Farragut street. A band on the pigeon's leg identified it as having once been the property of a Baltimore pet store. Similarly distressed by poor flying conditions, another pigeon took refuge in the offices of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department. Its band indicated ownership by Edward Schmid, 712 Twelfth street northwest. It hopped off after resting for several hours.

NRA Reduces Charity Work Week and Pay

Jobs Fail to Increase, However, and Fund Makes Up Deficit.

The National Recovery Act is having a peculiar effect on the District's emergency relief work, Leroy A. Halbert, director, revealed yesterday.

To comply with regulations the Federal Relief Administration under the NRA, the District division has done away with the five-day week on the laboring jobs created for the unemployed. Yet the action has not provided any additional relief or work.

Instead, the division has had to supplement with grocery orders the weekly pay of workers who have been cut to a four-day week.

10,000 Workers Hit.

Actually, only a few score of the 10,000 workers engaged by the relief division have been affected by the Federal order that relief employes may not work but 35 hours a week nor more than 8 hours a day. Only the heads of very large families are granted as much as a five-day job at 35 cents an hour.

Some of the unemployed had been given five days work one week and three days or less the second. In such cases the week has been set at four days.

"In no instance is any relief employe receiving less aid from us, even though his weekly pay may have been cut," Halbert said. "Whatever he has lost on the pay roll we make up with grocery orders."

Office Aids Exempt.

The 35-hour week does not apply to the several score of relief recipients enrolled as case workers, investigators, accountants, clerks and stenographers in relief headquarters. These employes are on a 40-hour week with a minimum wage of $15. However, the division has drafted a new scale, with a minimum of $16.58 a week, which will be submitted to the Commissioners Friday.

The minimum wage scale for laborers established by the Federal Relief Administration is 10 cents an hour under the minimum set by the NRA.

The relief agency states the wage scale must be 30 cents an hour or more and advises wages in accord with the local scale. Contractors who work on projects financed by the Public Works Administration must pay common laborers 40 cents an hour and skilled laborers 60 cents.

Office Building Goes to Smoot; Bids $25,000

Gravel Firm Head Also Assumes Obligations Of $1,455,000.

The Southern, nine-story office building at the northeast corner of Fifteenth and H streets northwest, was sold at auction yesterday to L. E. Smoot, chairman of the board, Smoot Sand and Gravel Corporation.

Mr. Smoot, whose bid of $25,000 was the only one offered, acquires the building subject to a prior deed of trust of $1,455,000, interest and taxes, making the purchase price more than $1,480,000. The purchaser said he represented himself in the transaction.

The sale was advertised by Donald M. McNeale and the National Savings & Trust Co., trustees. Vernon G. Owen was the auctioneer.

This well-known building in the financial section was erected in 1910 for the Southern Building Corporation. D. H. Burnham & Co. were its architects and the Thompson-Sterrett Co. its builders. It is constructed of steel, brick and terra cotta and has a width of 150 feet and a depth of approximately 149 feet. Its estimated cost was approximately $1,000,000. Its current assessed valuation is $2,217,220, of which $884,500 represents building and $1,332,720, land.

Constructed on the site of the former St. Matthew's Church, it was launched by a group of patriotic and philanthropic Southerners to erect in the National Capital a building which would promote the enterprise of the South. This movement was described as the Southern Commercial Congress.
